DEVICE DISCLAIMER

The device is to be used as a Biofeedback device. It is designed for stress reduction, relaxation training and muscle re-education. The device does not diagnose anyone. The system is calibrated to measure the fine and subtle electrical reactions. Trained staff should use this device. No claims are made of the system or its results, and nothing that the practitioner does is meant to either diagnose or treat any illness or disease. Use of the Biofeedback device is not intended to replace any treatment from a medical doctor. One should always follow the advice of their doctor.

USE OF PROTOCOLS

The stress reduction training exercises contained herein are not designed to run for periods exceeding approximately one hour, or with more frequency than once per week. Practitioner judgment should be exercised in determining the length and frequency of running the stress reduction training exercises.

THE QUANTUM ACADEMIES BIOFEEDBACK TRAINING PROGRAM

Program: Certified Biofeedback Specialist

Number of Courses: 5

Program Duration: 120 hours

BIOFEEDBACK TRAINING PROGRAM IS COMPRISED OF 5 ONLINE COURSES

- 1) Biofeedback Theory Course ✨ Updated for 2015 ✨
- 2) Beginners Course for Clasp32/Eductor64 ✨ Updated for 2015 ✨
- 3) Coaching Course
- 4) Anatomy and Physiology Course
- 5) Advanced Course for Clasp32/Eductor64 ✨ Updated for 2015 ✨

Below is a brief description for the five courses that comprise the biofeedback training program. It takes approximately 120 hours for one to go through our Certified Biofeedback Specialist certification training program. It is comprised of videos, manuals, homework assignments to turn it and an exam at the end of each course.

1) Biofeedback Theory Course

Online Training Recorded in 2015

- This is a 10 hour course
- Includes 18 online videos
- 804 page manual
- An online exam to test for competency

This is a ten hour online lecture of the science and history of biofeedback and it consists of 18 video modules and an 804 page training manual. This course is theoretical and does not require a biofeedback device. All of our courses meet the requirement for obtaining a CBS (Certified Biofeedback Specialist) through the Board of Advanced Natural Health Sciences.

2) Beginners Course for Clasp32/Eductor64 Online Training Recorded in 2015

- This is a 40 hour course
- Includes 25 online videos
- Two manuals (one is a 459 page manual and the other is 163 page manual)
- Homework assignments to submit for review
- An online exam to test for competency

Basic Navigation Home Study Course

This is a prerequisite for the Beginners Course. Please review the Basic Navigation manual a minimum of three times cover-to-cover prior to starting the Beginners Course. This is a 163 page manual. You will need to have the Clasp32/Eductor64 software program loaded on your laptop prior to beginning this prerequisite.

Beginners Course

This course is designed to immerse novice quantum biofeedback device users in hands-on practical training for utilizing their biofeedback device and its Clasp32/Eductor64 software. This course will be very easy to follow, as we have laid out the groundwork for you in the simplest format possible. It's designed to enhance your stress reduction skills. This course consists of 35 video modules, a 496 page training manual and an additional 155 pages of supplemental reading material.

3) Coaching Course

- This is a 10 hour course
- Includes 7 online videos
- Homework assignments to submit for review
- Training manual
- An online exam to test for competency

Coaching Course

Complete the first three online modules of the Coaching, Consent and Compliance Course (Course Overview; Legal Language & the Law; Compliance). The remainder of the course is to be completed it in Step 10. This course consists of 7 video modules.

Complete the Coaching Course

Complete the online modules of the Coaching, Consent and Compliance Course. The practicum and observations requirements of the course are designed to be completed as part of the Advanced Course.

4) Anatomy and Physiology Course

- This is a 20 hour course
- Includes a 593 page manual
- An online exam to test for competency

Anatomy and Physiology Course

You must take this course or the equivalent (as documented by transcript or license) as a prerequisite to the Advanced Course, as well as being required for Certified Biofeedback Specialist status. This is a home study course and it includes a 593 page textbook. Completion of the course requires that you take and pass the Anatomy and Physiology online exam.

5) Advanced Course for Clasp32/Eductor64

Online Training Recorded in 2015

- This is a 40 hour course
- Includes 14 online videos
- 426 page manual and
- Homework assignments to turn submit for review
- An online exam to test for competency

Advanced Course

This course covers the more advanced topics within for a deeper understanding of the Clasp32/Eductor64 software program. This class should be taken contemporaneously with the Competency Hours and Coaching Course. This course consists of 22 video modules, a 431 page training manual and an additional 196 pages of supplemental reading material.

Advanced Course Exam

Demonstrate the knowledge gained from our training program through the online Advanced Exam. This examination is required for the Certified Specialist Certification (CBS) and should be taken following the completion of The Quantum Academies' training courses.

Additional Certification Procedures

Competency Hours (300 Hours Practicum)

Candidates for certification as a Certified Biofeedback Specialist with the BANHS must complete a 300 Hour Practicum on their biofeedback device to become skilled at navigation. We will not call these “supervised hours” but rather “skill development/competency practicum hours. Any such development time incurred in a clinical or professional setting while under the approved supervision of a CBS shall be counted as double time. Such supervisory approval may be authorized only by BANHS. The memorialization of hours needs to include the date and hours for each activity and list a client code name or number and short description of the activity.

To download the form, go to: <http://thequantumacademies.com/pdf/>

Biofeedback Specialist Application

The five biofeedback courses plus the 300 competency hours meet the requirements for designation as a Certified Biofeedback Specialist (CBS) through the Board of Advanced Natural Health Sciences. See <http://banhs.org> (Applications/Biofeedback Certification) for details.

Liability Insurance

Certification through the Board of Advanced Natural Health Sciences will allow you to apply for professional liability coverage through a qualified insurance company. See www.banhs.org for details.

Licensing vs Certification Overview

Certified
Biofeedback
Specialist

Discussed in more detail in the Coaching course

LICENSING

- A permission to perform an activity.
- Generally is mandatory to perform the activity
- Involves the police power of the government.

CERTIFICATION

- A statement of completion or meeting a standard.
- Voluntary.
- Does not involve the police power of the state.

Licensing vs Certification Overview

Discussed in more detail in the Coaching course

Certified
Biofeedback

LICENSING

- Presumes that working in the particular field of activity is a privilege. Establishment of licensing shifts the activity from a right to privilege. The privilege is given and may be withdrawn at any time by the issuing agency.

CERTIFICATION

- Presumes that working the field is a right.
- Certification may be withdrawn at any time by the issuing agency. However, this does not stop one from working.

Licensing vs Certification Overview

Discussed in more detail in the Coaching course

Certified
Biofeedback
Specialist

LICENSING

- Increases the power of government, and reduces the power of the individual consumer.
- The purpose is to restrict entry and strictly control the profession or activity

CERTIFICATION

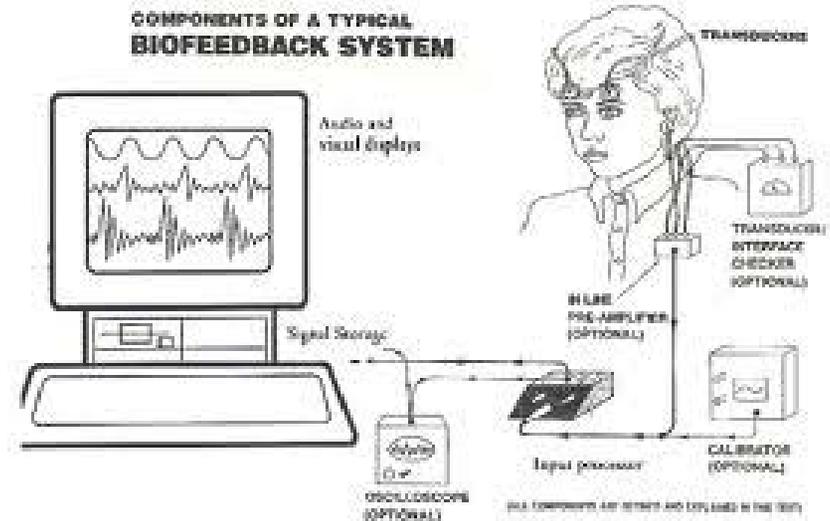

- Preserves and enhances the power of the individual consumer to decide upon the practitioner of his choice.
- The purpose is mainly to inform and educate.

Biofeedback Definitions

Definition of Biofeedback #1

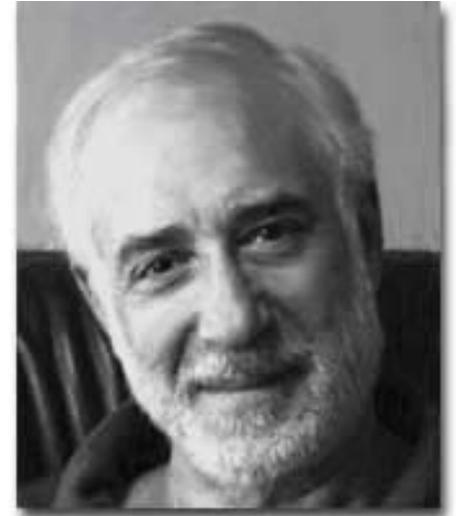

▶ Biofeedback is a form of alternative medicine that involves measuring a subject's quantifiable bodily functions

- blood pressure
 - heart rate
 - skin temperature
 - sweat gland activity
 - muscle tension
 - conveying the information to the client in real-time
- ▶ This raises the client's awareness and conscious control of his or her unconscious physiological activities.

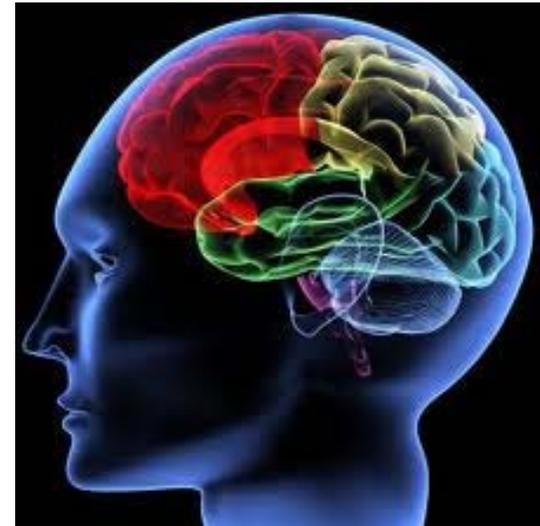

Definition of Biofeedback #1

- ▶ Neal Miller is generally considered the father of modern-day biofeedback.
- ▶ Miller theorized the basic principles of biofeedback by applying his theory that classical and operant conditioning were both the result of a common learning principle in 1961.
- ▶ Miller hypothesized that any measurable physiological behavior within the human body would respond in some way to voluntary control.

Definition of Biofeedback #2

- ▶ Biofeedback is the process of becoming aware of various physiological functions using instruments that provide information on the activity of those same systems, with a goal of being able to manipulate them at will.
- ▶ Processes that can be controlled include brainwaves
- ▶ Muscle tone
- ▶ Skin conductance
- ▶ Heart rate
- ▶ Pain perception

Three professional biofeedback organizations arrived at a consensus definition of biofeedback in 2008: the Association for Applied Psychophysiology and Biofeedback (AAPB), Biofeedback Certification Institution of America (BCIA), and the International Society for Neurofeedback and Research (ISNR),

Definition of Biofeedback #2

- ▶ Biofeedback may be used to improve health or performance, and the physiological changes often occur in conjunction with changes to thoughts, emotions, and behavior.
- ▶ Eventually, these changes can be maintained without the use of extra equipment.
- ▶ Biofeedback has been found to be effective for the treatment of headaches and migraines.

Three professional biofeedback organizations arrived at a consensus definition of biofeedback in 2008: the Association for Applied Psychophysiology and Biofeedback (AAPB), Biofeedback Certification Institution of America (BCIA), and the International Society for Neurofeedback and Research (ISNR),

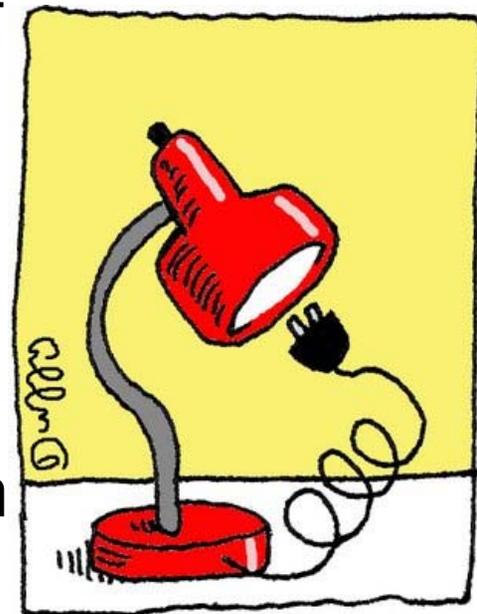

What is Biofeedback? Definition #3

- ▶ Biofeedback is a tool to help our mind & body communicate better with one another.
- ▶ Body signals that are usually below the threshold of conscious awareness can be amplified so that the mind can "hear" them
- ▶ With this awareness, the conscious mind can learn to "talk" to the body and gain the ability to control, or "self-regulate", many things that the body is doing.
- ▶ This is true even of many body processes that were once thought to be completely automatic and impossible to regulate through conscious control.

What is Biofeedback? Definition #3

- ▶ Thus, biofeedback can be used for greater body (and self) awareness, for more optimal health and functioning, and, in many cases, for healing.
- ▶ Described more formally, biofeedback uses sensors that can monitor a variety of different physiological processes.
- ▶ The on-going information is then fed back to the person in visual or auditory form.
- ▶ With this information, the person can become aware of these processes and can then learn to control them in a manner more consistent with healthy functioning.

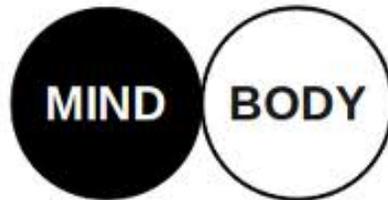

What is Biofeedback? Definition #3

- ▶ This learning and better mind–body communication can be used to produce
- ▶ (1) a generalized decrease in arousal and tension throughout the body or
- ▶ (2) a highly specific physiological response or patterning of responses, depending on the person's goals.

Biofeedback Definition #4 Mayo Clinic

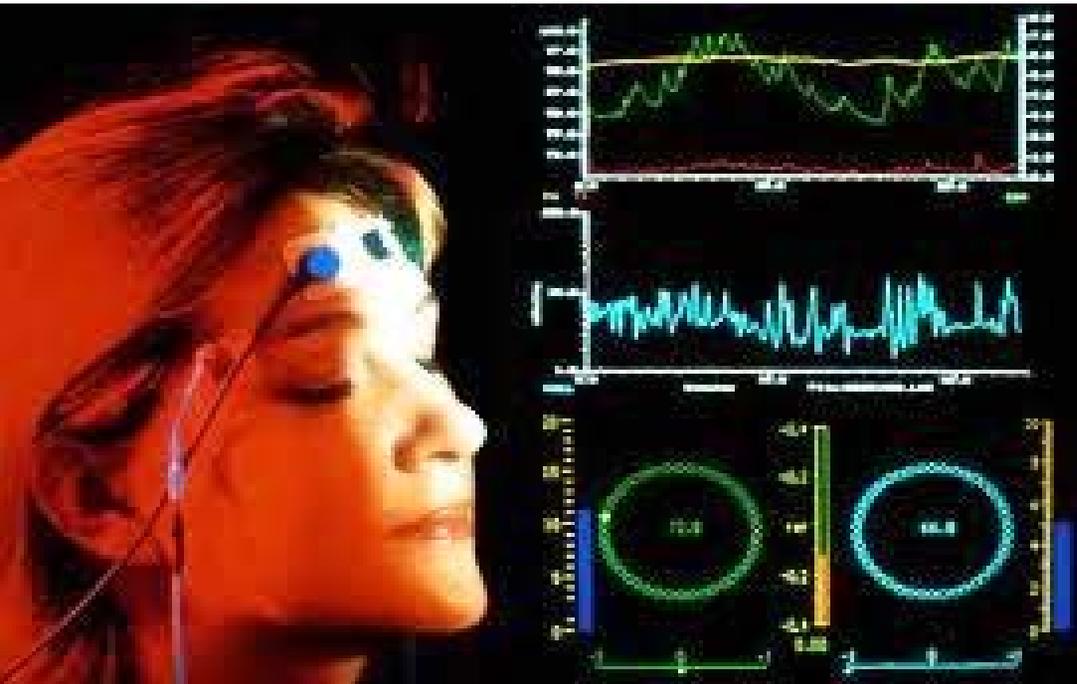

▶ Biofeedback is a complementary and alternative medicine technique in which you learn to control bodily functions, such as your heart rate, using your mind.

- ▶ With biofeedback, you're connected to electrical sensors that help you measure and receive information (feedback) about your body (bio).
- ▶ The biofeedback sensors teach you how to make subtle changes in your body, such as relaxing certain muscles, to achieve the results you want, such as reducing pain.

Biofeedback Definition #4 Mayo Clinic

- ▶ In essence, biofeedback gives you the power to use your thoughts to control your body, often to help with a health condition or physical performance. Biofeedback is often used as a relaxation technique.

<http://www.mayoclinic.com/health/biofeedback/MY01072>

Biofeedback Definition #4 Mayo Clinic

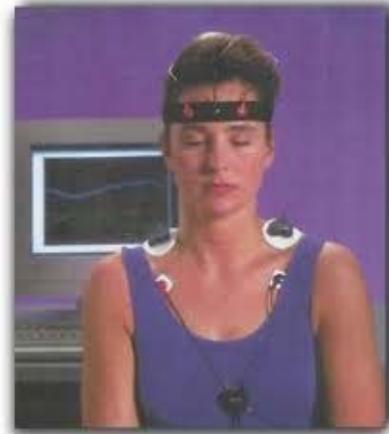

- ▶ Biofeedback appeals to people for a variety of reasons:
 - It's noninvasive.
 - It may reduce or eliminate need for medications.
 - It may be a treatment alternative for those who can't tolerate medications for their conditions.
 - It may be an option when medications haven't worked well.
 - It may be an alternative to medications for some conditions during pregnancy.
 - It helps people take charge of their health.

Biofeedback Definition #4 Mayo Clinic

Why it's done

▶ Biofeedback, sometimes called biofeedback training, is used to help treat many physical & mental health issues, including:

- Anxiety or stress
- Chemotherapy side effects
- Constipation
- High blood pressure
- Irritable bowel syndrome
- Physical performance
- Asthma
- Heart problems
- Incontinence
- Pain
- Raynaud's disease

<http://www.mayoclinic.com/health/biofeedback/MY01072>

Biofeedback Definition #4 Mayo Clinic

What you can expect

- ▶ During a biofeedback session, a practitioner applies electrical sensors to different parts of your body.
- ▶ These sensors monitor your body's physiological state, such as brain waves, skin temperature or muscle tension.
- ▶ This information is fed back to you via cues, such as a beeping sound or a flashing light.
- ▶ The feedback teaches you to change or control your body's physiological reactions by changing your thoughts, emotions or behavior.
- ▶ This can help the condition for which you sought treatment.

Biofeedback Definition #4 Mayo Clinic

- ▶ For instance, biofeedback can pinpoint tense muscles that are causing headaches. You then learn how to invoke positive physical changes in your body, such as relaxing those specific muscles, to reduce your pain. The ultimate goal with biofeedback is to learn to use these techniques at home on your own.

Headaches

Sinus: pain is usually behind the forehead and/or cheekbones	Cluster: pain is in and around one eye	Tension: pain is like a band squeezing the head	Migraine: pain, nausea and visual changes are typical of classic form

Biofeedback Definition #4 Mayo Clinic

- ▶ A typical biofeedback session lasts 30 to 60 minutes.
- ▶ The length and number of sessions are determined by your condition and how quickly you learn to control your physical responses.
- ▶ You may need a series of 10 sessions or as many as 50, which can make it more costly and time-consuming.

Mayo Clinic Definition #4

Types of Biofeedback:

- ▶ Your practitioner may use several different biofeedback techniques.
- ▶ Determining the technique that's right for you depends on your particular health problems and objectives.

Biofeedback techniques include:

- ▶ Electromyography (EMG) Biofeedback
- ▶ This type gives you information about your body's muscle tension so that you can practice relaxation.

Mayo Clinic Definition #4

Temperature (thermal) Biofeedback:

- ▶ Sensors attached to your fingers or feet measure your skin temperature. Because your temperature often drops when you're under stress, a low reading can prompt you to begin relaxation techniques.

Galvanic Skin Response Training:

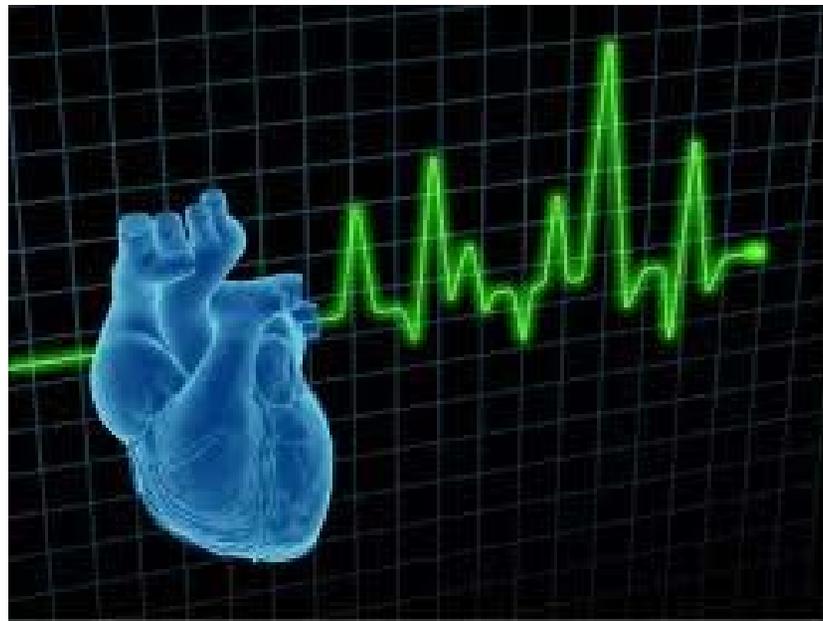

- ▶ Sensors measure the activity of your sweat glands and the amount of perspiration on your skin, alerting you to anxiety.

Mayo Clinic Definition #4

Heart Rate Variability Biofeedback

- ▶ This type of biofeedback, commonly used in commercial devices, helps you control your heart rate in an effort to improve:
 - Blood pressure
 - Lung function
 - Stress
 - Anxiety

Mayo Clinic Definition #4 – Biofeedback devices

- ▶ You can receive biofeedback training via:
- ▶ Physical therapy clinics
- ▶ Medical centers
- ▶ Hospitals
- ▶ Home use, hand-held portable devices or computer
- ▶ You can try different devices until you find one that works for you or ask your doctor for advice
- ▶ Check with your health insurance company to see what costs, if any, associated with biofeedback devices are covered.

<http://www.mayoclinic.com/health/biofeedback/MY01072>

Mayo Clinic Definition #4 – Results

- ▶ Experts aren't entirely sure how biofeedback works.
- ▶ But if biofeedback is successful for you, it may help you control symptoms of your condition or reduce the amount of medication you take.
- ▶ Eventually, you can practice the biofeedback techniques you learn on your own.
- ▶ You may need to continue with standard treatment for your condition, though.
- ▶ Learning biofeedback can take a lot of time.

Mayo Clinic Definition #4 – Results

- ▶ If it's not covered by your health insurance, it can be expensive.
- ▶ In some cases, biofeedback may be no more effective than are other simpler, less expensive relaxation techniques, such as yoga.

Key concepts – Biofeedback Definition

- ▶ Measuring a subject's quantifiable bodily functions such as blood pressure, heart rate, skin temperature, sweat gland activity, and muscle tension, conveying information to the in real-time.

Coaching Definition for Tri-Vector Biofeedback (Eductor)

- ▶ “Biofeedback is a method that teaches the client how to regulate certain bodily functions such as respiration, heart rate, blood pressure, temperature, so that they can modify future behavior.”
- ▶ Biofeedback “trains” and “reeducates”. Tri-Vector biofeedback is subjective and reliant upon the client’s ability to respond, react and hold new patterns on their own. This is what is meant by “EPR” or “Electro Physiological Reactivity”.

UNDERLYING PRINCIPLES

INTRODUCTION

The field of Energetic Medicine is vast in scope and broad in its applications. This presentation offers a brief overview of six main areas pertinent to our work in Quantum Biofeedback. Each of these areas merits much further study, and it is hoped that your interest will be stimulated in some of these areas, and you will experience the joy of commitment to “lifelong learning” in at least some of these topics.

AGENDA

- The Holistic vs. Reductionist world view
- The Human Energy Field (HEF) and Electro-Physiological Reactivity (EPR)
- Hans Selye’s General Adaptive Stress model
- The Practitioner as Educator
- Homeopathic Principles
- Subspace and Quantum Communication

OVERVIEW

Life is much too complex to be reduced to linear concepts, or even linguistic restraints. At best, we can only describe aspects of life’s complexity, and occasionally intuit the larger patterns and creative genius within and around these patterns. Much of what passes, as “knowledge” in our science is merely descriptive. Data is only information that can be arbitrarily manipulated to “prove” virtually anything. However, although we can never “know it all”, the more we can step back, gain perspective and perceive the patterns, the more complete our understanding can become. This is the beauty of “lifelong learning”. We see both the “parts” through linguistic and conceptual means and the “whole” via intuitive and non-verbal capabilities. This is where Science and Art meet.

REDUCTIONISM AND HOLISM

To appreciate the meaning of Holism in today’s world, we must see it against the Historical and Cultural background from which it has emerged as a modern movement. Reductionism describes the predominant view in Western civilization that emerged out of the era of the Industrial Revolution. This was a time starting around 400 years ago when it became profitable for some to amplify human labor by means of machines. Philosophers, writers and leading intellectuals of the time were enamored with the power of machines, and projected this mechanistic mode of thinking onto the natural world. The universe was believed to operate according to predictable physical laws, and was described as a “clockwork universe”. These leaders were filled with confidence and optimism that one day, all life processes, including human biology, could be “reduced” to simple, physical laws easily described in terms of Newtonian physics and linear mathematics. These sciences used the language of Reductionism, and “proved” to most people’s satisfaction, that the complexity of the “whole”, whether mechanical or biological, could only be understood by looking at the “parts”. This viewpoint does make sense when it comes to mechanical devices and simple physical events. Like describing the effect of gravity on a falling object or understanding the physical relationship between two gravitational bodies; like the Sun and Earth, for example. However, as soon as you began to move to a higher level of complexity, say, the relationship between three gravitational bodies, Reductionist physics and linear math were insufficient.

Reductionist science, then and now, is rooted in a belief in the value of measurement; inventing new terms to describe things, and a belief that observation in an experimental setting is a completely reliable and trustworthy means to come to valuable conclusions. The senses are assumed to be entirely reliable indicators of the nature of “reality”. A problem with this view, however, is the human tendency to mistake labeling with understanding; like mistaking the “map” for the “territory”. This is known as “reification”; when we elevate the label or concept to the status of the thing or event we are attempting to describe. Much of “higher education” is just this; memorizing the descriptive language of a field of study sufficient to sound knowledgeable!

REDUCTIONISM: LINEAR LOGIC

The philosopher Laplace (1749-1847) along with many Reductionist “believers” honestly felt some day life could be reduced to one simple equation. Reductionism is the analysis of complex things into simpler constituents, instead of looking at the actual complexity of the human body and its parts. Today, this quest continues in the form of the search for a final “unified theory of everything”. Trouble is, life is proving to be much more complex and unpredictable than expected, and it’s never the same; therefore resists measurement. After all, isn’t “that which changes” a good definition of Life?

Reductionist Science, however, is firmly entrenched in society’s major institutions, including Big Science, Big Education and Big Religion. Most tragic is the effect of Reductionist “blindness” on Medical Science. Vested interests in the military industrialist petrochemical and pharmaceutical cartels have a huge investment in Reductionist Science. Despite that people should consult their doctors, when people can be reduced to a simple "diagnosis" requiring a specific "prescription", you have a nice captive market, don't you?

More recent discoveries in Science, however, have seriously challenged basic Reductionist premises. Chaos Theory was the result of weather scientists discovering hitherto unsuspected patterns in the details of coastlines only revealed by the degree of detail provided by satellite photography. Basically, Chaos Theory proposes that chaos or randomness only exists in our limited perception, and that given enough perspective, that is, a wide enough view, a pattern will emerge out of any apparently chaotic event. Are not our lives themselves testimony to this observation? Despite the apparent chaos of our lives in the past, here we are today, focused and organized around today's experience!

Fractal geometry, or "fractal art" are images created by extending mathematical equations many times over into a graphic form. Here we see many of Nature's patterns emerge, indicating Nature herself is a master mathematician. Again, a deeper level of intelligence is at work, "hidden" behind the obvious, but made visible by a change in our perspective.

The discoveries in Quantum Physics in the last century have also seriously challenged the assumptions of Reductionism. At its most basic, even the understanding that all matter is a form of "frozen energy" and is therefore subject to "energetic laws" compels one to go beyond the boundaries of Materialism and Empiricism in truly understanding the nature of reality.

Reductionism, although applicable to machines and mechanical processes, fails miserably when applied to Living Systems.

REDUCTIONISM IS DANGEROUS

Nowhere is Reductionism more harmful than when applied to Human Health. Modern Western Medicine, despite its success in dealing with physical trauma, has failed miserably in addressing and preventing the major killers in the industrialized world: degenerative diseases rooted in diet, lifestyle and mental and emotional stress. Recent studies by JAMA and Dr. Mercola (www.mercola.com) have identified Modern Reductionist Medicine as the number one killer in modern society. "Iatrogenic Disease" is the term coined by Ivan Illich (1926 – 2002) many decades ago to describe "death by medicine". See www.nexusmagazine.com for a complete article on this shocking subject. This is truly Orwellian. As the philosopher Goethe says, "Nothing is more terrible than active ignorance". Although there are many sincere individuals in the Health Care system today, the system itself is calcified by academic arrogance, vested moneyed interests, and a "disease-care" mentality that profits from disease management rather than prevention.

To put things in perspective, consider that in China, a traditional Doctor is paid as long as his patients are healthy; when they fall ill, they may withhold payment. So the Chinese Doctor's motivation is to keep you well!

He is also responsible to keep the incidence of illnesses under a prescribed level for his assigned population...if the levels rise above the accepted average, he is returned to school for more education or re-training in another field.

ROOTS OF THE HOLISTIC VIEW

Around the turn of the last century when mass production was introduced, a new way of looking at how machines worked together was called for. This led to the development of "Systems Theory"; a mathematical model that addressed the need to navigate a greater complexity.

Around the 1920's, the philosopher Koestler (1905 – 1983) proposed the concept of the "holon". A holon is anything that can be viewed as a separate "thing", but at the same time was part of a larger "thing", or whole. For example, a baby is a "thing", but at the same time is part of a family, which is another "thing". A family is also part of a community, which is part of a nation, continent, planet, solar system...and on and on. In fact, the entire phenomenal universe is simply a set of "nested holons"; every separate part intimately involved in greater and lesser levels of organization, ultimately making one thing (a "uni-verse" or "one song")

So while Reduction purports, "to understand the Whole, look at the Parts", Holism suggests "to understand the Parts, look at the Whole". In order to "see" the Whole, however, it often requires that we change the way we perceive reality. Most of what we perceive is linguistically mediated and the result of conditioning. By necessity, it seems, we "break up" reality into little digestible "bits" (words and concepts) so we can "digest" it. We then make the mistake of assuming our little "bits" actually describe "the way it is". We then have a hard time seeing the larger patterns in our experience because we are so focused on the details; the "bits" we have created with our minds.

In order to begin to think holistically, we need to use our perceptual tools, our minds, differently. For most people, linear observations ("this caused that") and linguistic intelligence is a product of the left hemisphere of the brain. This type of brain activity produces a measurable electrical brain wave activity in the "Beta" range.

In order to break free from the strict boundaries of linear thinking, we need to incorporate the right hemisphere of the brain. This is the part of the brain involved in non-verbal activities, like appreciating color, sound, or feelings. When the left and right hemisphere of the brain are both active at the same time, this tends to produce a more relaxed "Alpha" brain wave state, which is more conducive to pattern recognition. We all experience Alpha when we are caught up in the beauty of a sunset, a piece of inspiring music, or the cooing of a baby.

There are some simple “tricks” you can use to generate an Alpha state. One is simply to become aware of what you are seeing in your peripheral vision. This simple shift of attention will activate both brain hemispheres. Another is to shift your gaze upward about 45 degrees and with your eyes open or closed, recall a pleasant memory or imaginary scene and bring as many senses (smell, taste, sound, etc) into the memory as possible. Simple meditations like the “Breath Meditation for Stress Relief” can also help.

In our work as Practitioners, holding an Alpha state can be an important part of our work. The Alpha state is inherently healing. It helps us see the “whole person” even as we are focusing in on specific details. It helps us take specific “bits” of information into account, but not over-react or ascribe too much “meaning” to any specific bit, knowing that a larger pattern is always involved. Even though our client’s perception may be very linear (“I did this and this was the result!”) we must appreciate that perception is only ever partial, and what is most significant is not likely known by the conscious mind! It is good to listen and acknowledge your client’s perception, but at the same time reserve judgment until we see what the Test, which reveals the intelligence of the super-conscious, has to say.

IMPLICATIONS

The main implication of the above discussion is that despite what the verbal mind thinks it knows, “there is always a bigger picture”. And the wider our view, the more comprehensive and effective our assessment and intervention will be. A good example lies in the Reductionist assumption the symptom reduction is “curing”. This is like pretending the tip of the iceberg is all there is, because that is all we can see! Yet the symptom is always a sign of a deeper imbalance. Most honest researchers today have broken away from trying to prove absolute causation, and have embraced statistical models that at least allow formulate-“factorial” causes to an outcome. If we look at the physical body as the “tip of the iceberg” representing many other levels of existence, it is easier to accept that the state of the body is always multifactorial. If our definition of “Spiritual” is simply that which incorporates all possible levels of existence, material and non-material, then it can be said that health, illness and the healing process is always, and ultimately Spiritual. This is the Holistic level we are working on.

There are two panels in the Clasp32/Eductor64 (Consciousness) that pertain to relaxation training on at least 10 Dimensions. “Dimension” here simply refers to a specific frequency band where matter and non-material energy vibrates at different speeds. The two panels are the “Body and Face Scan” and the “Aura Cleanse” relaxation training program, which addresses the inner five dimensions, and the “Subspace Morphic Trans” which address the upper five.

This ten Dimensional model is consistent with many traditional views of reality, including the Ayurvedic and Buddhist world views, as well as Einstein, who postulated six non-material dimensions to support what he was observing in four.

To be truly Holistic, we must acknowledge the rightful place of Reductionist, or "Allopathy". As noted, the strength of Allopathy is in the management of trauma and intervention. This is essentially the medicine of a military-industrialist war-based economy, and is well suited as such. As such, the Holistic view, which sees life in all of its complexity, is simply a "bigger" view, not necessarily "better".

THE HUMAN ENERGY FIELD

Practically every known human culture, past and present, has, to some degree, recognized an "energetic" aspect of Life. Often this understanding was couched in what we would refer to as "religious" or "metaphysical" beliefs, myths and practices. Nonetheless, there seems to be a universal acceptance of something non-physical co-existing along with the physical aspects of life. To believe otherwise would be to reduce "reality" to only what our senses are capable of perceiving. This assumption is at the basis of much of the modern world's beliefs about the nature of reality, and the basis of many of our scientific and educational institutions. This orientation toward a very narrow perspective on reality is also consistent with the domination of western culture by patriarchal systems bent on exploitation of nature, fellow humans and the pursuit of unlimited profit and wealth for the few. Left-brain dominant thinking, conducive to linear logic and "cause-and-effect" perceptions, is encouraged and supported by Materialist culture, as it serves its purposes well. Right-brain intelligence, more conducive to intuitive as well as artistic modes of perception, has been generally regarded as the domain of the feminine, and has traditionally been regarded as largely "unreliable" when it comes to operating in the 'real' world of people and things.

A few maverick researchers have, in recent times, stepped outside the limits of materialism to prove experimentally the existence and function of "invisible" forces operating in Nature. Among these is the Yale researcher, Harold Saxon Burr, who, in the 1970's, was experimenting with Kirlian photographs of plant seeds. This was a form of ultra-sensitive photography that would reveal an energetic force field, which Burr called an "L" (for Life) Field, around living plant seeds. Perhaps the fact that Kirlian photography was Russian technology contributed to the lack of interest or support Burr's work elicited. Regardless, his research proved the existence of an energy field around seeds roughly in the shape of an adult form of their particular plant. For example, the "L" field around an acorn was found to be in the shape of an oak tree! A wheat kernel revealed a field in the shape of a stalk of wheat.

Another pioneer in this area is Valerie Hunt, who for decades has been involved with EMG Biofeedback research at the University of Southern California. Early on in her research, she was recording EMG levels emanating from the body of subjects at levels far beyond the known levels of EMG generated by muscle action. Her curiosity aroused, she invited people she knew who displayed gifts of ESP to come into the lab and help her understand what was being measured. She learned that the very high frequencies coming from the body were emanating over points on the body regarded by ancient cultures as "Chakras", or energy portals which are vortexes of energy integrating and balancing the various frequency bands of the energy field, as explained in Ayurvedic tradition. Valerie went on to validate scientifically much of what was already known by "energy healers" and others familiar with the Human Energy Field.

Another seminal researcher in the area is Dr. Richard Gerber, author of the classic "Vibrational Medicine". Again, we have a "mainstream" -educated MD looking "outside the box" and creating a compendium of theoretical and practical validation of formerly - considered "esoteric" practices such as crystal healing, homeopathy, hands-on healing, and prayer. One of Gerber's contributions was his explanation of the "Tiller-Einstein" model of light and energy. Einstein assumed that the speed of light was the limit of energy expression in the universe. It was inconceivable, in his mind, that energy could be accelerated beyond this limit. One of the trademark attributes of energy operating within this limit is that it is subject to certain "immutable" laws, including the "Second Law of Thermodynamics". This Law explains how matter and energy, which Einstein explained are interchangeable, are unconditionally affected by entropy, which is the tendency of matter/energy to decay and adjust to, or return to, its environment. If you put an apple on the table and left it there a year, not much would be left. All, or most, of its matter would have returned to the environment.

William Tiller of Stanford University has proposed that if light could be accelerated beyond the limits of "physical" light, it would no longer be subject to the laws of entropy; rather energy at this rate of vibration would tend towards "negative entropy", or higher levels of organization and coherence. So below the speed of light, creation tends towards chaos and decay while beyond this limit, creation becomes more organized. See Gerber's work for a more detailed explanation of this as well as many more experiments validating the existence and function of the hitherto "invisible" energy fields, which accompany, and as we shall see, support and sustain our physical bodies.

Next we will discuss three specific functions of the Human Energy Field (HEF) as they relate to our work in Quantum Biofeedback.

THE HEF AS A DEVELOPMENTAL MAP

Another one of Burr's experiments as reported by Gerber was the somewhat famous "phantom leaf experiment". This involved taking a Kirlian photograph of a living leaf, then cutting off a segment of the leaf before re-photographing it. To the experimenter's surprise, the energy field was still 100% intact, despite part of the leaf missing. This would seem to indicate that that the field somehow "pre-exists” the organism and is a more fundamental aspect of its physical manifestation than earlier suspected. It also pointed to the possibility that the Field was functioning in some manner as a developmental template, both guiding and sustaining the leaf’s growth, but independent of it at the same time. This observation provided a clue as to how complex organisms actually develop from a seed stage. Biologists understand that the DNA holds the information for all of the inherited characteristics of a plant or animal, but are at a loss when it comes to explaining the intelligence behind the organization and specialization of specific body cells as they spontaneously line up to form an adult of their species. From this perspective, we could say the DNA is the ‘roadmap’, but the HEF is the ‘orchestrator’ or conductor of the process. Remember Tiller’s proposal that faster-than-physical-light energies would tend to be more organizational?

Further to this notion is Rupert Sheldrake’s proposal of a more general, or global, energy template that energetically supports all life forms on the planet. This would mean that the HEF is somehow also “tapped into” a Human Morphogenic Field that is common to all humans. The pioneering psychologist Carl Jung suggested the same idea on a more mental level, suggesting all humans are connected via a “collective consciousness”. Sheldrake suggests that even if there were only two members of a rare species of life on the planet, a global Morphogenic Field would be present holding all the information needed to sustain any individuated form of that species.

THE HEF AS A HEALING TEMPLATE

Just as the HEF provides a developmental template for an individual member of a species, it continues to operate once development is complete as a template for healing. When there is injury, disease or trauma, oftentimes very little is required for the body to heal. We are a self-healing system. This describes the principle of “homeostasis”; the idea that life forms naturally move toward balance and normalizing once the stressors have been removed and the basic nutrients provided (including energetic as well as physical factors). The principle of Homeostasis is the basis of any Natural Medicine.

Many amputees report sensations in the area where a limb once existed. This “phantom limb” effect is a good illustration of the same “phantom leaf experiment” discussed earlier. Robert Becker, MD, in his seminar work from the 1960’s, “The Body Electric”, describes an experiment where he set out to discover why certain species of animals, salamanders in this case, could spontaneously regenerate a detached limb, while a species with very similar physiology, in this case a frog, could not. Becker’s real interest was in finding a way to stimulate the healing rate of broken bones, but his experiments led to some very intriguing observations.

One of the major differences between these two species under study was that the salamander scar was electrically conductive, while the scar on the stump of the frog limb was not. If this was an important difference, Becker asked, then perhaps artificially moistening and electrically stimulating the frog's limb would support regeneration...and it worked! This experiment points to the action of subtle electrical stimulation "pushing" the damaged cells outward, as it were, to recognize and conform to their ideal in the energetic template. Without the electrical stimulation, as in the frog's case, there was no recognition and therefore no regeneration; until the electrical flow was introduced. It is notable that much of our work in Quantum Biofeedback is just this...introducing or restoring the flow of energy and information in the body with subtle electrical signals which then stimulate a healing response.

Crystal healing is another good example of how outside electrical field stimulation can create a response in the body. A crystal can be described as an organized and compressed bunch of similar molecules, put together by Nature herself. One of the qualities of a crystal is that they emit a subtle electrical energy field, mostly due to the internal pressure of the molecular signatures. This is known as the "piezo-electric effect". These fields tend to reflect the inherent organization of crystalline molecules and create a "coherent", or organized, electrical field. When there is a trauma, disease or other stressors in the body, the energy field over the distressed part often displays "incoherent", or a scrambled quality. Sensitive individuals can pass their hands over the body and detect these subtle changes in the energy field over a problematic area. When a coherent crystal-field is placed in the proximity of an incoherency in the body, a response can trigger, particularly if the crystal-field is strong enough and specific enough to address a particular aberrant frequency pattern. Throughout history, healers have known certain stones and crystals have specific effects on certain functions and parts of the body. Again, are we simply stimulating a "return to normal" and the healing function inherent in the HEF? Many energy workers have experienced and observed a physical response in their clients such as pain relief, reduced inflammation and rapid healing with these ancient techniques. Many also theorize that given the physical body is much denser and less responsive to energies than the "non-physical" bodies (HEF), that illness and disease most likely occur first as a change in the energy field followed ultimately with a physical symptom or response if the stressor is not detected soon enough. So in going to the cause or most fundamental level of disease, we must look beyond the mere physical. To ignore the Energy Field is to ignore the vast depths of existence below the surface waves, and to discount the elegant complexity and intelligence of Nature.

THE HEF AS REACTIVE

Perhaps most pertinent to our work in Quantum Biofeedback is how the HEF operates in each present moment as an intelligent, reactive field. "Reactivity" explains the ability of the HEF to respond with signals of attraction, or aversion, toward our environment. This is part of Nature's survival programming, and not only guides humans, but all life forms down to the simplest single-celled organisms. Observe a bacterium under a microscope and you will see it move toward food or prey, and instantly recoil when it becomes food or prey. In humans, the Reactive response is as functionally simple, yet is complicated by many mental, emotional and other conditioning factors that can impact our ability to react appropriately. However, it is this Reactive ability that is the true intelligence behind the “Xrroid”, or Clasp32/Eductor64 (Consciousness) program Testing process. As the speed of Reactivity is in the area of 1/100th of a second, the Clasp32/Eductor64 (Consciousness) program challenges the Energy Field with currently over 11,000 potential Stressors in the form of their trivector signatures, and simply records the degree of Reactivity toward or away from each item.

This built-in feedback system is also responsible for the subtle energetic changes involved with muscle testing and dowsing. When the body is exposed to a need or stressor, there is an instantaneous response via the autonomic nervous system, which in turn affects muscle response.

In the modern West, Reinhardt Voll, a German acupuncturist practicing in 1950's, was among the first to validate electrical changes in the body in response to stimuli via changes in skin resistance measured over specific acupuncture points. He created tables of healthy electrical averages, and was able to predict weakness or illness in a specific organ or system based on measuring deviations from these norms in certain clients. This technique provided an “energetic window” into the body and had tremendous implications for the early detection and prevention of illness; based on detecting imbalances in the meridians before they manifested physically. Health practitioners still use this early device for allergy and remedy testing. Most of the limitations of this early technology have been addressed with the advent of Quantum Biofeedback.

An important aspect of Reactivity is that the reactive system is prone to energy loss. “Fritche’s Law” states that a reactive system loses power when it reacts, as there is always an exchange of energy involved. This is why at the end of a long day when we have been called upon to react to a variety of people, things and situations, we feel literally “drained” by the day’s events. If we take some “down time” to relax and rejuvenate, our batteries will self-charge, and we are ready for another day. In Chinese Medicine, it is the kidney/adrenal complex, which is the “battery” of the body, and the reactivity of this battery is associated with the Voltage measured in Calibration within the Clasp32/Eductor64 program.

HANS SELYE’S ‘GENERAL ADAPTIVE STRESS’ MODEL

Hans Selye (1907 – 1982) was a pioneering MD from Montreal, Quebec. He realized that many symptoms associated with chronic ill health were a direct result of an ongoing Stress Reaction. He thus recognized that “symptoms” ran much deeper than assumed by the comparatively simplistic Medical Model. He basically identified that “stress accumulates” in the body. Once a Stress symptom is experienced, if the Stressor, or cause of the Stress, is not identified and removed, the body will go through a series of predictable phases of relationship with the Stressor. The concept of Stress detection and reduction fits very well with the Natural Medicine model and principles of Biofeedback. We understand by these theories that once Stressors are removed, the body naturally returns to balance, or homeostasis.

Selye's model also allows us to track our client's progress from session to session, as the Clasp32/Eductor64 (Consciousness) program will calculate an estimation upon Calibrating where the client is on the Scale in relationship to their Stressors. It is entirely possible for an adult to move back into the ideal "Alarm" state they once enjoyed as a child! Modern and Traditional Medical research admits Stress plays a major role in Disease, yet the way MD's practices are structured does not allow for the time it takes to look more deeply than at superficial symptoms. MD's are under tremendous pressure to come up with a Diagnosis and usually a Prescription often in as little as 15 minutes. One study in Canada showed the average MD was writing a Prescription within eight minutes of a patient's interview! In Biofeedback, we are relieved of the burden of needing to "diagnose or treat" anything, and only reduce stress! We can take the time necessary, as well as use advanced technology; to contemplate our client's deep and often complex Stress issues.

Selye identified three primary phases of how the body deals with Stress. Essentially, the body is intelligent; if a Stressor goes undetected and remains a factor over time, the body will shift from a healthy Alarm Response and go into "Adaptation". With time, Adaptation can develop into a more serious "Exhaustion" phase. Let's discuss these in more detail.

Keep in mind potential "Stressors" in Quantum Biofeedback include the trivector signatures for, homeopathics pertaining to mental factors, emotional imponderables, psychic and non-local factors. Every item in the Main Matrix is a potential Stressor, as a Reaction to anything indicates recognition of Stress at some point in time or dimension of existence. Even a reaction to a potentially positive item, which might reflect a need, indicated by a positive "reaction toward" something, indicates a Stressed state; in this case, a lack.

THE ALARM PHASE

Although it doesn't sound like it, this is the ideal phase. A person in Alarm is generally reacting appropriately to their environment, and is likely sensitive to the body's signals, identifying Stressors as they are encountered and making the best decisions regarding them, such as avoidance. Most children will show up in Alarm, as they simply have not had enough time to accumulate a significant amount of Stressors. Often the Alarm response will produce a tangible symptom, like a sneeze, itch or headache. The perceptive person may associate this new sensation with a recent novel experience, such as eating ice cream, for example, and may decide to avoid that food, or experiment with different flavors in the future. The non-perceptive person may not make the association between the "trigger" and the symptom, and may continue the behavior, assuming the symptom is simply part of 'who I am'. Over time and with continued exposure to the Stressor, the body will assume the Stressor is now part of the ongoing reality, and will adjust accordingly by moving into the Adaptation phase with that particular Stressor. A person in the Alarm phase may be stressed by specific chemicals, foods or psychological situations, but will usually find they return to Homeostasis fairly easily once they address the Stressor. You could say they are consciously interacting with their environment.

THE ADAPTATION PHASE

As noted above, when a Stressor becomes an ongoing issue, the body, in a sense, assumes it will continue to be a part of the "new reality", and so attempts to adjust. This adjustment, however, often involves chronic elevated Stress Hormone secretion. This can further lead to chronic inflammation, deregulated digestion, dysfunctional breathing signatures and other sub-clinical Stress symptoms. The overt symptom however, related to the Stressor initially, is gone. This can lead to a false sense of security. It is common for people conditioned by simplistic Western Medicine to assume "Because I have no symptoms, I must be healthy". People are generally encouraged to see the doctor only upon the onset of an uncomfortable symptom. But, as we now understand, lack of symptoms does not mean absence of stress. Therefore, a major implication of the Adaptation phase is that the Stressor is still at work, only at deeper, submerged levels, negatively affecting perhaps the cells, tissues or specific organs, unbeknownst to the Client. Unfortunately, most adults in modern society are in some form of Adaptation, given a lifetime of exposure to Stressors that most of our ancestors did not have to deal with.

An important consideration when designing a Stress Reduction Training for those in Adaptation is that they may not react significantly in the Test to their deeper, chronic Stressors. This is when it is recommended that we also investigate the "middle" to "lower end" of the Reactive scale to see what the body is reacting the least to. Just because an item is in the lowest end of the scale does not necessarily identify it as a chronic Stressor, but if there are deep, chronic Stress factors, here is where you may find the reaction.

THE EXHAUSTION PHASE

Over time and continued exposure to a Stressor, even the ability to Adapt can break down. This is due to the accumulation of Stress at the sub-clinical levels. Remember, stress "accumulates" in the body. Wilhelm Reich (1897 – 1957) was an early protégé of Sigmund Freud, and identified that emotional Stress is actually "recorded" in the muscles and tissues. He demonstrated that physical massage could release this pent-up energy. Reich is the forefather of modern bodywork techniques.

During Exhaustion, the hormonal Stress response of the body is severely challenged, particularly the Adrenal/Kidney complex. The ability to resist further Stressors is inhibited, and the Immune system begins to suffer. It is during this phase that inherited or constitutional weaknesses are most likely to manifest. This is a time for rest, rejuvenation, and primarily, discovery and removal of the chronic stress signatures. This is the state most likely accompanying a diagnosable disease, potentially indicating that Dis-ease is the end result of a long relationship with our Stressors.

Sometimes it is possible to identify the specific Stressor being expressed in the Exhaustion phase by the nature of the symptom. With Exhaustion, we will often see a re-emergence of the original symptom that was repressed during Adaptation. This would be consistent with the theoretic principles of Homotoxicology, which state that symptoms suppressed by drugs do not "go away"; they are driven deeper. In this form of Natural Medicine, it is assumed the suppressed symptom will re-emerge as part of the healing process. We should not be surprised then that a symptom should emerge as part of not only the body's signaling system, but a natural expression of the healing response.

A good example of how Selye's model typically "plays out" could be illustrated by the common experience of smoking. On first inhaling tobacco, the body produces an appropriate Alarm...hacking, choking, and nausea. However, if we persist in the behavior and choose to ignore the body's signals, in a short while we "Adapt" and no longer need to go through any discomfort. At this point we enter the "la-la land" of "no symptoms – no disease". Perhaps we are oblivious or in denial of the fact that our body cells are being stressed by deadly carbon monoxide, our pH is becoming acidic, and our lungs are severely stressed by toxins, both natural and synthetic. Sooner or later, the chronic cough becomes more serious, and we finally go for a checkup; the pronouncement is "emphysema" or "lung cancer".

THE ROLE OF THE PRACTITIONER AS EDUCATOR

The Latin root word for "doctor" is "educator". So we see the original intent of the title "doctor" was to educate people in the ways of healthy living. In Quantum Biofeedback, education is one of our primary roles. Many of our client's complaints are because of lack of education, understanding, and knowledge of "how to live in a body". Lack of education can be a cause of disease. We have manuals for our DVD players and cars, but are born into a complex organism completely at the mercy of our parents and culture.

The reason we have the "Suppression and Obstruction to Cure" or "SOC" interview in the device is to bring to the client's awareness lifestyle issues that may impact their well-being. Please do not neglect this interview, as many times at the end of a session you will come back to these issues for your educational themes.

Most of our clients have been conditioned to think of symptoms and health in terms of "diagnosis and treatment", which is the exclusive domain of the "experts". There is a class and education-based gulf between the average person and the university educated "expert" that is particularly evident in the modern western Medical Model. So the main benefit of taking an educational role with our clients is not only to empower them with information ('knowledge is power') but also to hopefully instill a new light of self-responsibility. We live in the "information age" where anyone with access to a computer, or library, can get the information they need quickly and relatively easily. Ultimately, more knowledge will lead to greater trust and intuitive knowing which opens the door to all to become their own "healers".

I encourage the use of easily understood handouts, articles and booklets. The website, www.mercola.com is a good resource for collecting useful educational articles on many basic topics like nutrition, allergies and supplements.

Often health food stores have good handouts on various natural healing topics.

I would also encourage clients with specific "homework". This is a technique often used in coaching. If clients have a medical diagnosis but don't understand it, have them research it before the next session. If they are on medications but are unaware of the "side effects", get them to do the research. They may be surprised how many of their mysterious "symptoms" may be easily explained!

If you are not confident in your own communication and educational skills, consider exploring the Adult Ed or Continuing Ed programs available in your community. Many of these are night courses, and will build your confidence tremendously.

Understand the difference between Empathy and Sympathy. Sympathy affirms the "victim role" for your client, as in "Oh you poor thing! How do you cope"? Empathy understands and "walks in their shoes", but at the same time knows that we never choose challenges beyond our ability to learn and overcome those challenges. More often than not, client's challenges are inner; the outer merely reflecting back to them the quality of their present consciousness. So when we empathize, we communicate our confidence they can rise to any challenge they have drawn to themselves.

Finally, I would like to refer to the 'three-way Model' of the clinical relationship, which illustrates the equal roles of you, your client and the Clasp32/Eductor64 (Consciousness) program in creating a positive, healing, experience for your client. Each member brings something unique to the encounter, without which success would be compromised.

First you, the Technician or Specialist, bring your knowledge, skills and education. You bring your years of experience, not just in health care if you have that background, but also in life, as a parent, friend, employee, etc. You also bring compassion and caring, or you wouldn't be in this work! You also bring your Superconscious; that part of you some might call "intuition" which connects you to all sources of information and helps you "see" creative solutions instantly, particularly when you are "in the flow".

Secondly, we have the Client who has a Conscious Awareness of them as being out of balance. Otherwise, why are they seeing you? They also have knowledge, skills, education and experience at differing levels and "mixes". But they also have a Superconscious, and again, this is the part of themselves, of which they may not be consciously aware. Nonetheless, the Superconscious taps them into the "Cosmic Computer" (to quote Deepak Chopra) and is the source of their Reactive intelligence as well as their Healing powers. This is why you can have absolute confidence that no matter how "dire" their conscious state paints their picture, their Superconscious is not at all "freaked out" by anything, and will lead you both to a positive place of balance.

Thirdly, we have the Clasp32/Eductor64 (Consciousness) program, which provides your "window" into their Superconscious reactivity. It is by measuring and working with their Reactions, which are mediated by their autonomic nervous system and Superconscious intelligence. We gain unprecedented insight into the secrets, only the Energy Body, up until now, held! The technology also has the ability to assist in energetically training stressors through relaxation training, muscle re-education, and electro dermal response reactivity; "breaking" non-beneficial adaptations, and releasing Stress at deep physical, mental emotional and psychic levels.

However, it has been accurately said that the "technology is only as good as the operator", and this is largely true. The developer, Bill Nelson, has emphasized that the Clasp32/Eductor64 (Consciousness) program is a second opinion only. The first opinion is yours! He has also warned, "Do not let the system de-skill you!" It is easy to be intimidated by the technology, but, like a Porsche or Lear Jet, it still depends on a trained and skilled Pilot!

HOMEOPATHIC PRINCIPLES

Homeopathy is a vast topic, with hundreds of years of research, validation and success behind it. Before the Civil War in the USA, Homeopathic hospitals were in the majority over "allopathic" ones. The first head of the AMA was a Homeopath! I wonder if he was in favor of Homeopathic marriages?

The "father" of modern homeopathy was Samuel Hahnemann (1755 – 1843) a German chemist and university professor. He noticed that in his area of Germany the local Herbalists had greater success in health matters than the relatively new group of Physicians. His curiosity aroused, he learned the Herbalists depended largely on a principle known as "the Doctrine of Similars". This was the idea that if a plant resembled in some fashion an aspect of human anatomy, the Creator, in its wisdom, intended it to be used to help that part or function.

Hahnemann was a natural scientist with a number of experimental subjects at his disposal in the form of university students. Then, as now, in order to pass a course, a student may need to surrender to the professor's "experiments" in order to pass! Hahnemann made tinctures by soaking herbs in alcohol, and gave them to his students, asking them to record all effects, including mental emotional and spiritual as well as physical effects, as they took increasingly larger doses of these herbs. This created a compendium of "drug pictures", which were very detailed descriptions of the effects of these herbs at higher and higher doses. He understood that at higher doses, many "beneficial" herbs were actually poisons! And this is exactly what his "subjects" discovered.

At a certain point in his studies, Hahnemann must have run short on certain herbs, as he began to give his students more dilute forms of the tinctures to work with. To his surprise, the more dilute with water the tincture, the more apparent were its affects. Between dilutions, Hahnemann would shake, or "succus" the tinctures to impart the imprint of the prior solution. Perhaps unknowingly, he was imprinting the molecules of water, which, being magnetic in nature, and magnetizable, would take on the molecular "shape" or form of any foreign molecule present upon shaking. Even at dilutions where no original herbal molecule remained, it was possible to impart this magnetic imprint to a new dilution by shaking it.

Under the tongue are specialized body cells, which "interpret" incoming substances by their molecular shape. In the case of the remedies, the body was being "fooled" into thinking a poison was being ingested, and would begin to reverse the symptoms that poison would cause. If the same symptoms were present for another reason, say a cold or flu, the homeopathic of the poison that would cause the same symptoms would "nudge" the body toward balancing these symptoms by stimulating it to react to them. This illustrates the "like treats like" concept of Homeopathy, where the Homeopathic version of a poison is believed to reverse the symptoms the poison would create.

Hahnemann was obviously a very astute student of life, and highly intuitive to conceive of such an elegant system. More recent studies (Benveniste, Emoto) have confirmed the unique information transfer and storage abilities of plain water. In Homotoxicology (a marriage of the theories of homeopathy and cellular biology), we see the recognition of a water/protein matrix throughout the body, called the "mesenchyme". The water in our bodies is believed to have this same information transfer ability, and the protein structures, including "microtubules" provide the physical basis for the transfer of non-physical quantum field energies to physical effects. So we see Homeopathy is believed to involve both a physical effect through cell shape receptors, and an energetic-transfer effect via the mesenchyme.

In Hahnemann's day a Homeopathic Physician needed to study the "drug pictures" of all known herbs in order to best match the client's symptoms with the best remedy at the best potency. This took long hours of study and mental effort to master. Today, with the help of the Clasp32/Eductor64 (Consciousness) program, we get instant feedback via Reactivity as to the best remedies and potencies, most of which are energetically represented in the Main Matrix for direct delivery or duplication into water.

With Homeopathy, we see validation of the idea of "the power of the subtle". The idea that "less is more" runs counter to the materialist assumption that "more is better". Yet it is the basis of most of what we call "energy medicine", including ancient healing techniques from all cultures throughout history.

All of the programs and trivector signatures of substances are administered at "biological levels" of energy, which are established during Calibration. Therefore, we are working with the body, not against it, at its own level of functioning. We are using subtle electrical stimulation individually tailored to train the body to reduce stress back to its natural balance and ease of flow.

SUBSPACE AND THE "THREE-LEVEL MODEL" OF MATTER

To understand Subspace we must look at the overall composition of the physical and non-physical universe. Any model by necessity is a simplification of many complex ideas, but the "Three-Level Model" does help in understanding and explaining the puzzling world of Subspace.

Imagine a pyramid structure divided into three horizontal sections. The top 1/3 of the model could represent the Physical world of objects in space. We have a pretty easy time understanding and dealing with the Physical realm because our senses operate here. There are firm laws that describe how matter operates physically, such as Newton's Laws of Motion and Gravity. This level represents matter at its densest compared to the levels below it, and as such, physical matter is also the slowest or last level to respond to change.

However, it is well known that everything Physical is made up of molecules. This is the second level of the model. Our senses can't perceive this level, but technology, which extends our senses, can. The electron microscope is an example, used by Emoto to take his incredible photos of water molecules. Molecular matter behaves much differently than Physical matter, so we have new laws and rules to explain this level; the laws of Chemistry, or Biochemistry when we talk about living things.

These top two levels could both be considered "physical", and make up the focus of Allopathic Medicine. The Empirical scientific view reduces life to mere physical and chemical processes, so we have a Medicine focused on Surgery and Drugs.

However, around the early 1900's, theoretical physicists, who were dealing with mathematical models; suspected there was yet another level of matter where physical matter became pure energy. Of course, Einstein later formalized this concept with his "E=MC²" formula, indicating matter and energy were interchangeable.

For discussion sake, we can place the Atom on the dividing line below the Molecular level, and call the third level the level of the pyramid Subspace, sub-atomic wave-particles (or "wavicles") or the Quantum level. "Quanta" simply means the "smallest part of a thing", and is not an entirely accurate way of describing energy at this level. Because Quantum wave-particles behave much differently than molecules, a new set of "rules" began to take shape. These became the Laws of Quantum Physics; the most studied and validated branch of scientific research of the 20th century!

One of the most puzzling aspects of these "energy packets", which make up atoms, is that at times they behave like pure waves of energy, like electricity or radio waves. At other times, they behave more like particles, or objects. This puzzled many early scientists, and stretched their minds...how could something be both a wave and a particle? It defied common logic. The answer was provided by early experiments where the physicists predicted that if they could accelerate and collide two atoms (using extreme electromagnetic energy in a circular tunnel), subatomic particles would be released and produce an effect on a photographic plate, showing the energy released in the form of a photon (or quanta) of light. And it worked! Well...not all the time. It seemed as long as there was a human observer involved in the experiment, the results would show, but if the experiment were run without a direct observer, no results would show! At first, it was assumed this was just a coincidence, and that there was something wrong with the equipment. But after running hundreds of trials, the "observer effect" could not be disproved. This brought a whole new element into the experimental model, up until this time never considered important; human consciousness. The implications of this effect were enormous, and enormously unpopular with "classic" scientists of the day. If this was true (that observation affects physical reality), it meant all of the scientific experiments assumed to be valid up to this time had to be reconsidered as "tainted"! This would be a major catastrophe in the scientific community, and a challenge to the scientific egos of the day to admit "I was wrong!"

What this implies is that human consciousness is intimately involved with the physical world, and is not a "detached observer". This notion reaffirms the ancient concept that consciousness creates reality...that reality is the result of consciousness, and not the other way around, as the Materialists would have us believe. The notion that the objective world exists separate from the observer is uniquely modern, and is the indirect result of the philosophical "mind-body split" that occurred in Europe during the so-called period of "Enlightenment". These modern ideas cast humans as a product of the world through evolution and natural laws, which implied we are all potential victims of a cruel, heartless world, and must struggle to survive. These notions were very conveniently tied to the rise of Capitalism, which relied on the labor (slavery) of the many for the benefit of the few.

Ancient cultures, on the other hand, were more in tune with the Quantum view of reality, and understood that everything "out there" is actually experienced "in here", and ultimately makes up a unified whole. We would call these cultures "backward" and "introspective" as they put less attention on exploiting the outer world and more on inner development. Nevertheless, Quantum Physics is now validating this ancient view that everything, including thought, is energy, and therefore everything, including thought and perception, affects everything else. Is this not the literal meaning of the word "universe"? That is, "one song"...one set of harmonious frequencies combining to create a magical Symphony of Life!

To take our pyramid model, then, another step we could say is the foundation of the whole structure is Consciousness, first Individuated Consciousness, second Collective Human Consciousness, and third the 'One' or source of all consciousness. And the lines dividing each level are actually more like transparent membranes...any action we initiate at any level "echoes" out and affects all levels. For example, a physical massage can affect the emotional body, which is a purely energetic aspect of biology. Or a Subspace subtle energy device can create physical shifts while focusing on the purely energetic aspects of the body.

We now know there are physical structures in the body and brain that allow for the transfer of pure Quantic wave energy to physical responses in the body. These are the "actin filaments" surrounding and penetrating each cell, and the "microtubules" also involved on a cellular level; all encased within the watery "mesenchyme" of the body. This is our "Quantum antenna", as it were.

When we experience a thought about someone, there are electrical signals produced by the brain. There is also subtle Quantum energy waves created at the same time, which are described as "non-local". This means because they operate at a level where "time" and "space" do not limit them. When our friend at a distance is sensitive to the brain waves produced by the subtle shifts in the Quantum field (Subspace) by your thought, they may have a conscious connection with you. We call this a "hunch" or "intuition", and we do this all the time.

From this perspective, everything "out there" exists first as only a wave, which is more a potential, than a "thing". When we give something attention, the waves congeal or "collapse" into particles by the force of our consciousness to create a physical reality. This means all we ever experience is ourselves creating realities, and if we want to change the world "out there", we are right where we need to be to create a new one. It also answers the question, "If a tree falls in the forest and nobody's there, does it make a sound"? No! As a matter of fact, there's no tree or forest either!

What we described as two brains communicating in Subspace is called "Subspace Communication", and is a verified fact. The Russians were using this ability between mother rabbits and their babies during the cold war to secretly communicate with their submarines! "Remote Viewers" are government-trained individuals who can literally project their consciousness to any place or time in the universe and come back and report what they saw, heard, and sensed. And of course the power of Prayer has now been validated statistically to produce measurable healing benefits.

What Bill Nelson has accomplished is to create software that through advanced mathematics and programming techniques mimics the ability of a living brain to react on this level through biofeedback. The CPU of your laptop is producing an electrical field that acts as a "carrier wave" for the Subspace link, just as the brain produces electrical impulses. In order for the computer to make the link at a distance, it must be given clues as to the unique source of Quantum energy it is looking for. In our case, the client's name, birth date, and birth location suffice, along with their conscious permission and the Practitioner's intent.

There are many good resources on Quantum Physics available today. The movie "What the (Bleep) Do We Know?" Has popularized these notions and made them accessible for the general public. We will review here four basic concepts for your consideration...but please study these further for a clearer, more in-depth appreciation of this amazing field of study.

NON-LOCALITY

This describes the "wave like" aspects of the Quantum world. When a subatomic particle is in a wave state, it could be said to (potentially) exist anywhere in time or space. Particles can go back and forth from a wave to a particle state. As our brains are conditioned to think of things spatially, this is not an easy concept to accept. However, it does help to explain the "instantaneous" nature of Quantum Communication. Observers have noticed how thought travels "faster than the speed of light". The "Hundredth Monkey Effect" formalized this notion of instant communication, particularly between members of the same species.

Astronomers now know the physical universe is made up of the same "stuff"...light, elements, etc. When we eventually travel vast distances in space, it will need to be by means of "instant transfer" of our molecules reduced to a quantum state..."beam me up Scotty"!

OBSERVER EFFECT

We have already discussed the primary role of human consciousness in the appearance of matter that is the collapse of waves into particles. This puts you in the "driver's seat", and is ultimately an empowering notion. Attention with the Power of Intent = Creation!

ACTION AT A DISTANCE

Apparently subatomic particles occur in pairs. Perhaps this is just an aspect of Duality, a principle that everything in creation seems to co-exist along with its opposite. This idea is perfectly symbolized by the Asian "yin/yang" symbol. The implication here is that whatever action is applied to a subatomic particle, its twin, no matter where it is manifest, is equally affected. The applications for subspace communication come to mind, as well the possibility for "parallel" worlds.

The Brain: a Quantum Computer
The Computer: a Quantum Brain

Technology only ever expands on a human ability. It is how we extend ourselves into the world, and learn about ourselves in the process. In the case of the Clasp32/Eductor64 (Consciousness) program, we see an elegant analogue of the natural ability of the human body/mind to literally create realities. At the present level of human consciousness, we are just beginning to wake up to this potential within ourselves. Ancient cultures, however, were accessing these abilities through shamanic and "spiritual" practices. We have much to learn from their accumulated experience and wisdom.

The Clasp32/Eductor64 (Consciousness) program can lead you to a greater appreciation of your own intuitive intelligence. It is not a linear program. It is a form of Artificial Intelligence harnessed and focused on "making whole". You will see messages as the device begins to "adapt to your use" on a personal basis!

May your journey be filled with wonder and miracles!

Energy Medicine Theory

- QUANTUM is the smallest amount of a physical quantity that can exist independently, especially a discrete quantity of electromagnetic radiation. This amount of energy is regarded as a unit.

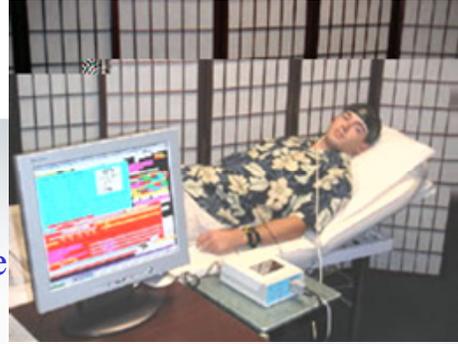

- Quantum Biofeedback is a non-invasive sophisticated technology that energetically scans the strength of your reactions to thousands of electronic signatures of a broad array of items. It retrains your body and mind to a better “reactivity” in a finely tuned way and re-educates muscles for stress reduction. Excess stress is a leading precursor to many diseases and conditions.

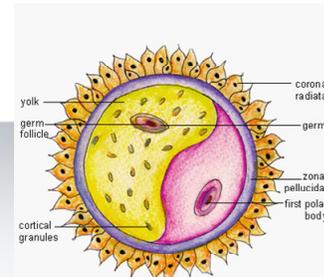

- Stress can come from many sources, such as toxicity, trauma, pathogens, mental factors, perverse energy, allergies, heredity, habits and deficiency syndrome. As acute and chronic forms of stress continue, the burden on the body/mind complex continues.

According to the Hans Selye model of alarm/ adaptation / exhaustion, stress starts by producing an alarm response in the body, which will provoke symptoms. If the stress continues, the body will go into an adaptation stage, which can be symptom free. According to this model, therefore, a lack of symptoms, is not a sign of good health.

This is how some clients can tell you they have a life threatening disease, and be symptom free.

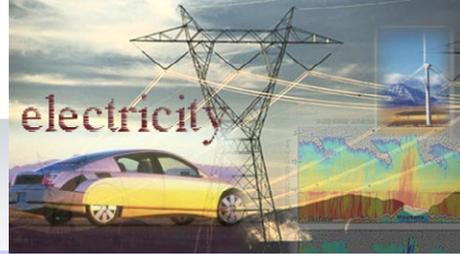

The cells in our body resonate in certain patterns with special functions. Our cells network together to keep our body in harmony. Some forms of stress produce erratic vibrations, setting the stage for disruption of healthy bodily processes.

Viruses, bacteria, fungi and parasites all have resonant frequencies. We interact with these signals all the time in the form of hosting these life forms that have resonant frequencies, and managing the frequencies we are surrounded with from the environment.

Sound and color have frequencies, and we can experience changes in our moods, emotions and in our physical body as different waves of frequencies push against us, and become integrated through our senses and into our energy field.

This incredible advancement measures subtle electrical factors of the body. The electrical factors of the body include voltage, amperage, capacitance, inductance, frequency, and many others.

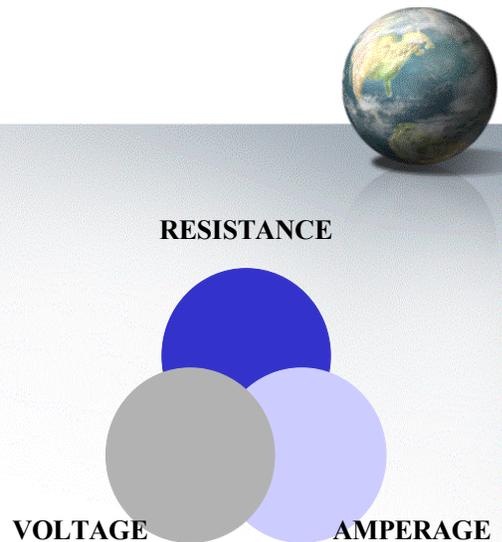

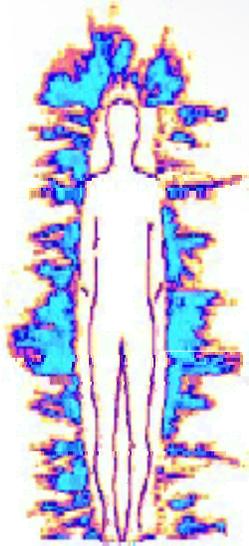

- From these calculations several other ramifications can be surmised. The reaction of the body to electronic signatures of nosodes, isodes, allersodes, sarcodes, classic homeopathics, herbals, minerals, amino acids, enzymes, hormones, bacteria, fungus, parasites, nerves, vertribrae, muscles, and thousands of other compounds can be profound.
- The computer can detect responses to energetic aberrations and train with signals that resemble healthier electrical fields . This can be compared to a rectifying a circuit in your television.

• The basics of bioelectrical Quantum Biofeedback lie in voltage, amperage, and resistance.

• The only thing that can truly be measured in electricity is the voltage and amperage.

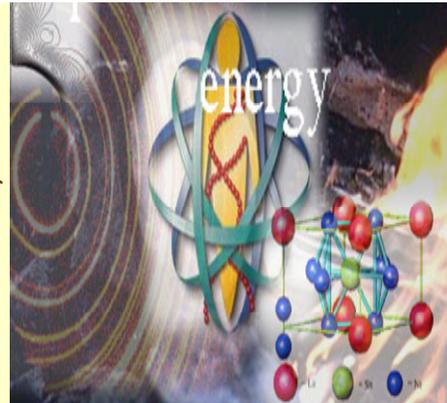

• Everything else is a mathematical variation of voltage and amperage.

The body has components of electromagnetic static with frequency patterns that have resonance and self-correcting capacities. By training with electromagnetic signals we can assist the body and mind to learn how to respond differently...

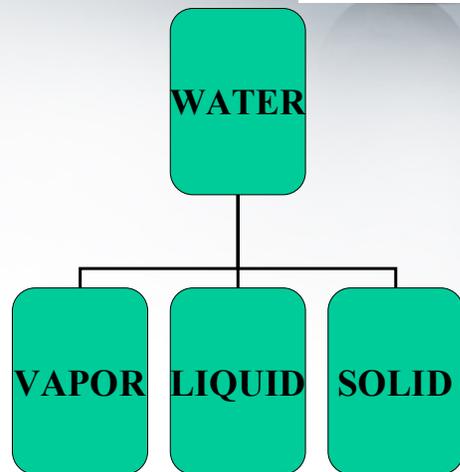

- At the level of the atom, we know that electrons whirl about the nucleus in certain energetically defined orbits.
- In order to move an electron from a lower to a higher orbit, a quantum of energy with very special frequency characteristics is required.
- An electron will only accept energy of the appropriate frequency to move from one energy level to another.

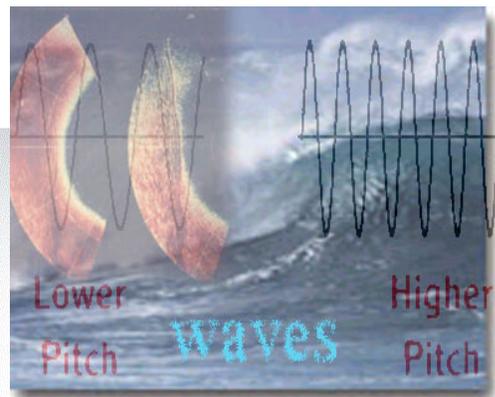

- This required atomic frequency is referred to as the “Resonant Frequency”.
- Atoms and molecules have special Resonant Frequencies that will only be excited by energies of very precise vibratory characteristics.
- For instance, the singer who is able to shatter a wine glass by delivering a high amplitude note does so by singing in the precise Resonant Frequency of the glass.

E=MC² | E=Energy and M=Mass

- What we see as solid matter is equally perceivable as energy. For example, water exists in 3 states: vapor, liquid and solid. Vapor is not always visible, but it exists.
- The molecules of water have more energy, are moving faster in vapor state than as a liquid. The term for this change in state or form is a Quantic change.
- This concept of Quantic change is the basis for modern physics. Physics has revealed that wherever there is energy, there is an electrical and magnetic component.

- Benveniste's research is based on the fact that molecules vibrate – a fact known for decades. These vibrations create electromagnetic signals. Millions of biological molecules can communicate at the speed of light.

- Identifying the specific electromagnetic frequency of different molecules allows modern science to intervene using sound or light to train for specific electromagnetic frequency changes – a discovery that continues to be ignored by most of established medicine.

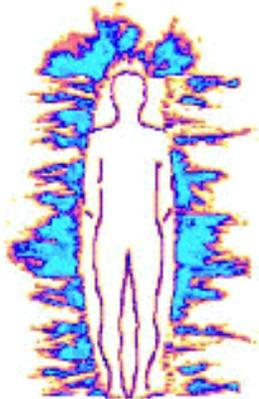

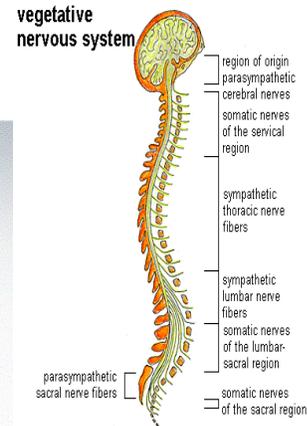

MEASURING BODY ELECTRICITY

- Brain nerve cells, when stimulated, create electrical energy which activates nerves. This is recorded as brain waves by an electroencephalogram (EEG).
- The nerve activities cause muscles to shorten and move the body, and to stimulate the heart, lungs, blood vessels, intestines, and glands. When a muscle shortens, an electrical current is generated which can be recorded by an electromyogram (EMG).
- The electrical heart activity is picked up by an electrocardiogram (EKG).

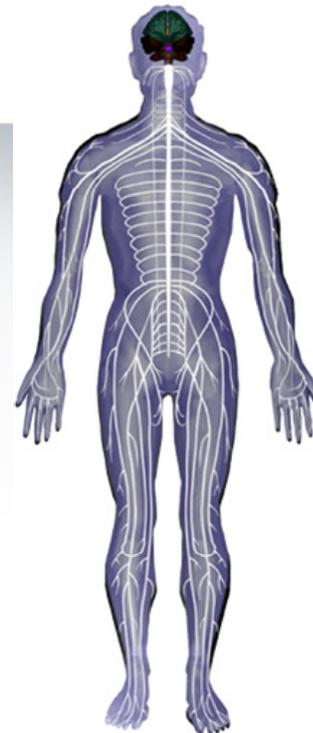

- The human body is permeated by a Quantum Energy Field .
- Both Chinese and Ayurvedic medicines acknowledge a body system of meridians, through which flows an energetic and information-laden substance known as Chi.
- Every human thought and action is accompanied by electrical activity in the nervous system and by biophoton communication among cells.

- In the physical body there are two primary electrical systems. One is the well-known alternating electric current of the nervous system, the brain, neurons, and the nerves, which causes muscles contraction, nerve transmission, glandular secretion, and sensation.

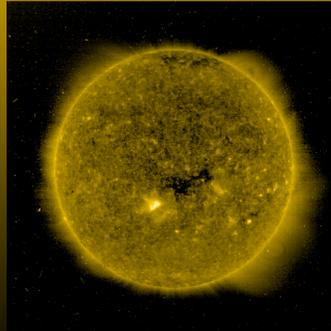

- The other is a newly discovered electromagnetic system surrounding atoms and cells. This energy has been called an aura or an energy field.

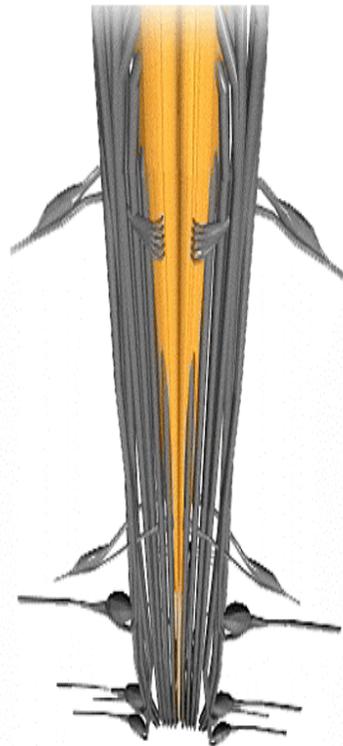

- The external electromagnetic energy is theorized to penetrate the body through acupuncture points, and flows through the meridians into the whole field.
- Thus, it also flows through the connective tissues. The electromagnetic environment is a milieu in which life and physiological happenings occur.
- For all systems to be a “go”, a rich electromagnetic field must be present.

- The sun is the center of our solar system, and life could not exist without the sun giving off radiations that set up oscillations in living matter.
- In like manner, atoms are the center of our biological systems, and without the energy radiations emanating from our cells, our lives could not survive.

The sheaths surrounding the nerves are not merely insulation as described in established biology but are “real wire” that “reach into each area of the body to create a normal electrical environment around each cell, or a stimulatory one when healing growth is needed.”

ENERGY MEDICINE THEORY

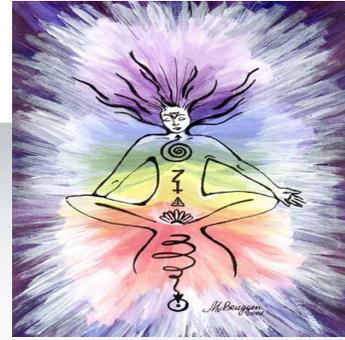

- The body's first reaction may be vibrational or electromagnetic.
- Cells can store the result of damaging frequencies. These waves may build up unnoticed for years.
- Chemical changes begin to appear later. Bacteria, viruses and other pathogens can take hold.
- Lifestyles can create damaging frequencies that could be reacted to long before physical symptoms erupt.

- ◆ The interplay of the physical with the subtle bodies is controlled by a central force, called the “Vital Force”.
- ◆ This encompasses the various acupuncture meridians in the physical body and connects the chakra systems within each of our bodies.

- “Chakra” is a word which means “wheel”. Thus, a chakra is a wheel of energy that can be thought of as a vortex. A vortex is a funnel of spinning energy opening into higher dimensions.

- Once the spinning vortexes of the Vital Force are established, there is more energy available to move through the body. According to this model, flow is restored by the removal of the energy blocks.

To fully embrace the process of returning the body to health, one has to understand the reactivity of the electrical or subtle bodies as well as the physical body.

Any disruption first manifests in the subtle bodies as an electrical interference which appears as a counter-wave signature.

- There are hundreds of smaller charkas all over the body, which have their own specific functions.
- Each of the seven major charkas is located at a major nerve plexus along the brain and spinal cord – the Central Nervous System.
- There is an endocrine gland associated with each chakra. The chakras function to energize or vitalize the physical body.

- Energy enters the chakra and goes to the energy channels, which send the energy into the physical nervous system.
- The nervous system transmits the energy to the endocrine system, which uses the various hormones present to send the energy into the bloodstream.
- The bloodstream passes the energy into each one of the cells in the physical body.

The First Premise of Energy Medicine

- “Change the energy and you change the manifestation of the mass.”
- One method that addresses the conflict between the subtle bodies and the physical is a field of vibration that removes the blocking energy pattern.

Energy medicine involves training with frequencies of electromagnetic waves, which are also present in the auric field.

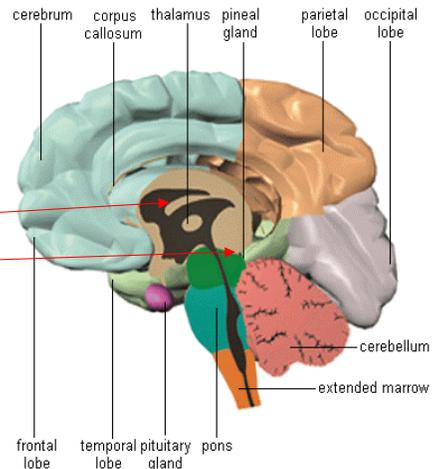

“All living cells emit a radio signal.”

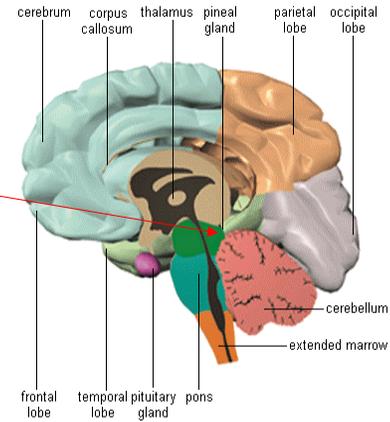

How does the process of changing the electromagnetic field actually work?

- This is the process that has baffled medical science for years. The secret is buried in the understanding of the hypothalamus and the pineal gland.
- The hypothalamus controls the sine wave functioning in the body, and is the switchboard to the brain. It is within this gland that the energy is changed.

- The next organ that is activated in this process is the pineal gland. As the changes in the electromagnetic field take place, this special gland reads the blood as it flows through the body.

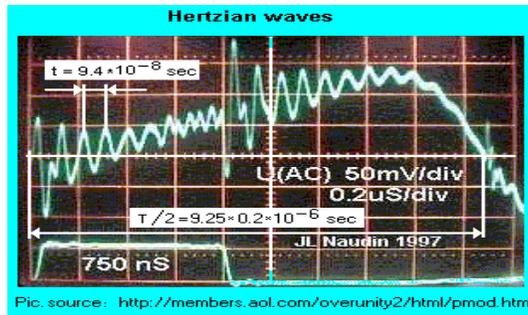

- Blood is also electrical in nature and makes necessary physical changes in the physical body.

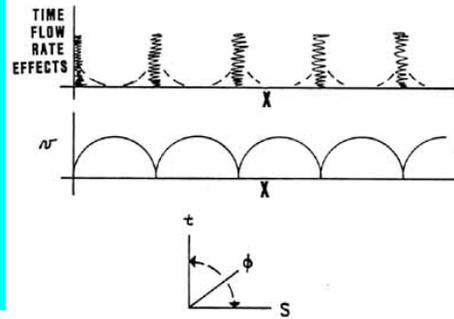

⚡ Any disruption, such as disease, is theorized to first manifest in the subtle bodies as an electrical interference which appears as a counter-wave signature.

⚡ According to this model, all disease is really misplaced energy in the wrong frequency.

© In nature there are two distinct energy patterns – Hertzian Wave and Standing Columnar Wave.

© The Hertzian Wave operates the physical body, while the Standing Columnar Wave constitutes the subtle bodies. The Vital Force is a combination of these two energy patterns acting in conjunction with each other.

The only true science that addresses the conflict between the subtle bodies and the physical is a field of vibration that retrains the blocking energy pattern.

This is the simple concept that allows homeopathy, color therapy, magnet therapy, sound therapy, and flower essences to work.

In their purest forms, they are all forms of energy medicine that work to restore the balance which, in reality, is what medicine was originally all about.

WHAT IS MOST IMPORTANT FOR THE FIRST VISIT?

The first part of your interview is to help the client relax and sit back for the Electro Dermal Reactivity Test. Do your best to get the client to relax and accept and enjoy the interview. The next part of the interview is assisting the client with accepting personal responsibility for their stress. They must see that the disease is often an educational opportunity or an attempt of the body to deal with some deeper toxin or poison. The mind can reflect or cause disease. The client can recognize their responsibility and also recognize the inner ability to heal and correct the stress. We can assist in awakening the healing force within through relaxation. The innate intelligence of the living body must be activated. Resistance to such force can be from clinging to the secondary benefits of the disease, or from fear of change. Personal responsibility for healing and acceptance allow the healing to maximize and unfold.

Next, our interview must be directed at education and awareness of the client. The client needs to be aware of the ways they can contaminate the body with drugs, laziness, attitude, emotional blockage, alcohol, nicotine, caffeine, sugar, processed foods, etc. The SOC index is designed for education, use it. Awareness of addiction, bad attitudes, emotional clinging, selfish motives, childlike behavior, bad parenting, poor expectations, resistance, and others can limit and or block the healing forces. Our job is to increase awareness while letting the client decide on his actions. We can instill and encourage the responsibility for healing in the client.

Next, we can do the Quantum Biofeedback tests. This will generate vast quantities of numbers. Don't let the actual numbers get your attention. Rather, focus on the order of the numbers and how they affect the client. The client, Biofeedback Technician or Specialist, and computer must form a trinity of medicine and all work as a triple team to discern just what is significant or what is not. The three of you can go over the case from the history, attitude, reactions, possibilities, and direction to proceed.

Think, challenge and interact. Your heart is a powerful tool in healing. The computer is a tool that can do incredible analysis at biological speeds so it can interface with the client's superconscious. This and the ability of the computer to process large quantities of data make it an indispensable aid to your practice.

This should free up your time to show compassion and understanding, and use true healing and education with your client.

Last, debrief your client. Recount the data and your interaction to come to some conclusion, and determine the way forward. This path will often include lifestyle changes, affirmations, education about homeopathics, exercises, meditations, etc. Discuss the triggers for stress, support structures, flexibility of actions, benefits of good mental attitude, and the next visit. Healing will flow if we remove the blockages through relaxation and muscle re-education.

PREPARATION, DEMOGRAPHICS & CALIBRATION

The first thing to consider in greeting your client is to have them complete an Informed Consent form. This sets a Professional tone, and gives you time to open the program. The form will assist you as you interpret the Test results.

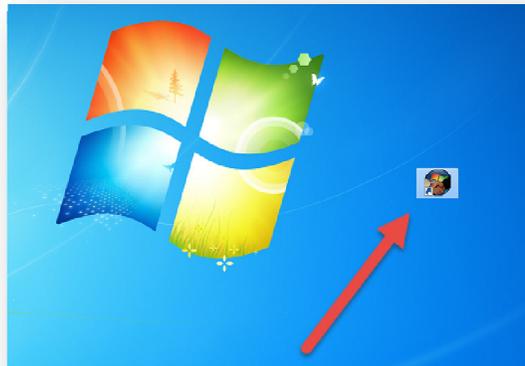

After this, offer a brief explanation of how the Quantum works and how it can help them. Explain that you are gathering information from their electro dermal skin responses to thousands of signals. Explain, as well, how certain stressors can be directly trained with subtle Energetic programs. Tell them they will be provided with lots of good information on how they can improve their wellness. Unless you are an MD or other recognized licensed Medical professional, avoid explicitly any inference to Diagnosis or Treatment of Disease.

A word about computer “glitches” and problems: It is assumed practitioners have some degree of computer proficiency. If not, consider a Computer Basics course at a Community College in your area. This will avoid some frustrations. Each computer seems to have its own characteristics. Some are more problematic than others. Generally, the newer the computer, the smoother the operation. Use a “dedicated” computer and try to limit the number of other uses and programs.

INSTRUCTIONS

ATTACHING THE HARNESS

The client should be hooked up to the harness “before” Calibration.
Have the client remove all jewelry not worn at night, loose change, keys and cell phone.

HEADBAND

Attach with the white cord on the right side of the head.

HAND STRAPS

RED: Right Hand

FOOT STRAPS

Attach comfortably; snug but not tight.

Note: Wipe and clean the harness after each use (especially if contagion is suspected).

BILL NELSON'S RULES FOR THE HARNESS

- Do not apply over broken skin.
- Do not use on clients with pacemakers.
- Do not use on clients with extreme electrical allergy.
- Be Cautious with clients who have had electric shock therapy.
- Wipe and clean the harness after each use (especially if contagion is suspected).
- Surrogate testing can be done on infants with the harness connected to the mother and the child in the mother's arms.
- If you suspect a problem then do not connect the harness to the client, but have them place their hand on the test tray (or a sample of their hair, etc.).
- Attempting to open the box will interfere with the operation and voids any warranty on your device.

WHY IS DEMOGRAPHICS IMPORTANT?

When the demographic information is entered, the Clasp32/Eductor64 (Consciousness) program can now individuate to the client. This ensures that the program will place emphasis on reactions of certain concerns specific to the individual. Filling in the Demographics will also provide an important opportunity to develop a relationship (bond) with the client. Here we are getting to know the person, their lifestyle habits, traumas, etc. Going through the demographics will also produce an opening for the practitioner to educate the client on their lifestyle habits that may not be conducive to health.

RETRIEVE AND CHANGE PREVIOUS CLIENT DATA

If you want to get a previous client demographic file then click the Client Data [Load New or Previous Client] button.

The screenshot shows a software interface for entering demographic data. At the top, there are menu items: Demographics, Report set up, Patient Data, Help, Close, Halt system, Focus on Symptoms not Diagnosis, Ethics Co. Access for Informed consent. Below the menu, there are input fields for 'Testee Name', 'Pregnant' (checkbox), 'Inherited Disorder' (checkbox), and 'Visit #' (000). There are also fields for 'Amount of negativity 1-10' and 'Amount of kg. over'. A section with radio buttons for 'Male', 'Female', and 'Both' is highlighted in green. Below this is a large green-bordered form with various health-related questions and checkboxes, such as 'SOC Index', 'Number of organs removed', 'Personal stress 0-10 10 max', 'No. of Sugar type products / day', etc. A red arrow labeled '1' points to a button at the bottom left that says 'Patient Data (Load New or Previous Patient)'. This button is circled in black. A red arrow labeled '2' points to a dialog box that appears when the button is clicked. The dialog box is titled 'consciousness' and contains the text 'Load an previous Patient from list below' and an 'OK' button. The background of the software interface features a butterfly graphic.

Click on client name and use Modify Client button and then the Save Current Client button to record changes in old data, especially after changing the SOC index.

Completing the SOC questionnaire is an excellent opportunity to build client awareness and develop a rapport with your client. For the best TEST results answer as many questions as possible. High numbers will influence the results. The flashing box will remove once you begin the questionnaire.

ACTION

- For a new Client:
- Type in the Client Name (upper left corner of screen)
- [Male], [Female] or [Both] (Both - if you are working on a house or an office)
- Fill in the Questionnaire moving through each question thoroughly.
- If Personal Stress is 7 or higher further questions will appear.

NOTE: Two additional questions have been added:

- 1) How many times a day do you meditate or use stress reduction techniques?
- 2) Any Root Canal treatments?

EXPLANATION

It is very important to fill in the Demographics as this information fine-tunes the device to place emphasis on reactions of the key issues indicated. The “Add More Data to Report” panels are optional. Keep in mind that the information in these additional panels is not stored from one session to the next.

SOC VALUES

- These indicate areas for adjusting lifestyle.
- (You can click on SOC Calculate to see the SOC Index value.)

0-100: This can indicate a high self-healing potential.

100-200: This can indicate that self-intervention, and lifestyle changes might be a good choice for the client to make.

200 and above: This can indicate great stress, requiring training, emotional control and lifestyle changes.

The screenshot displays a medical software interface for a patient named NIRVANA ZARABI-SMITH. The interface includes a menu bar at the top with options like 'Demographics', 'Report set up', 'Patient Data', 'Help', 'Close', 'Halt system', 'Focus on symptoms next', 'Diagnosis', 'Ethics C.O.', and 'Access for informed consent'. Below the menu, there are fields for 'Patient Name', 'Date of Birth', 'Sex', 'Pregnant', 'Inherited Disorder', 'Amount of negativity', 'Visit #', and 'Amount of kg. overweight Dr. opinion'. The main area is a 'SOC Index' table with two columns of metrics and their values. A red arrow points to the 'SOC INDEX: 100' value at the bottom left. Below the table, there are buttons for 'Patient Data (Load New or Previous Patient)', 'SOC Calculate', 'Add more Data to Report', 'Report Access', 'Anthromorphic measurement Metric', 'Anthromorphic measurement American', 'Notes', 'Acu Symptom Profile', 'First Interview Help', 'Wellness Inventory', 'Impairment Data', 'Impairment Book', and 'Check Body Fat Percentage'. The interface also has a 'Close' button and a 'Top Class Article' link.

WHAT DOES CALIBRATION DO?

The computer will develop a handshake with the client to maximize the reactivity scores. The computer will measure the Trivector reactions of the client to establish a link to the client with resistance, voltage, and amperage. This is a connection for conductance, capacitance, and inductance for magnetic, static, and resistance link up. The computer will adjust reaction timing, frequency interaction, and the Trivector interaction. This handshake allows for the Auto Focus capacities of this device. The Virtual All button will disable the electrical harness and work only through the virtual subspace link. The Electrical Test Reset will turn the harness back on. It is not necessary to use the Virtual All button for subspace sessions, as the device is so sophisticated now that it can detect when no one is in the harness and automatically switches to subspace. The Virtual All button is only used in those rare cases when you need to turn off the electrical components of the system during a session while your client is in the harness and straps (such as in the case of a pacemaker or electrically sensitive).

The device is programmed with a “Fast Track Calibration” button and this button will do everything needed for calibration, automatically. However, if should you want to take the “scenic route” in calibration (for whatever reason), you can proceed with the instructions below.

In the Computer Risk Field Neutralization panel we can check reactivity to Geopathic stress. The Central Processing Unit or CPU of your computer emits some harmful electromagnetic radiation EMR. These radiations can weaken the body. This program nullifies them with inverse signatures thus producing a null field without interfering with your computer operations in any fashion.

The device can also develop a subspace protection in your CPU as well. Also we can use the CPU to produce a constant Schumann type wave to surround the computer with a three to four foot area of a health stimulating Bio-field. There is a natural Low Frequency Field that permeates the world. This has been called the Schumann field after its discoverer, Heinrich Schumann. This field seems to be stimulating to health of organisms like humans. By using the computer to develop this waveform of an ELF (Extremely Low Frequency) nature, we can stimulate the health of the user of the computer and the client having training. Sensitive people can feel this field and its effects. Thus, the computer can produce an ELF health field from its CPU, a healing sound and magnetic benefit from the CD, and 8 different energetic programs from the harness.

The Trivector signature is comprised of the three major co-factors of all Electromagnetic phenomena. These are the amps, volts, and resistance or conductance, capacitance, and inductance. Together they make a factor known as reactance. Electro Physiological Reactance (EPR) is a measurable factor that can affect reactivity to many aspects of the quality of a client's wellness. The fact that EPR happens at the ionic rate means that our EPR test can be done at centisecc speeds. Only a computer can calculate the vast quantities of information at these speeds! In the calibration process of our Clasp32/Eductor64 (Consciousness) program test, we test the EPR of the client to 20 Trivector signature samples of low reactive distilled water and sample of sugar and insecticide, the highest toxic and reactive substances known. If the client reacts to the toxic reactive materials significantly then the test can proceed. If the reactance is not significant then the computer will alter the test time or sensitivity until the calibration test is shown to be significant. Then the test can proceed. During the large Xrroid test over 65,000,000 bits of data are developed and analyzed.

SUMMARIZING:

There are a number of things that occur during the calibration process.

1. Communication handshake
2. Trivector reactions of resistance, voltage, amperage, or conductance, capacitance, inductance
3. Population of the VARHOPE information
4. Auto focusing with the client
5. Mini-test of distilled water and sugar insecticide combo
6. Two suggested "Main Programs" populated (on the main "Universal Biofeedback Therapy" panel)
7. Corrects Geopathic stress
8. Populates the Nelson Report

Possible reasons that a client does not calibrate may include:

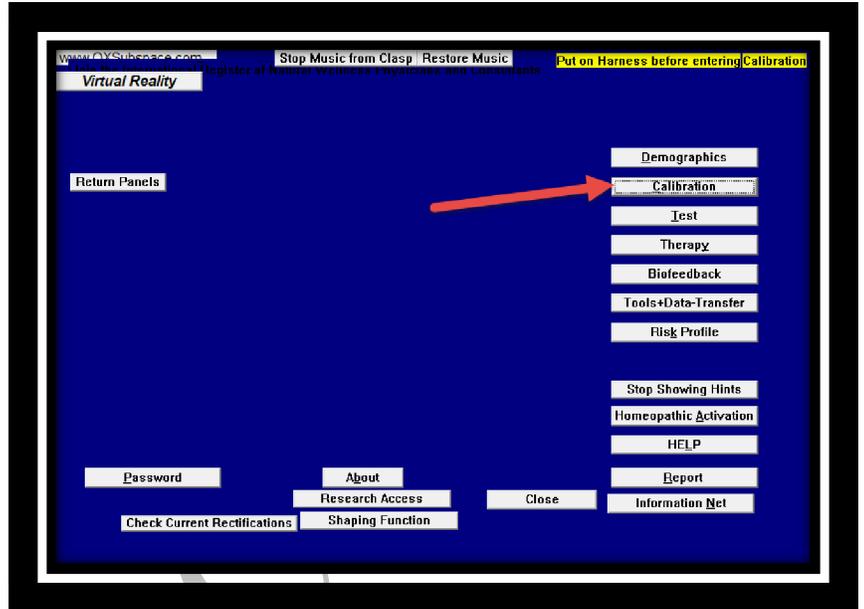

- Too weak
- Morphine use
- Too much caffeine
- No permission

WHAT DOES THE MAIN MATRIX PROGRAM DO?

Xrroid is a trademarked word for the rapid measuring process of thousands of trivector signatures of substances in the device through the harnesses of the electro physiological reactivity (EPR) of the client. There are over twelve real and thirty-three virtual for forty-five total measures of reactance variables performed on each substance imprint. Since the reaction is an ionic reactance, the test reaction takes place in small time intervals allowing for the rapid test procedure called the XRROID.

This process reveals the results from checking electro physiological reactivity to thousands of substances at biological speeds. Unconscious electrical reactions are represented from the cybernetic biofeedback loop. During this process 65,000,000 bits of data are analyzed. All items on the Main Matrix are scanned twice for verification. The red high reactivity items in the Main Matrix are scanned and verified three times for accuracy. The sub-files to the right of the Main Matrix are categories of filtered items from the Main Matrix. For example, clicking on the Bacteria sub-category allows you to view all reactions to trivector signatures of bacteria, as well as trivector signatures of homeopathics and herbals historically used for them, in degree of reactivity. High and sometimes low reaction values are significant. The high reactive values signify a more acute reaction and the low reactive items may signify a chronic reaction. Scroll through the items and look for repetition and probabilities that may be stress factors for the client. You can train reactivity to any item in the Main Matrix by training it with (“zapping”).

The highest reaction score appears on the bottom of the Main Matrix. The higher the number the higher the reaction. Scores above 100 are significant. The computer will shade the significant numbers in red or pink. This is not an absolute, but the best “mathematical estimate”. The red scores are three standard deviations from the norm, purple are two standard deviations from the norm, yellow, one, and the blue scores are in order of reactivity.

Use the values as a gauge; they are not hard data, but indicators. We must also look beyond the values to see trivector signatures. Any items that are repetitive and/or relating to the same theme, can give great clues to guide the stress reduction program choices in a certain direction.

Almost all programs can be accessed from the Main Matrix by first clicking on Program on the top menu bar and then choosing the desired program to be accessed. Specific item or a category of items can be trained by choosing the “Auto Focus Bio-Resonance Zap” relaxation and muscle re-education training from the top menu bar and then choosing the desired training to be performed.

From this panel you can also do an Individual Reaction test to determine the significance of the reaction to a specific item or to begin training for the specific item.

READING

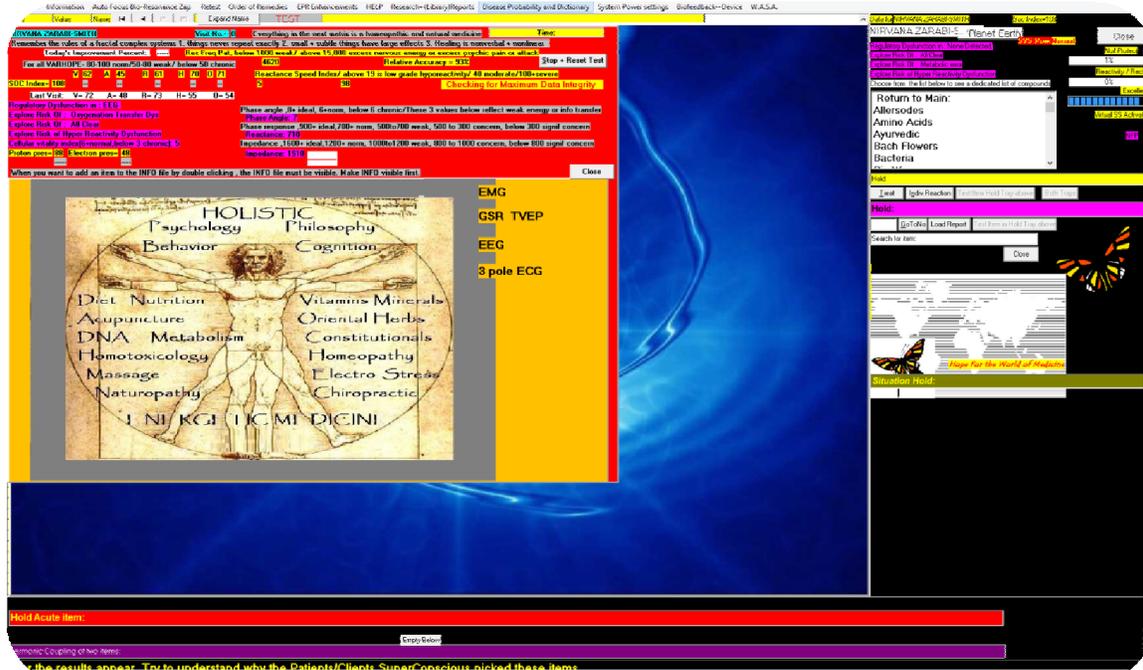

WHAT IS CONTAINED IN THE MAIN MATRIX AND VARHOPE PROGRAMS?

The Prepare button allows for computer calibration. Click the Prepare button once and then the Test button once more. Request that the client be still but not stiff and refrain from speaking for approximately three minutes. It can be helpful to inform the client that you will let them know when the process begins and when it ends so that they are not nervous about when they can and cannot speak or shift position.

The testing (Xrroid process) will scan reactions to over 11,000 items at approximately one hundredth of a second. This is far beyond human abilities to calculate efficiently and it would take too much graphic space to chart it. Thanks to the advancement of our modern computer technology, the total time of the test should only be slightly over three minutes. The result of this test has been synthesized so that specific, pertinent information appears on the Main Matrix panel as reaction values.

The VARHOPE values reflect electrical calculations from the demographics and calibration processes. Carefully review the values and any dysfunction messages and record this information on the Client Form as this data provides a good starting point to make program choices with.

MAIN MATRIX SCREEN

EXPLANATION

TESTING

The test will reveal the strength of response (reactivity) to over 10,000 trivector signatures, in order from strongest to weakest.

With the Client seated comfortably, request that they refrain from speaking and sit quietly while the test is proceeding (to increase accuracy). It also recommended that the client does not cross their hands or their feet during the session. Mention you will be jotting down some initial information. Ask permission to start the process: 'May we begin?' is sufficient.

Using your Intake Form record basic bioelectric data, cell vitality, phase angle, "explore Risk of" categories, Reactivity type (normal, hyper, hypo, dysfunction) and (electrical reactivity pH values) Proton and Electron values.

VARHOPE SCORE INTERPRETATION

EXPLANATION

VARHOPE VALUES:

1. The VARHOPE scores are the result of CALIBRATION whereas the Main Matrix values are the result of running the TEST.
2. The VARHOPE values are an indication of the body electric parameters. Low VARHOPE values generally indicate energetic weakness. People can be generally ill because their system is unable to cope with stressors.

V = Voltage:

- Associated with adrenal function and willpower
- Normal range is 80 -100, below 50 is low.

A = Amperage:

- Associated with brain function, serotonin, life force
- Normal is 80-100, Below 50 is low

R = Resistance:

- Associated with ease of energy flow. It is noteworthy to mention that Mercury contamination; (possibly from leaky amalgam fillings), prior injuries, surgeries or removals can present as a very low Resistance value.
- Normal range is 80 -100, Below 50 is low

H = Hydration:

- Associated with the body's water absorption reactivity.
- Normal range is 80 -100, Below 50 is low

O = Oxygenation:

- Associated with the ease of oxygen flow in the body; which is theorized to affect "cellular vitality".
- Normal range is 80 – 100, Below 50 is low

P = Proton Pressure:

- Associated with the estimated electrical pH. 65 -70 is the Normal range of response.
- The closer the numbers between Proton P. and Electron P.; the more balanced. A wide difference between these values may warrant the need for further investigation and education on pH.

E =Electron Pressure:

- Associated with the whole of the body's electric reactivity. This is the estimation of available electrons.
- 70 -75 is a good range.

TIP!

Any time more than one score is low in the VARHOPE values, you might consider making a note of this and running the Auto VARHOPE in the Universal Biofeedback Therapy panel.

EXPLANATION

RELATIVE ACCURACY:

On the red VARHOPE panel you will see a "Relative Accuracy" percentage and at times this percentage will be low. There is no need to address this item with the client as the system is designed to adjust calibration on a continuous basis.

The screenshot displays the VARHOPE software interface with the following data:

EXPLANATION

VARHOPE PANEL INTERPRETATION:

Cellular Vitality – associated with the energy present as estimated electrically for the cell – components of cell vitality are linked to oxygenation, protein digestion or blood issues/anemia and Essential Fatty acid intake. 6 and above is normal – below 3 chronic.

Resonant Frequency Pattern – associated with the reactivity of the nervous system trivector signatures, stored stress such as from unprocessed emotions, aging, sugar intake, or a spiritual issue. Below 1000 is associated with risk of degeneration – above 15,000 is possible nervous energy or psychic pain. When the Resonant Frequency Pattern is out of the normal range, it is recommended to train via the ECG and the ANS (Autonomic Nervous System) training programs.

Reactance Speed – associated with the speed at which the body responds, such as to pathogen trivector signatures. Below 15 is ideal – below 40 normal – above 100 stressed

Phase Angle – associated with the ability of the body to regenerate cells as a cellular aging index. 8 plus is ideal – 6 normal – below 3 chronic

Phase Response – associated with the ability for all the systems of the body to work together. 900 plus is ideal – 700 normal – below 300 concern

Impedance – associated with the ability of energy to flow around and through the body “unimpeded”.
1600 plus ideal – 1200 normal – below 1200 weak – below 800 concern

EXPLANATION

“REGULATORY DYSFUNCTION” MESSAGES

Energy Management System – if the pH shows an acid state reaction (Proton Pressure below 65), stress related potassium and magnesium imbalance might be occurring. If not acidic it could be related to emotional stress.

Organ System – observe reactivity on the Sarcodes panel.

Spinal Energy Flow – do Spinal Muscular-Education for training.

EEG – consider Brain Wave trivector Signature Relaxation Training.

ECG – this could hint at dysfunction (or tendency to one) in the heart’s electrical reactivity. Use ECG Fast Fourier relaxation: “Stabilize Heart Beat” training.

EXPLANATION

“EXPLORE RISK OF” MESSAGES

Metabolic Error – associated with cellular metabolism stress. Address this message in Auto VARHOPE and check bacteria and fungus trivector signature reactivity levels.

Oxygenation – check Risks Profile; pursue Virtual Doctor and Nutrition trivector Signature screen / Internal Enzymes pattern training, and Timed Cybernetic Feedback Therapy, Music, SuperLearning: Oxygenation Stimulation Training. Possible stress with breathing patterns, lack of exercise, lungs, blood and cellular EFA’s.

Hydration – check Risks Profile; pursue Virtual Doctor and Nutrition trivector Signature screen / Internal Enzymes pattern training. For proper hydration of the cells it is important to sip water throughout the day and not gulp it down! Gulping it down will flush the kidneys, which is not a bad thing. However, it does not hydrate the body. Other educational considerations are absorption, kidney function, lymphatics, sweat, lungs etc., and training with these sarcodes trivector signatures.

Degeneration – associated with a low Resistance and a low Resonant Frequency Pattern, together with reactivity to some of the stored stress trivector signatures. Note that Degeneration does not necessarily mean chronic stress, but consider that there is a general hint that there is either a present or possible degenerative process. Check Risks Profile for degenerative hints, pursue Virtual Doctor and train “Degeneration” in “Timed Therapies” (Timed Programs).

Hyper Reactivity Dysfunction – is associated with reacting strongly during the calibration process, and this may be the reason there are so many Red items present. A fundamental consideration is emotional stress. The Main Matrix will show reactions, and exploring the NLP Emotional Growth Stress Reduction program is very helpful.

Hypo Reactivity Dysfunction – associated with under reactivity. Hypo is more notable than Hyper as there needs to be reactivity to see meaningful information via the “test” reactions. A client’s reactivity can be stimulated via the Main Matrix screen / EPR Enhancements / Reactivity Jolt (use on the weak reactive) only if “Hypo Reactivity” continues to display by the third session; otherwise, you can allow the system to automatically adjust levels accordingly.

Reactivity Dysfunction – associated with either Hypo or Hyper reactivity, or both if there were incongruent reactions during the calibration process.

BIOFEEDBACK SYSTEMIC RELAXATION PROGRAMS

OPTIONAL:

You have the option to run Biofeedback programs PRIOR to running the TEST if you wish to. Below are instructions:

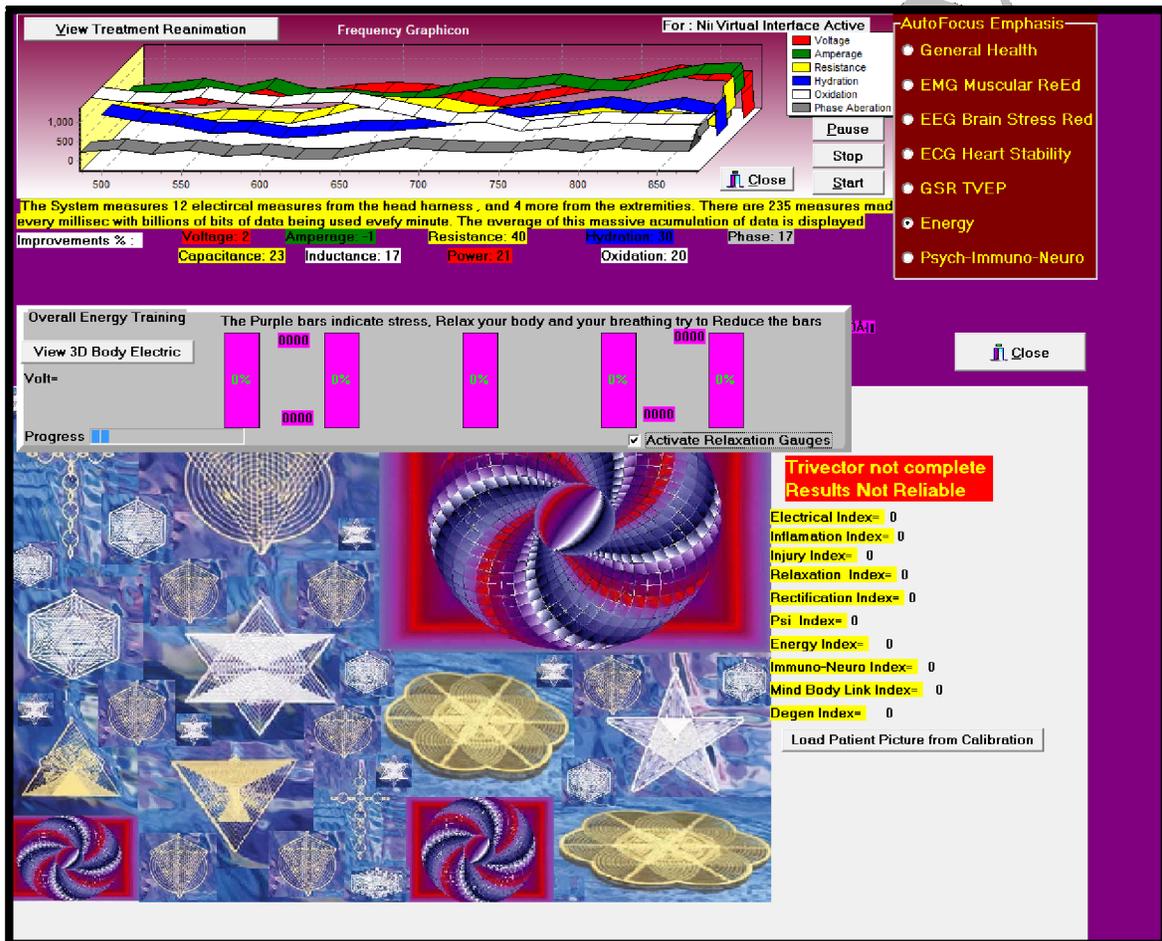

- 1) Prior to Testing a "Disclaimer" appears.
 - 2) Prior to Testing you can click to access the following programs:
 - Biofeedback Systemic Relaxation
 - Universal Biofeedback Therapy
 - Hyper-Reactant Reactivity Training
 - Muscular Re-education for Athletes
 - Muscular Re-education for Injured Muscles
 - Relaxation Training
 - Relaxation Training for Spiritual
 - EMG EEG ECG GSR Biofeedback Chart

The EMG EEG ECG GSR Biofeedback Chart opens up a client interactive training program:

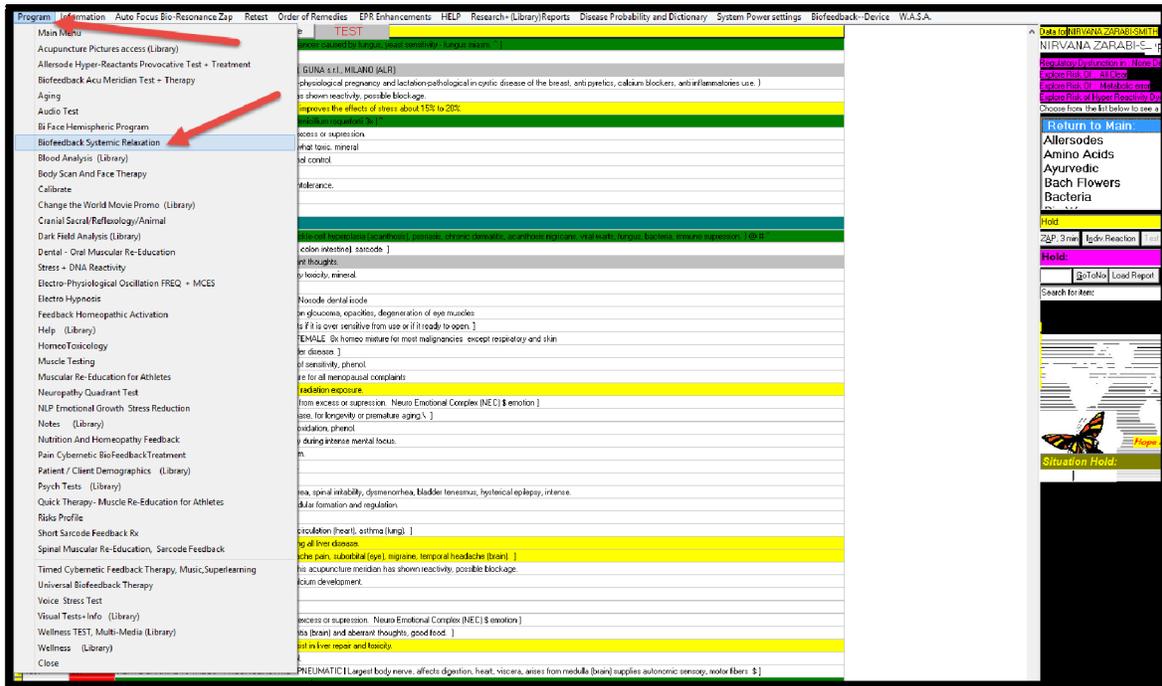

This is a client interactive training program where the client must focus on relaxing and deep breathing to see a change, and make the % in the bars to recede. First a selection must be made under Auto Focus Emphasis, and then a check mark needs to be placed in Activate Relaxation Gauges, then click View 3D Body Electric, and then Start Biofeedback. When done, click Stop and then Close.

TIP!

If you want to open this program AFTER the TEST, then follow these steps:

-  Program (at the top of the Main Matrix Menu)
-  Biofeedback Systemic Relaxation

The screenshot displays the software's main menu with a 'TEST' button highlighted. A red arrow points to the 'TEST' button. Another red arrow points to the 'Biofeedback Systemic Relaxation' option in the left-hand menu. The main window shows a list of programs, including 'Biofeedback Systemic Relaxation', which is highlighted in blue. The right-hand side of the interface shows a 'Return to Main' button and a search bar.

EXPLANATION

MAIN MATRIX INFORMATION

The 10,000 plus reactivity items are ordered according to the degree of recognition/ reactivity. Reactions are not necessarily diagnostic, although they sometimes correlate to a known issue. The body has simply recognized an item as a possible past, present or future reactive issue, possibly as need, or aversion. Highlight a chosen item with a single click.

TEST INTERPRETATION

It is important to realize that the values are reactive. They are not necessarily reactions to the items present in the body now and be reactions from past, present or future needs or stressors. Remember that reactions do not stay fixed and do vary. Before going through individual reactions, it is advisable to go to the Risks Profile under Programs on the top left of the screen. This is in order to establish priorities, which helps in your interpretation of Reactions. The Risks Profile represents a correlation of all reactions into categories. One of the Quantum's greatest attributes is the ability to categorize repetitious items or themes. This is vital information that can create avenues for opening dialog with your client and providing the clues as to which biofeedback program choices will be applicable.

EXPLANATION

THE COLOR BANDS

Red: Items indicate the client's strongest reactions. These are things the body is potentially struggling with or needing. (three or more standard deviations above the baseline, or "norm" obtained in calibration).

Pink: Slightly less reactive than the red range. (two standard deviations above their baseline).

Yellow: Items are slightly less reactive than in the Purple section. (one standard deviation above their baseline).

Blue: Items are just in order of reactivity. Items color-coded in blue above 100 and less than 50 may have significance. To determine this, we consider two factors:

1. The SOC score of the client.

- a. (If the SOC score is in the normal range of 0-100, then, in theory, all items with a value > 100 and color-coded blue are significant.
- b. And, in theory, those > 50 but <100 indicate that the client is reacting appropriately when encountering these potential stressors). So, no need to investigate that stressor at this time.

2. The position of the Selye Bar in the Risks Profile.

- a. This is one of the reasons we are encouraged to go to the Risks Profile right after TEST, so that we can see the position of the Selye Bar in order to observe the estimation of "how" our client is adapting to stress.
- b. When the body is estimated to have started "adapting to stress" or has become "exhausted" by the stressors, then some of the most chronic reactions can be found in the low blue numbers at the low end of the Main Matrix; because the body potentially has adapted to these and is no longer reacting them.

The value numbers on the left of the screen on the Main Matrix, reflect reactivity rated in a numerical value, which needs to be taken in context with each individual as they vary from client to client. This is a general guideline:

- 250 or above reveals high reactivity
- Any number above 100 is a significant reaction, current or acute
- 100 or below to 50 is the "baseline" or "norm".

- 50 or below reveals exhaustion, chronic, long-term stress, poor reactivity, or items of no consequence. Further reactive testing via the “Individual Reaction” may be used to help determine if it is a trivector signature worth training with (by “zapping” or piggybacking in other programs.)

Take notice of the highest red items and quickly look over the list. Look also at the lowest blue numbers by clicking on the back arrow at the top of the screen. Scroll items on the right side are Main Matrix Sub-files. (Right side of the screen) Do various items, such as emotional imponderables or organ sarcodes trivector signatures repeat? Is there a recognizable pattern between the items? Make note of those items. Now look at the four purple lines on the upper right side of the test box, on the upper right of the Main Matrix screen; these represent areas to: Explore Risk of and Check Regulatory Dysfunction in.

EXPLANATION

HOMEOPATHIC TERMINOLOGY

Many of the Trivector Signatures on the Main Matrix were derived from specific designations, or types, of Homeopathics:

Nosodes: Homeopathics originally made from pathogens – virus, bacteria, fungus, worms, diseased tissue, etc.

Isodes: Homeopathics originally made from inorganic compounds – synthetic toxins.

Hyper-Reactants: Homeopathics originally made from items that may elicit hyper-reactivity, such as airborne allergens and the like.

Sarcodes: Homeopathics originally made from healthy tissue/organ samples.

Singulars: Homeopathics made from one single ingredient, such as “Arnica Montana”.

Combination Homeopathics: Homeopathics made from multiple items.

EXPLANATION

INDIVIDUAL REACTION

From the Main Matrix you may choose to test an item individually. This is a more in depth subtest just for the chosen item. The most important information at this level is the “Total Reactance” and “Resonance”. Seventy-five or over indicates a continued reactance and resonance with the item. “Rectified” shows that by conducting this “Individual Reaction” a positive feedback of reduced stress has been achieved by the client. This would be applicable for both past and future issues. Because the test itself has biofeedback training benefits, the test may have satisfied the need by “Rectifying” to 85 or higher simply upon conducting the test. (Note: The “Allergy” number is not a medical diagnosis of “allergy” and should not be languaged as such: it means biofeedback “hyper-reactance”.)

- ☞ [Retest Item Toxic or Needed]
Brings up questions which can focus the retest - wait until it finishes.
- ☞ [Interpret Results]
- [Zap] (“Train” with) the item until rectified to 100 or more.

EXPLANATION

INTERPRETING THE RESULTS

Total Reaction: shows the total reactivity to a substance. High = high need or highly toxic.

Allergic Reaction: The “Allergy” number is not a medical diagnosis of “allergy” and should not be language as such: it means biofeedback “hyper-reactance”. Above 75 confirms strong hyper-reactance. An item can be significant on both the positive and aversion levels at the same time. (As the homeopathic Theory of Similars dictates.)

Difference: simple subtraction of the difference between the “Allergy” number (“hyper reactance”) and the “Total React” number.

Resonance: a high value indicates that this item is a good selection to train with.

Coherence: a high number shows an on-going reaction – and that the feedback loop is consistent between the client and the signal.

Rectified: if this is over 100 then the training feedback has been satisfactory. For pathogen trivector signatures, you may still need to “Zap” Train for relaxation and muscle re-education. Under 100 means that the client has still not effectively reduced their response to the item, and that further training (“zap”) of the item is suggested.

Fourier Chaos Harmonic: a number relating to the adaptation response to the testing and mathematics.

High Reactivity and a low resonance indicate that there is an ongoing need for training with the item.

Reactance is high and only one of Resonance / Coherence is high, indicates short-term use of the item for training.

TIP!

INTERPRETATION:

- If Total Reactance and Resonance are BOTH HIGH (80-100), then it's an ongoing stress reaction in the "physical" body.
- If Total Reactance and Resonance show is low and the other one is high; then it's an ongoing stress "energetically", and may still be reactive, say, in the aura. It may be that person's stress, or it may their loved ones stress they are carrying. It may still be reactive from 'their field'.
- If both Total Reactance and Resonance are low, then it's probably not their stress.

EXPLANATION

RECTIFICATION VALUES

It is important to note that high rectification values are the ideal and should you find that any particular rectification is difficult to achieve or in fact the numbers begin to decline STOP! There are reasons for this to occur and this is an opportunity to seek out links or connections to the lack of responsiveness. Please do not continue to “pound away” believing that you must get your client to the ideal rectification or you may trigger the Alarm response. Remember to be gentle with your client and trust the wisdom of the body, it is telling us something is amiss. A good rule of thumb for rectification is to continue until 100% rectification is achieved as long as the rectification number continues to increase. At any point that rectification goes down, such as two times in a row, then please stop the training program. If the item being trained will not rectify, you may want to approach the issue from another angle.

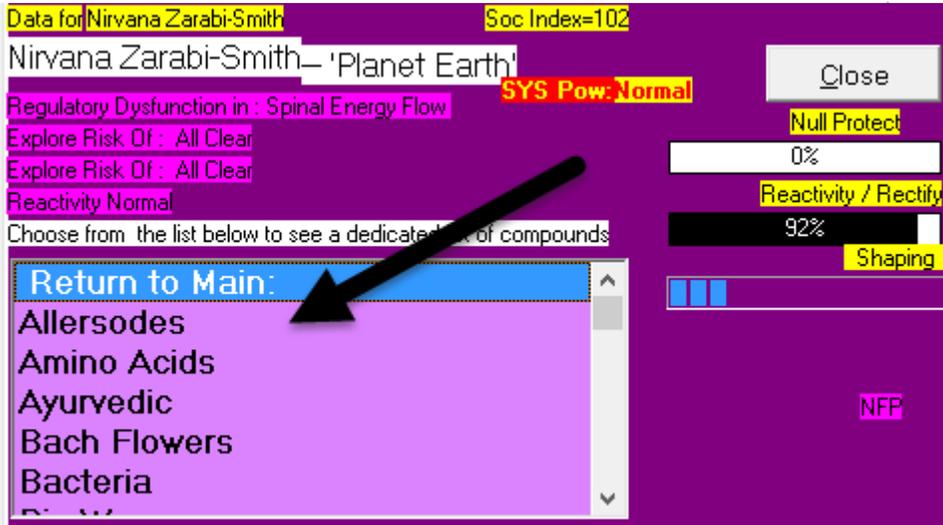

ACTION

SUBFILES

These are categories of items to the right of the Main Matrix.

- ☞ Scroll down and click on any Subfile to bring up all items relating to the category. Check the ones that are of special interest to you, making note of highest numbers and any trivector signatures or items that repeat.

EXPLANATION

ZAP & AUTO FOCUS BIO-RESONANCE ZAP (RELAXATION TRAINING AND MUSCLE RE-EDUCATION)

This function offers a “training” of many types, depending on what you are “zapping.” It can provide “Relaxation Training” if working with Flower Essences, “Muscle Re-education” if working with the “Muscles” trivector signature subfile, or “Reduced Reactivity Training” to specific groups of trivector signatures of items (such as Pathogen trivector Signatures.)

ACTION

- ☞ Click any category that requires training (gives a 5 minute zap)
 - For Parasites consider three separate 5-minute interval zaps.

TIP!

There are many wonderful choices for Auto Zapping on the drop down list; each giving a 5-minute zap of the top items in each category.

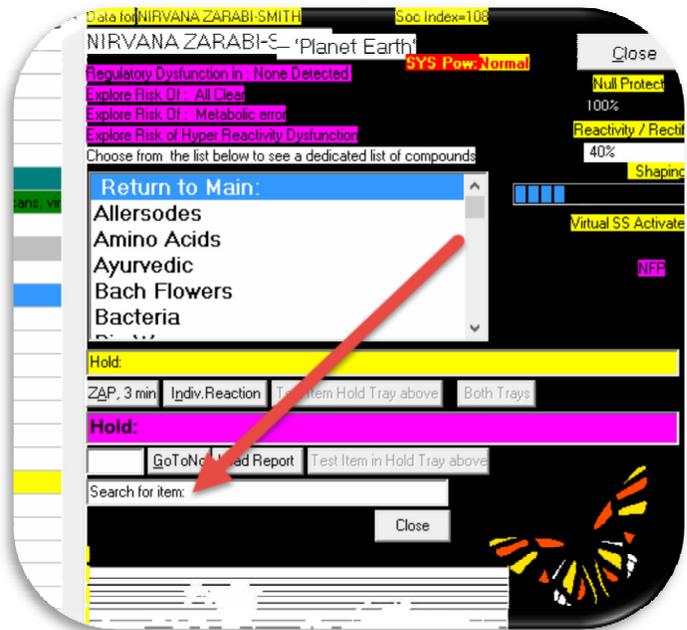

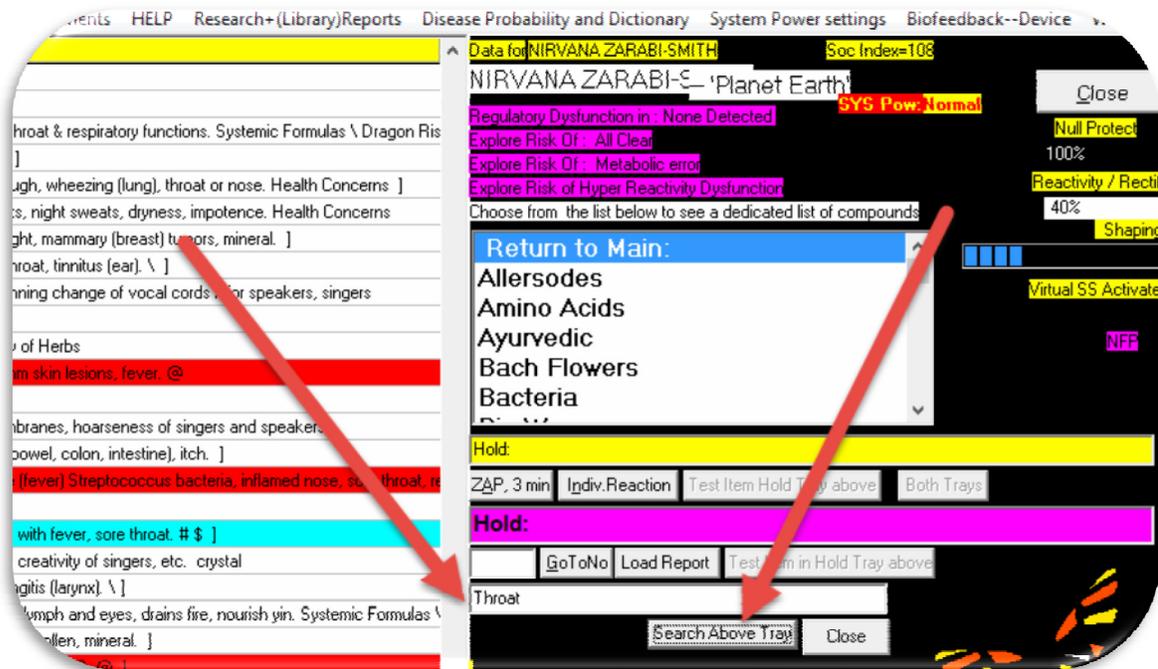

ACTION

SEARCHING FOR AN ITEM

The Search box is the white box below the pink hold box on the right and it is to locate any area/item of concern on the Main Matrix and it is a literal word search. Type in whatever you would like to see a degree of reactivity to into the Search for Item box (such as: wheat, hair loss, acne etc.). All Test items that include your word or word fragments will show.

Click [Search Above Tray]: a list of related items will now come up on the Main Matrix

Option: You can “search” a group of Main Matrix trivector signatures by typing in a word such as “anger”; which displays all trivector signatures of items containing the word “anger”, then:

- 🔊 “Auto Focus Bio-Resonance Zap” at the top of the Main Matrix
- 🔊 “Zap from Filter 5 Minutes”

This conducts a 5-minute program where the system trains the top 5 trivector signatures in your list for 1 minute each

EXPLANATION

HOLD TRAYS

Items showing on the Main Matrix provide useful clues to which stress reduction programs to choose. Items, which repeat, are extremely high, or of particular interest to you are good choices for utilizing a hold tray to gain further information.

ACTION

- Items on the Main Matrix, which are of particular interest to you, are good choices for the utilization of a hold tray to gain further information.
 - ☞ Item of choice (this highlights the item)
- Drag and Drop the item into either the Yellow or Pink HOLD tray on the right side of the screen.
 - ☞ A Subfile which relates to the test item OR stay in the Return to Main list.
 - ☞ [Test Item In Hold Tray] (directly beneath the Hold Tray you are using)
- This now will begin a reactivity scan and the resulting best matches or closely related items will show in Yellow on the lower right of the screen.
 - ☞☞ On the Yellow items to run a 3 second zap training.

The screenshot displays a software interface with a 'Hold' tray and a list of items. The 'Hold' tray is highlighted in pink and contains the text 'Hold:'. Below it, there are buttons for 'GoToNo', 'Load Report', and 'Test Item in Hold Tray above'. A search bar is visible with the text 'Search for item:'. The list of items includes:

- MUSCLE FACIAL SUPRAHYOID | Influence tongue and swallowing and saliva. sarcode $]
- MUSCLE TORSO
- HYPERTROPHY
- MUSCLE FACIAL

- MUSCLE LOWER LIMB ANTERIOR THIGH | sarcode $]
- MUSCLE, LIGAMENT, CARTILAGE (DR) | Sarcode remedy for tissue rebuilding and detox. $]
- MUSCLE TORSO INTERNAL - EXTERNAL | Oblique abdominal muscle oriented 90 degree

A red arrow points from the 'Hold' tray to the item 'MUSCLE FACIAL SUPRAHYOID'. The interface also shows a 'Data for NIRVANA ZARABI-SMITH' section with 'Soc Index=108' and 'SYS Pow: Normal'. Other sections include 'Regulatory Dysfunction in: None Detected', 'Explore Risk Of: All Clear', 'Reactivity Normal', and a 'Choose from the list below to see a dedicated list of compounds' section with a dropdown menu showing 'Monastery of Herbs', 'Muscles', 'Narayani Remedies', 'Oriental Herbs', 'Phenolics', and 'Pleomorph Sanum'. The 'Muscles' option is selected. The interface also features a 'Close' button, 'Null Protect', 'Reactivity / Rectify', '40%', 'Excellent', and 'Virtual SS Activated' indicators.

HOLD ACUTE ITEM

If there is a specific imbalance present then the causal and other associated chains of reactivity can be examined to create a more comprehensive response picture. This may help identify aspects, which contribute to the imbalance and are also useful associated trivector signatures to train with.

- Drag and Drop a high reactive item into the red HOLD ACUTE ITEM tray on the bottom of screen.
- the following for reactivity: “Check Mental Echo” / “Check for Casual Echo” / “Check for Enteric Echo” / “Check for Curative Echo”
- By selecting these keys one at a time, a reactivity profile will be displayed at the right of the panel for each in the form of “yellow strips” of trivector signatures of items.

ACTION

In order to determine the most reactive Organ Sarcodes Pattern in response to a specific pathogen trivector signature, utilize the following:

☞ Item of choice (any particular pathogen trivector signature, from the Main Matrix)

- Drag and Drop the item into the pink or yellow hold tray.

☞ [Sarcodes] (subfile)

☞ [Test Item In Hold Tray Above]

This will now display reactions to the organs/tissue sarcodes trivector signatures to the particular item being tested from the hold tray.

ACTION

ALARM REACTION (From the Main Matrix)

☞ [RETEST] (Top menu bar on Main Matrix.)

☞ [ALARM CORRECTION]

☞ [OK] (Red panel comes up - takes a few seconds.) or ☞☞ [Alarm]

EXPLANATION

Five Key Reasons that Alarms Occur:

1. The relaxation and/or re-education of routes of elimination were not adequately supported (this can be done either in “Short Sarcodes Feedback:” Iridology or the Body Viewer training programs).
2. Too many “Zap” relaxation and muscle re-education trainings were performed without proper preparation.
3. The client’s body has had enough training in that area and is done for the day.
4. The client may need more support with Minerals, Amino Acids and other nutrients.
5. You have received reactions from a level the client is not ready to work with today, such as from emotional stress.

EXPLANATION

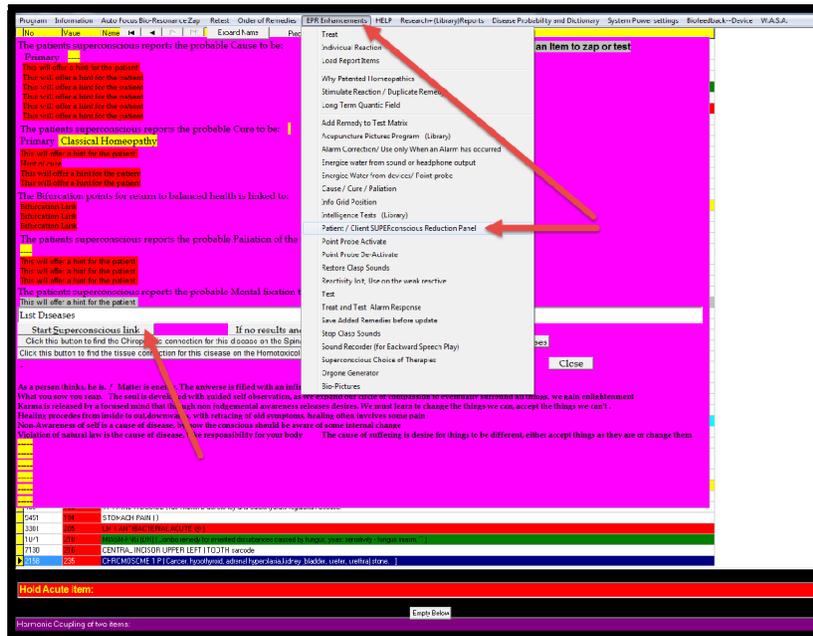

Note the message in the red panel.

It will either say “Alarm Response Corrected” or “Alarm Response Not Corrected”. If the response is corrected, continue training. If the response is not corrected, try one more time, and then discontinue that particular training for that day. It may also say: “No More Therapy”, which indicates no more training in that particular panel or “No More Therapy Today”, which indicates no more training for the day and to close out.

TIP!

It can be helpful to explain to the client that you have detected a stress response and it would be helpful for them to take a few deep breaths and imagine themselves becoming very relaxed. Some guided imagery can be very helpful here in harmonizing the alarm response.

SUPERCONSCIOUS REDUCTION PANEL

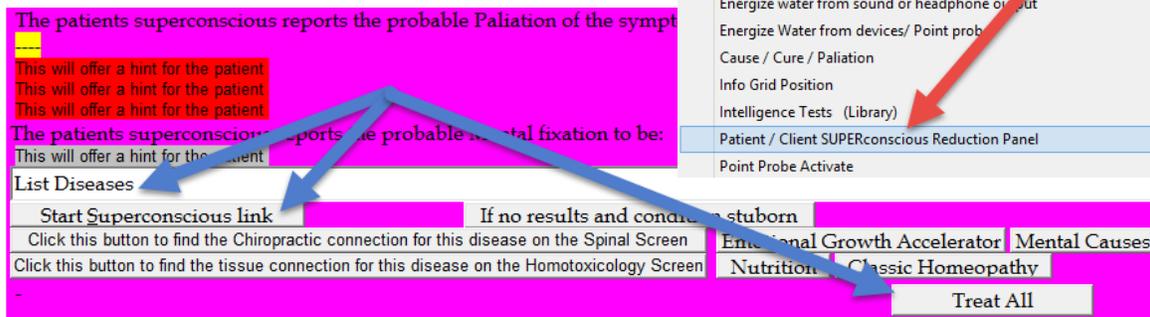

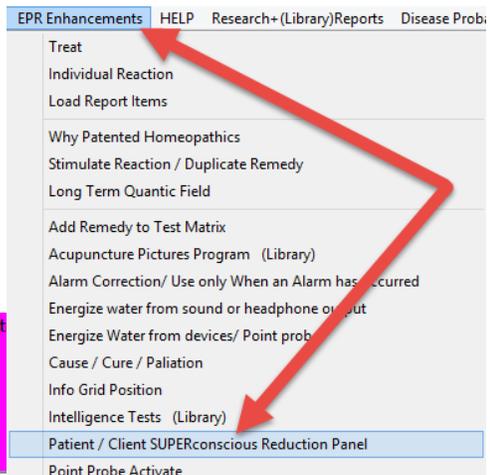

ACTION

From the Main Matrix:

- 🔗 [EPR Enhancements] (top menu bar)
- 🔗 [Client Superconscious Reduction Panel] (drop down list)
- Type an organ name or any health concern in “Disease of Concern.”
- 🔗 [Start Superconscious Link] (The test takes approximately 38 seconds.)
- 🔗 [Treat All] (language reminder to “train all”)

Note: New button-“If no results and condition stubborn” (Takes you through a series of questions.)

OR

- ☞☞ Any red highlighted line for training or the emotion listed in yellow. (This will begin to run an Individual Reaction test and therefore, a yellow panel will open. In order for this item to be significant, then the Total React and Resonance should be above 75.)
- ☞ [Interpret Results] (information appears on the left)
- ☞ [30 second Zap] (for a 30 second training)
- ☞ [Zap Items for 3 minutes] (for a 3 minute training)
- ☞ [Close]

OPTIONAL

CONNECTION TO OTHER MODULES:

SPINAL (“SPINAL MUSCULAR RE-EDUCATION PANEL”)

🖱️ “Click this button to find the Chiropractic connection for this disease” on the Spinal screen”. (This will take you to the Spinal “Muscular Re-education” panel.)

- The pink and red highlighted areas reveal reactivity between the original item of concern and the spinal sarcodes trivector signatures.
- To train see Spinal Muscular-Education for Sportsmen panel.
- Close back to Client Superconscious Reduction Panel

The screenshot displays a software interface for a patient's superconscious report. The text is as follows:

CHECK CURRENT RECTIFICATIONS

If there are many items listed in the left column of the panel, this can indicate that key issues have been missed in the session (see photo below). You may choose to return to the program to complete more training or reschedule for another session.

ACTION

- ☞ [Close] out of the Main Matrix to the Main Panel
- ☞ [Check Current Rectifications] (Bottom left of screen)
- ☞ [OK]
- ☞ [Correct all Till Maximum] (This is very powerful!)

SHORT SARCODE FEEDBACK PROGRAM

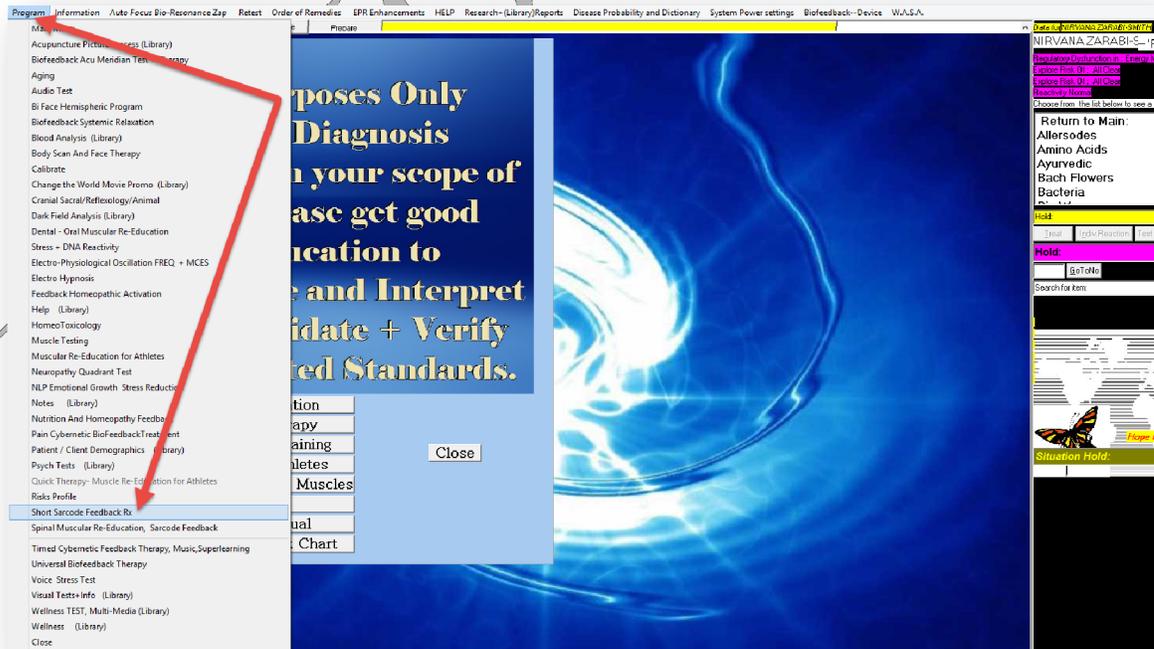

ACTION

SHORT SARCODE FEEDBACK PROGRAM:

From the Main Matrix screen:

☞ [Program] (Top menu bar)

☞ [Short Sarcodes Feedback Program] (drop down list)

TIP!

EAR + ETC

(MUSCLE RE-EDUCATION FOR CHANNELS OF ELIMINATION)

This is an excellent section for re-educating the muscles of the channels of elimination, and training with trivector signatures of the major organ sarcodes. It is recommended to do this early in the session in order to prepare the body for training. Should your client have an alarm response, it can be helpful to come back to the Short Sarcode Feedback Rx. (Note: This is not the same as using the “Homotoxicology” training program.)

TIP!

“Muscular Re-education of the Channels of Elimination”

If you address the following organ trivector signatures you will have covered all of the major systems in the body to properly address the Muscular Re-education of the Channels of Elimination:

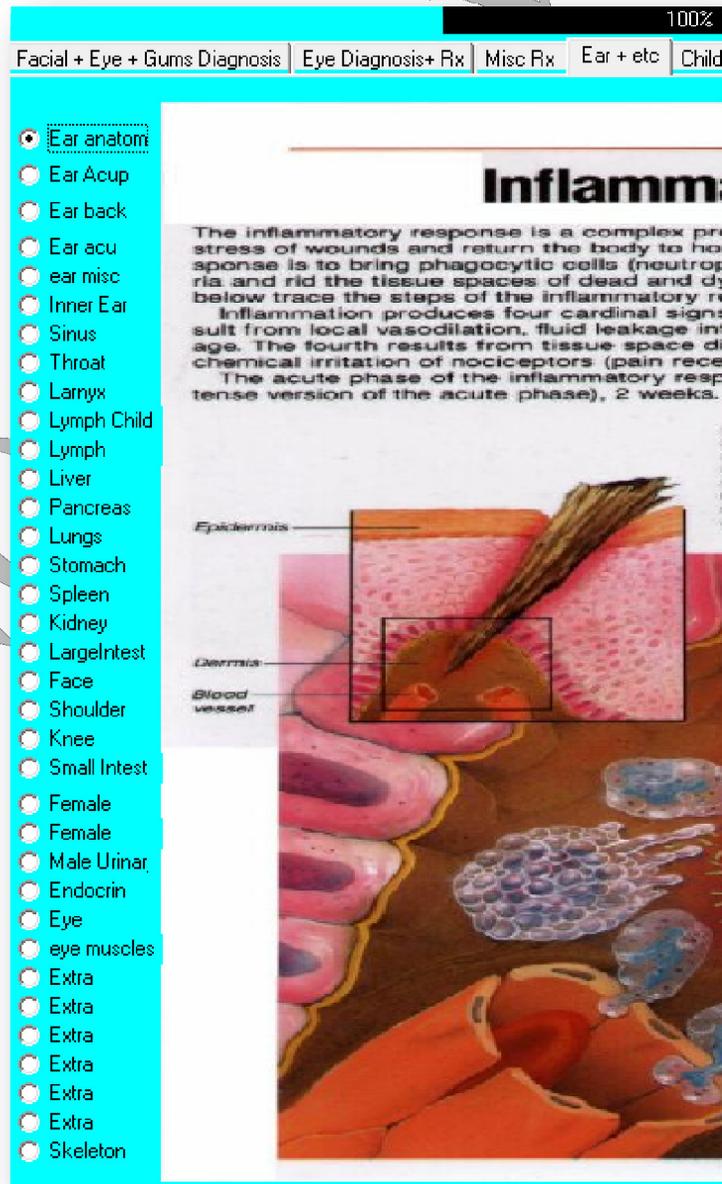

ACTION

[Main Matrix] / [Program] / [Short Sarcodes Feedback Program] / [(Ear+Etc. tab)]:

1. on the [Inflammatory Response] picture to train
2. on the radio button to the left of the panel for each of the sarcodes listed below and then White background of screen to train entire panel: (Repair to 85 or above.)

- ✓ [Lymph]
- ✓ [Liver]
- ✓ [Lungs]
- ✓ [Kidney]
- ✓ [Large Intestine]
- ✓ [Small Intestine]
- ✓ [Female or Male]
- ✓ [Endocrine]
- ✓ [(Misc Rx tab)]
- ✓ [Skin]

(This program rectifies reactivity to the organ sarcodes trivector signatures and re-educates muscles.)

Course Three – Coaching

Course Outline

MODULE 1: OVERVIEW of the COACHING, CONSENT and COMPLIANCE COURSE

The 7 Intentions and 7 Modules (webinars) that comprise the course.

MODULE 2: LEGAL LANGUAGE & THE LAW REGARDING BIOFEEDBACK: by Jim Turner, Attorney

- Scope of practice, buzz words and claims to avoid and legal direction for your biofeedback work.
- Governmental Authority: Food and Drug Administration and Federal Trade Commission.
- Distinction between Marketers and Practitioners in regards to biofeedback.
- Substantiation Manual and why it is important for your biofeedback practice.
- Well Being vs. Disease Care.
- Speaking with the client about their disease or condition.

MODULE 3: COMPLIANCE: by Faith Nelson

- General overview of biofeedback as a modality.
- Distinction between the different types of biofeedback.
- The preferred language of EPR Biofeedback.
- Coaching How to speak with your client about what you see on the screen.
- Avoiding certain pitfalls in practice.

MODULE 4: INFORMED CONSENT and PROFESSIONAL ETHICS: by Jim Turner, Attorney

- The importance of having an informed client.
- What the informed consent form should and should not include.
- Developing a code of professional ethics.
- Putting the client at the center of your biofeedback practice.
- Client confidentiality.

MODULE 5: BASIC COACHING and COMMUNICATION SKILLS: by Rachel Davis

- Language and communication as your Healing Arts and Energy Tool.
- Mastery and Developing Yourself in the listening triangle.
- Active Listening, Reflective Listening, Empowerment Skills.

MODULE 6: AWARENESS and SELF EVALUATION MEASURES: by Carol Wilcock

- Support for the practitioner to practice what is preached.
- Provide a healing environment for yourself.
- Balancing personal, professional and family time.
- Stress reduction exercises.

MODULE 7: VISION and MISSION STATEMENT: by Rachel Davis

- Create a vision for your life and your biofeedback practice.
- What an authentic Vision and Mission provides for your life and business.
- Remove simple blocks to the endless creative energy, power and potential of your vision.

DEGENERATIVE STRESS

Unless you are a physician, please refrain from referring to cancer in your Quantum sessions. Doing so could be misunderstood as ‘diagnosing’ and also cancer is a very negative trigger word in our culture, synonymous with ‘painful death’.

If someone diagnosed with cancer opts for Chemo and Radiation, they can put their Immune System in jeopardy and the Medical prediction of a limited life span is likely correct. However, ethically and legally we cannot dissuade clients from following their doctors opinions. The biggest mental/emotional hurdle for clients is throwing off the fear-based dependency on science and the ‘experts’, i.e. the Victim Role. Taking responsibility for their own health and recovery is the next step. This involves the willingness to study and learn about them and address all levels of their being, physical, mental, emotional and spiritual.

It is normal to produce cancer cells daily. An overgrowth is not unusual. A healthy immunity can cope. Bill Nelson’s Natural approach to cancer is to optimize immunity. Cancer is an inconvenience, potentially a gift, (if we ‘get it’; according to Hamer).

Common Questions from Clients with Cancer:

Quantum Biofeedback has special stress reduction programs for people with stress from medical issues such as cancer, however, because these programs are still “biofeedback training”, it is important for us to remember that this is not to be verbally referred to or conveyed as a “medical treatment” for cancer, and the inventor himself does not even concern himself with “diagnoses” in his overall approach to wellness. Bill Nelson has stated many times: “I have never met the disease of cancer, only the unique person in front of me with a unique profile and history”.

There are perspectives on feeling better and healthier that do not include placing everything in the “disease” model. Regardless, we are not interested in “cataloging” these people in the “disease model”, and very interested in helping these folks learn to feel better through our special biofeedback training programs.

Before we get into actual program usage, however, some focused attention needs to be paid to the language we use to respond to stress reduction clients with cancer. They have questions that can seem challenging at times, and feeling prepared in how to answer them ethically and accurately may help you feel more confident when interfacing with them, and not caught by surprise by tough questions. The following are some typical questions from people with cancer about Quantum Biofeedback, and offer us the opportunity to communicate the correct perception of our services from the start, even on the phone before they come in.

Many of these clients are conditioned to ask dualistic questions that seem like they require “yes and no” answers to, because that’s how they’ve been conditioned to perceive what they “have”. But in fact, training yourself to “respond with information or education” vs. giving them “dualistic yes or no” answers that don’t apply to our services or scope, can be an important first step in educating them about stress reduction before they even come in for an appointment, and in a human way that conveys an alternative perspective.

“Can Quantum Biofeedback cure my cancer?”

As a reminder: We don’t cure anything, but the body can repair itself. So an accurate educational response might be: “Stress Reduction and Quantum Biofeedback do not operate under the western medical “cure” model, in that they are not considered treatments for disease, if anything, they are associated with wellness enhancement, which is completely different. Reducing your stress can enhance your body’s innate wellness maintenance abilities to heal itself. [This just took them away from the idea of “cancer” and placed more emphasis on stress and the body’s ability to heal itself.

“Are you a doctor”?

Many doctors have incorporated Quantum Biofeedback into their practices, however, unless you are one, the answer is always “no, I am a Quantum Biofeedback Specialist (along with any other titles you may legitimately hold)”.

“Does the conventional practice of “medicine” recognize this as a treatment for cancer?”

“There are M.D.’s who have incorporated Quantum Biofeedback into their integrative medicine approaches and enthusiastically incorporated it into their practices for a number of reasons. But conventional allopathic medicine itself only recognizes what licensed medical doctors exclusively have been trained to administer, and “reducing stress” is not technically a conventional western medical treatment. Personal lifestyle factors and choices like Quantum biofeedback can be considered as individual preference, or personal responsibility, for maintaining wellbeing, and are not believed to interfere with medical treatments, which you can always confirm with your doctor”.  The main point here is that you did not promise anything, you did not dissuade them from seeking medical attention, and you did not portray yourself as an oncologist or as a person with a medical license to treat cancer, but stated the fact that there are MD’s who use Quantum Biofeedback in their offices, which might be the validation they are looking for. In our field, we don’t want to be portrayed as practicing medicine without a license unless we have one.

This has ethical considerations: Again, it’s advisable to avoid responding in the “yes / no” nature that the question was asked, and instead, explain that: “I would never suggest that anyone not seek proper medical attention; exploring all of your options on anything allows you to make the best decisions for yourself. However, if you do decide to do both, Quantum Biofeedback is not believed to interfere with medical treatment. You can confirm whether or not stress reduction would interfere with treatment for disease with your doctor.”

 Like it or not, as negative of an opinion as many people have about chemotherapy and radiation, we must never professionally dissuade a client from seeking medical opinion or treatment. Plenty of accurate educational information exists about the negative effects of chemotherapy on the immune system. However, unless you have a license to practice medicine, the simple fact remains that you may not professionally “give any advice or opinions” on the efficacy of medical treatments, including the use of pharmaceuticals, not only for ethical reasons, but for legal liability reasons. Stress reduction and quantum biofeedback practitioners work with their client’s choices as well as educating clients on wellness factors.

Do also seize the opportunity to ask them questions, such as “how did you hear about Quantum Biofeedback?” If they tell you that “someone they know (perhaps one of your clients) had great results with it”, highlight that and explain that with Quantum Biofeedback we usually ask for a number of sessions before they evaluate whether it is assisting them or not. It’s a program of training that helps the client build their own results, and although we have seen immediate, fast relief for some issues, we’ve also seen more steadily progressive results in others. Some clients do not make the lifestyle changes that support the potentially good results and get little to no benefit. The clients who get the greatest level of satisfaction from quantum biofeedback are pro-active in reducing their lifestyle stresses and partaking in healthier choices.

Many new Biofeedback Specialists have the question “If my client reacts to cancer signatures but does not have a diagnosed case of cancer, is it safe to work with the cancer reactivity and relaxation programs?” The answer is yes. However, because references to these reactions could seem diagnostic we would not report this information to the client. Do not consider “cancer” a reactive stressor unless there is an already established Medical Diagnosis.

If 5 or more markers show up in your information gathering this will alert you to proceed with the suggested stress reduction program in this chapter. These markers include obvious test matrix results, as well as reactions (references) to (1) 'degeneration', (2) low electrical values, (3) blood results, etc.(3a Pleo DF Blood >90) (4) low Oxygen on VARHO, (5) Low Cell Vitality on VARHO (6) Selenium out of balance (7) low Resistance on VARHO. With confirmed cases: educate on the removal of amalgams, sugar, coffee, alcohol, red meat (possibly all animal protein). Healthy choices such as fresh fruits, vegetables, seeds, some nuts and raw foods and juicing are helpful. .

If you suspect degenerative stress patterns or have a referral from a Licensed Physician to balance Stress for a diagnosed case, proceed with the suggested stress reduction protocol in this chapter.

STRESS, THE VARHO, AND NELSON REACTIVITY THEORY

Nelson Theory considers that excess stress, such as that which may be involved in as serious of a picture as cancer, may present a "reactivity" concern, in that the immune system would normally "react to" and target a common cancer cell and destroy it. This would be a "normal reaction".

If a biological system is exhausted by stress, then the immune system may not, in theory, have the energy or focus to "react" normally, even to a cancer cell. It might be so exhausted either by the cancer itself or other complicating stress factors (such as causal issues) that it is now "hypo", or under, reactive.

Because of this, it is important to consider these "reactivity" messages (determined during calibration and displaying in the red varhope and other panels) when observing certain ranges of the matrix. Many biofeedback users have wondered why their clients with confirmed cases of cancer do not always "react in the red" range in the matrix to items associated with this concern. Reactivity Theory reminds us that they may not be reacting properly, and that stress causing "reactivity" issues may be impacting their wellness.

If they are hypo-reactive during calibration, then their reactions to items, if not in the "red" range, might be found in under-reactive ranges of the matrix. If their reactivity is "normal", their items may even be at their baseline, such as in the 100 value range of the matrix (even if in turquoise.) If they are hyper-reactive, we still may find variance in the ranges of their matrix reactivity. For that reason, special "reactivity" programs are included in the following portions of the program, and an important consideration in this form of stress reduction.

With reactivity dysfunction messages, sometimes our questions can be, "what range in the matrix did they react to these items with?". Regardless, the inventor strongly believes that we must still pay close attention to the strongest reactions in the red, whether they seem to "fit" our client's "diagnoses" or not.

The stress impacting the ability to react well can be from both internal and external sources. An internal source, such as leaky gut, could cause the immune system to go into “overload” by leaking too many undigested proteins into the blood, creating “sticky blood”. Emotional shocks, (Hamer theory) not only can over-activate the sympathetic nervous system, but also place stress on the lower brain and (homeopathy) activate miasms, further complicating it’s ability to “react normally” with focus.

Someone might be so stressed (“sympathetic on”) that their para-sympathetic nervous system, digestion, breathing patterns, oxygenation, and the ability to relax are all impaired, which can place more stress on the immune system of a client with cancer. This might relate to the VARHOPE panel’s “hyper-reactivity” (over reaction) messages, where the client stressfully over-reacts to certain items, but also can also cause “hypo-reactivity” over time through simple exhaustion.

For this reason, special “reactivity” programs are included in the software for these issues, which are an important component of the program. The system is designed to address reactivity dysfunction through normal program usage, however, if after 3 sessions your client is still not “reacting” strongly to their main stressors, consider this as a possible reason why, which we’ll explore more after “Hamer Theory”.

HAMER MEDICINE THEORY

The Quantum Academies

Ryke Geerd Hamer, M.D.

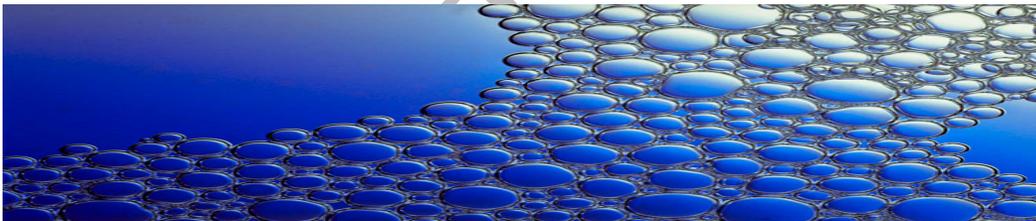

- ❑ Dr. Hamer discovered the absolute proof of the Mind-Body connection.
- ❑ Dr. Hamer has confirmed that a biological conflict such as the experience of conflict-shock creates a sequence of events that simultaneously affect:
 1. the psyche
 2. the brain
 3. the organ

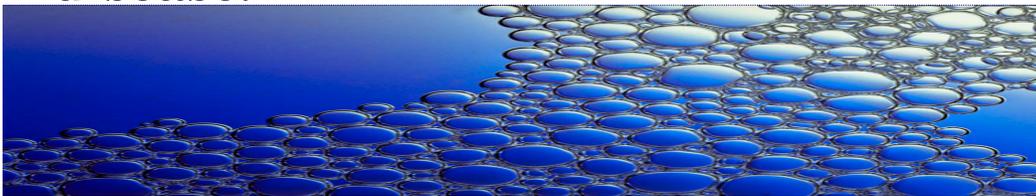

Dr. Hamer's research began at the University Hospital in Munich where he was chief internist at the cancer clinic.

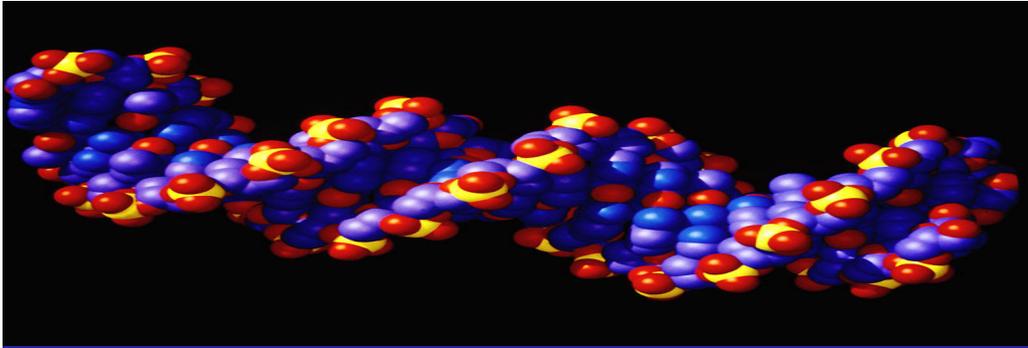

He himself was recovering from cancer of the testes and felt that it was somehow related to a very dramatic event in his life.

That event was the death of his son Dirk who had been shot .

At the cancer clinic he was able to interview all of the patients with reproductive organ cancers and discovered that they had all had very similar dramatic events in their lives just prior to the diagnosis of their disease.

That's when he found that these specific kinds of conflicts created specific kinds of cancers in the body.

What exactly does he mean by conflicts?

Everyone has conflicts and everyone has stress in his or her life.

This would be a response to an event in a person's life that completely catches them off guard.

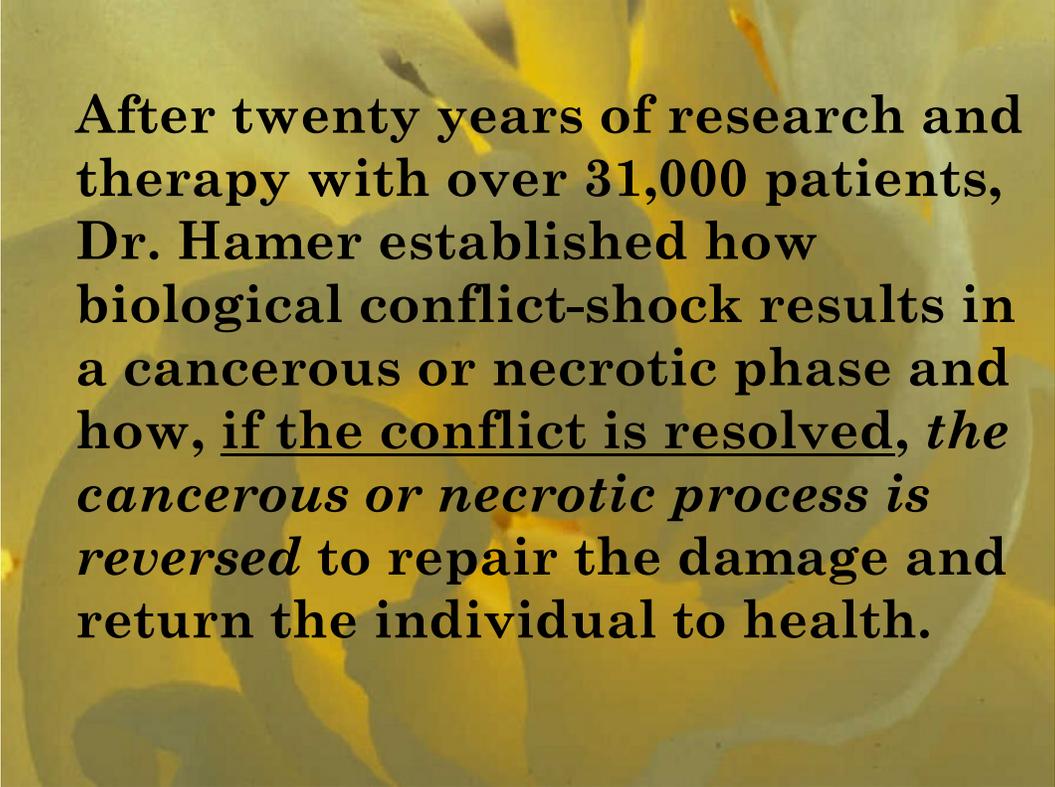

Most people describe this event as feeling as if they were struck by lightning, they develop cold hands and feet, lose their appetite, can't sleep, their mind keeps dwelling on the trauma and they have trouble talking to anyone about it.

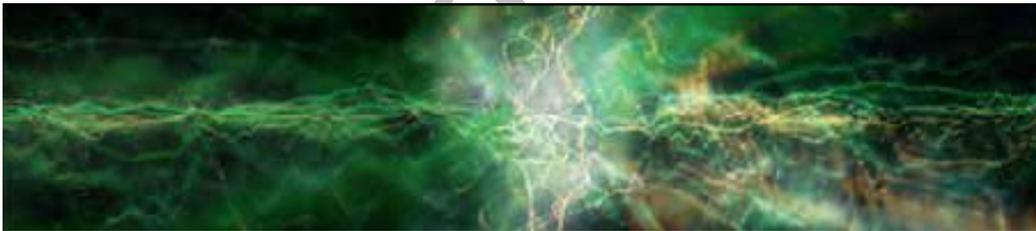

These conflicts, must be unanticipated and can involve a separation from a loved one, a territorial loss, a self devaluation, a profound fear, a fight over something that we believe rightfully belongs to us, injuries inflicted through accidents or harsh words, or even a fear for our lives or the life of a loved one. The list goes on.

These responses, he found, were preprogrammed into our brains and are responsible for creating most of the disease states we are familiar with today.

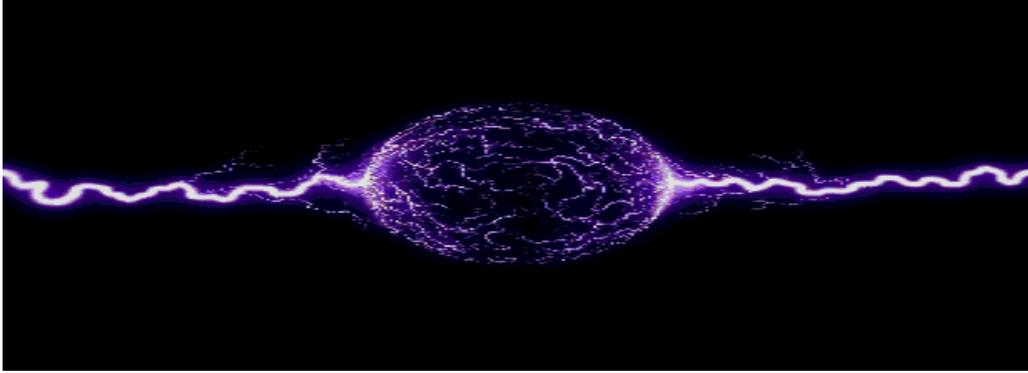

After twenty years of research and therapy with over 31,000 patients, Dr. Hamer established how biological conflict-shock results in a cancerous or necrotic phase and how, if the conflict is resolved, the cancerous or necrotic process is reversed to repair the damage and return the individual to health.

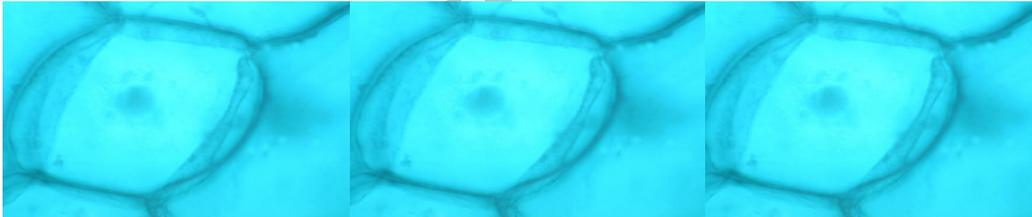

He discovered that specific kinds of conflicts created specific disease states such as cancer and other diseases.

At the time of the conflict, a lesion appears on a specific brain relay, depending on the exact nature of the conflict, and begins to set off a sequence of events.

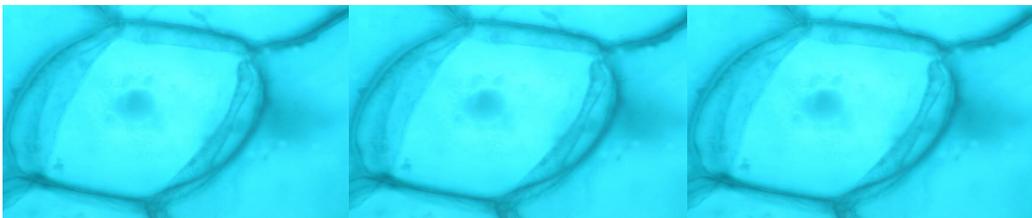

He is able to confirm this on the emotional level (the actual conflict), the physical level (the disease manifestation), and on the brain level (confirmed by a cat scan of the brain).

He learned to detect this by observing the brain relays and how they appear on a CT.

He found that all diseases had two phases. Some diseases appeared in the conflict active phase and some appeared in the post conflict or resolution phase, depending on which area of the brain was affected.

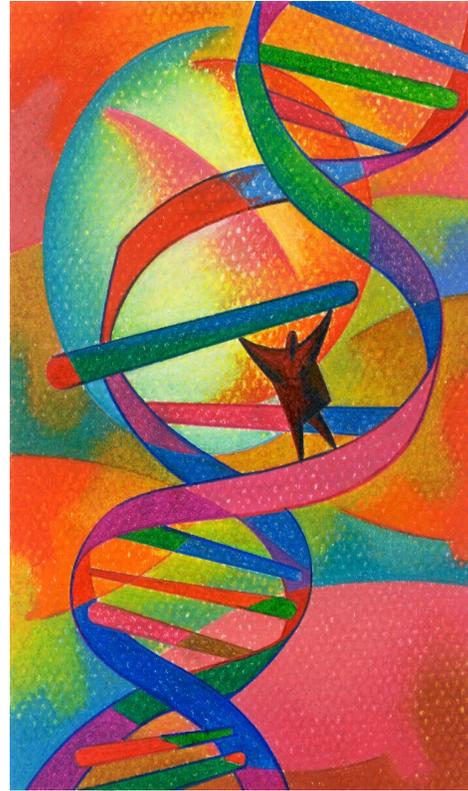

He also discovered that the exact nature of the conflict predetermined which part of the brain and specifically which brain relay would be affected.

- & A biological conflict-shock causes the appearance of a focus of activity in the brain - called an HH (Hamerschenherd).
- & This set of concentric rings that can be seen in a Cat Scan is centered on a precise point of the brain.
- ▶ & The location of the focus depends on the nature of the shock-conflict or conflict contents. As soon as the HH appears, the organ controlled by that specific brain center registers a functional transformation.
- & This transformation can manifest as a growth, as tissue loss or as a loss of function.

He consistently observed that when a patient was in a conflict active state there was a visible target ring configuration on a specific relay connected to the tissue of the organ and when the conflict was resolved these target configurations would begin to blur and change their appearance.

SOLVED CONFLICT PHASE = P-CL. PHASE = VAGOTONIA = HEALING PHASE

P-cl. phase: Like in all the other cerebrum directed mesodermal organs, the necroses refill during the healing phase. The ovary builds a small or bigger ovarian cyst, as an ovarian capsule is virtually non-existent. The ovarian cyst consists first of liquid, but later indurates as it fills up with connective tissue. This ovarian cyst, or further in the healing stage indurated cyst, was hitherto falsely named: 'Ovarian cancer', even as 'quick growing ovarian cancer', because the connective tissue cells augment first in the liquid cyst. Beginning with the healing phase, the ovarian cyst attaches itself to all neighboring organs, which was formerly interpreted as 'invasive growth'. Reason: The large cyst has to supply itself with blood from surrounding organs. As soon as its own blood supply (ovarian cyst arteries and veins) is secured, the adhesion detaches itself from the surrounding organs. The cyst builds a firm, strong capsule that can easily be removed by an operation. This indurated cyst produces sexual hormones. (It takes about 9 months for the induration)

INNER BLASTODERMIC LAYER = ENDODERM

The old brain (brain stem) controls the organs of the endoderm.

All diseases start with a cold phase, activity of the parasympathetic nervous system predominates, the shock is a constant preoccupation, nights seem long, extremities are cold and meanwhile the organ lesion extends. The HH in the brain begins to heal, as does the organ. All physicians know that healing is accompanied by edema. The edema that develops around the focus ring in the brain becomes visible on X-rays or CT's and is usually misdiagnosed as a brain tumor.

The warm phase is the healing stage of disease, what we usually identify as infectious disease. During this stage, the transformations of the first stage are reversed. Cancers are broken down or encapsulated. Necroses or ulcers are filled up again. The filling of necroses or ulcers also tends to be misdiagnosed as accelerated highly malignant growths. Nothing is further from the truth, affirms Dr. Hamer, after several thousand successful cases of healing and restoration of health for terminally ill patients.

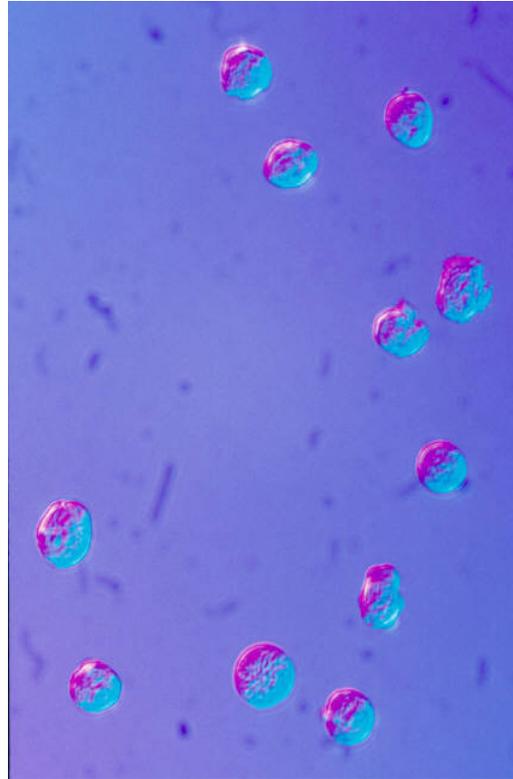

MIDDLE BLASTODERMIC LAYER = MESODERM

The cerebellum and the cerebral medulla control the mesoderm. Organs controlled by the cerebellum show tumors, growths, and cell multiplication in the conflict active phase. Mesodermal organs controlled by the cerebral medulla show ulcerations and necroses in the conflict active phase and cell-multiplication during healing.

OUTER BLASTODERMIC
LAYER = ECTODERM

All of the organs and tissues of the ectoderm, controlled by the cerebral cortex, show ulceration or functional loss during the conflict active phase. Conflict resolution brings on tissue repair and restoration of functional loss.

The Ontogenetic System of Microbes

- Dr. Hamer states that the biology of humans or animals is neither senseless nor without a system; there are no meaningless or random cancerous growths and no senseless or randomly occurring microbes.
- His research uncovered the following natural laws:
 1. The division of microbes: fungi - bacteria – viruses.

2. The division of microbes conforms to the germ-layer-correspondence of the organs in which they function:

A) Fungi and myco-bacteria work in the brain stem directed endodermal organs.

B) The myco-bacteria and bacteria work in the Mesodermal, cerebellar directed organs, and the bacteria work in the cerebral medullar directed mesodermal organs.

C) Viruses work exclusively in the ectodermal organs directed by the cerebral cortex.

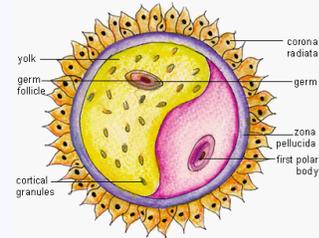

3. All microbes without exception become active exclusively in the second phase, the healing phase, starting with the conflictolysis (conflict resolution) and ending with the completion of the healing phase. They work neither before nor after. Before, they existed as a-pathogenic germs. During the healing phase, they can be considered potent, and after the healing phase, as a-pathogenic germs again.

4. Microbes, our helpers and companions, are directed by the brain. Microbes have worked for us, not against us, as faithful servants over umpteen billions of years of evolution.

From the Test Matrix, open Disease Probability and Dictionary (Top Menu):

- ☞ Disease Dictionary and open
- ☞ Scroll down to either: Cancer, Breast Cancer, Brain Tumor, Leukemia Acute and Chronic, Lung Cancer, Bone Cancer or any other type.

(Note: Also consider the Disease Dictionary as support for reactions to signatures associated with potential chronic causal factors, such as fungal infections, bacterial infections and worms.)

- ☞ Electroacupuncture + BioResonance
- ☞ OK-Reveal Text
- ☞ Quick Calibrate Patient's Reactivity
- ☞ Quick Test Patient BioResonance

Optional: ☞ Long Term Therapy Active

Technical Tip: Setting the mode for long term therapy can sometimes create a DD freeze-up, where you would have to close if you intended to go back into the DD program and make another selection. An alternative would be to lengthen the time setting.)

- ☞ If Checked Mute Disease Dictionary Music
- ☞ Auto Treat

Technical Tip: It is important to wait until the progress graph has 4 bars and all setting say LOADED before minimizing.

- ☞ Consciousness on the task bar and this will allow the Disease Dictionary module to run in the background, while you continue to conduct other Clasp 32 training programs.

2) TEST MATRIX SEARCH

Use the Word Search function on the Test Matrix. Search for the matrix signatures of carcinoma', 'sarcoma', 'cancer', 'tumor', 'fungus' (fungi are anaerobic oxygen antagonists, cancer cells produce energy through fermentation rather than normal metabolism), 'virus' (especially 2046 - Papiloma Virus - Human and 5298 - Human Papiloma) and 'bacteria' (especially helicobacter pylori, campylobacter). Do an Individual Reaction Test for each to check reactivity.

Again, please be sure that you have taken the proper steps in preparing the client before you proceed with training. Always work from the point of blockage to the point of elimination. If the muscles and pathways of elimination are relaxed enough to be able to do their job of filtering, then there will be much less chance of a potentially stressful "healing reaction." It is highly recommended to go to the "Short Sarcode" program as this trains reduced reactivity to organ sarcode signatures and reeducates muscles of the channels of elimination.

Balance reactivity for any reactive items below with 7-second zaps. Take special note of the ones that are particularly stubborn to rectify.

Search the following items on the Test Matrix:

1755	2033	2359
1891	3888	3896

5) AUTO MERIDIAN PROGRAM

Consciousness Form Test

Acupuncture is advocated in Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM) to help re-establish ‘flow’. Cancerous areas are known as informational ‘dead zones’ (Hamer).

After running the standard Auto Meridian protocol, click “Conscious Form Test” (Individual Point panel) The following points should be entered with the “letter” first, then the “number” exactly as they appear in the list of acupuncture points (to the left of the “.bmp”).

For example: Sp2_6, Li 5_7, Cv2_15, St35_40

Note: “11” is a blank box.

Tip: Below are some acupoint bitmaps that can be utilized in the program to balance reactivity to signatures of points that have been associated with specific issues by the field of TCM.

Exhn-10 (Used in TCM for concerns with ph fungus and digestive organ functions)

Exle-11 (Used in TCM for imbalances with hormones and enzymes)

Lu11 (Used in TCM for balancing low grade oxygen deficiency from lack of activity)

Si1_5 (Used in TCM for leukemia)

In the Hold Trays you can enter additional information:

Enter ‘cancer’ as the physical concern and ‘resentment’ as the emotional concern. Entering items in these fields, double spaced between each, will “piggyback” these signatures onto the training.

6) DARK FIELD “ANALYSIS” (REACTIVITY AND RELAXATION TRAINING)

Chinese Medicine calls cancer a disease of ‘blood stagnation’. Theory of Pleomorphism (Rife, Enderlein, Naessons) proposes a normally harmless organism (protit, bion) is activated by changes in the biological terrain of the blood leading to proliferation of the ‘cancer virus’. Low oxygen states are particularly risky. This is the reason for success of ‘oxygen programs’ in Europe.

Pleomorphic reactivity numbers should all be less than 90. In some of the Theories referred to above, potential cancer risks are associated with (1) high Symplast, Rickettsia, Mucor, Aspergillus. For reactivity and relaxation training use the “Pleomorphic Stabilization” program on the Blood Treatments. Add Bacteria, Fungus and Virus signatures to the signal and balance reactivity one at a time.

Special Application using Blood Treatments: (2) Balance responses to signatures associated with Lymphoma (fungus of bone marrow) by selecting ‘Bone Marrow’ (on the left side of the panel)(along with the addition of the fungus signature (on the right side of the panel) to the program for 10 minutes. (3) For (a) Anemia (blood oxygen potential) and/or (b) Red Blood Cell disorders; add appropriate piggyback signatures such as fungus, virus, etc.

7) MANUAL RIFE PROGRAM

- Insert the frequency 66.5 in both upper and lower Rife Generator box.
 - Insert 2,400,000 in both upper and lower Scalar boxes.
 - In the Bioresonance enter:
 - 120 into the Set Program # box
 - 33 into the Amplify in Db box (This is the established standard minimum.)
- ☞ Automatic Interaction (This setting allows for the automatic choice of the client through reactivity.)

OPTIONS:

- ☞ Intermittent (creates a pulse)
 - ☞ Wobble On (creates a sweep)
- If using a 10 point sweep in Rife Theory (for pathogen signatures) then select the Intermittent On in Bicom + Mora.
 - Set Timer for 3 min
 - (66.5 is regarded as the blood cleanser frequency)
 - Search Rife frequencies on the Internet.
 - Consider a 10-point 'spread' for pathogens subject to mutation.
 - See www.royalrife.com for free Annotated Frequency List.
 - Rife's original 'MORs' (mortal oscillatory rates):

BX (carcinoma)	21275
BY (sarcoma)	20080
Cancer pain	10000
Pleo Morph stabilizer	66.5 (blood cleanser)

TIP!

- To more closely simulate the theory of Rife's original work, enter 2,400,000 into both upper and lower Scalar Generator boxes and then the specific "Rife frequency" signature number in the Rife boxes. Rife theorized that this scalar number created a high frequency carrier wave that facilitated the intercellular penetration of his frequencies, taking them deeper into the organs and cells.

8) LYMPH PROGRAM: OPTIONS A, B AND C

A. From the Spinal page:

-  Lymph,
- First select (Train) “Upper torso” and then
- Train “Lower Torso”.
- For stress from more localized cancers, such as the throat, consider clicking the appropriate area (head + neck) for muscle reeducation & sarcode signature training of this area.

From the left column, check to select inflammation, infection, degeneration, injury, and pain signatures, as applicable. Consider avoiding the use of “Vascular Endothelial Growth Factor for clients with stress from cancer.

B.  “Timed Therapies” (from the Spinal panel):
‘congested lymph stim’ (C1). Set timer for 3 minutes and rectify over 85. \

In the “Enter Additional Data” section at the bottom, consider typing 8in, by name or matrix number (piggybacking) signatures of Alkala, C-Liquitrophic, Colloidal Silver, Ozone, Oxygen Stimulator, and Ellagic Acid’. (Note these signatures can be added in any piggyback field)

TIP!

If the specific organ sarcode affected by their cancer is listed here, consider clicking/ training that item as well.

C. Short Sarcodes (The “Ear + Etc” tab) contains a “lymph” selection, as does the “Misc. RX” tab.) This is an excellent section for re-educating the muscles of the channels of elimination and training with signatures for all of the major organs of the body. It is recommended to do this early in the session in order to prepare the body for balancing.

TIP!

Should your client have an alarm response, it can be helpful to come back to the Short Sarcodes.

Note: This is not the same as using the “Homotoxicology” training program.

9) DEGENERATION STRESS REDUCTION TRAINING

Test Screen /  Programs /  Timed Cybernetic Feedback Therapy, Music, Superlearning

 Timed Treatments

 Enable Timed Therapy

- Set Timer for five minutes (or use the automatic time selection set, or 2 min pulses)
- ☞ Add Additional Therapy
- Emotional Connection: Resentment - self-directed anger etc. (double space between each entry), or whatever pertains, such as “Denial” or “Shock”.
- Social Concern: Relationship with partner, parent, spouse etc.
- ☞ Load
- ☞ Close (blue box)
- Check off the white radio button next to the word Metabolic Error
- ☞ Start Degeneration Treatment (Degeneration Stress Reduction Training)
- ☞ Cancer Types (Double click on the yellow panel to close.)
- In the box labeled “Type:” write the cancer type.
- This Biofeedback technique addresses reactions to unresolved traumas. These brain patterns create interference with the flow of energy to specific areas of the body, which are theorized to become vulnerable to cancer.
- ☞ Start Cancer Therapy (Reactivity and Relaxation Training) 5 minutes of training recommended – move harness to affected area.

EXPLANATION

The reason why it is suggested to stay within 5 or 6 minutes in this program is because it uses the signature for “Degex”, made from a combination homeopathic remedy that contains the poison of Cobra Venom. Overstimulation may cause a “proving”, or similar reactions related to the nature of the item. It is always better to start with less until you understand the sensitivity of your client.

- If “Cancer Virus Destruct” (“Stressor Destruct”) appears, click until rectified to 100. If it does not appear, or it disappears before full rectification, set the timer to 2 minutes and click ‘reactivity disease’ to reactivate it. (see below).
- Consider ‘Ease effects of Chemo’ and ‘Radiation’ if needed.
- You may move the Harness (or small pad) to the affected area during this program.
- ☞ Fatty Acid Stim
- ☞ Reactivity Disease (Use if “cancer items” or “degeneration” do not come up automatically and it is a confirmed case of cancer – this lets us know that the client is not reacting to the issue – a “Reactivity Dysfunction”.)
- ☞ Mental Cause (This will open up an educational Word document listing possible Mental Causation for you to consider.)

- ☞ Cancer Diet (This will open up an educational Word document outlining Cancer Diet.)
- ☞ Cancer Virus Destruct (consider 10 minutes, as this usually does not create “proving” reactions.)
- ☞ SCIO Degeneration Treatments (Reminder: you must “start” and “end” the programs from within the “SCIO is Working” panel.

TIP! The Special SCIO Degeneration AFE programs are only available when the SCIO is attached. (For future versions of the software there will be 4 Degeneration AFE programs. Never run more than two of these programs in one session. You can run “SCIO Degeneration Treatment #1 and #2 in the first session and #3 and #4 in the subsequent session. For more sensitive clients, it may be best to only run one of these per session.)

As the AFE Scio Degeneration Treatment program continues to run through to rectification, on the “SCIO is Working” Panel:

- ☞ C-Scan (located on the top right of the panel) Note: This button will only be active (not grayed out) on the “SCIO is Working” panel while running the AFE programs that require activation (clicking “start”) from this panel. Although the “C-Scan” button will appear active from here upon opening the AFE programs, the C-Scan program will only open after you have clicked “start” on the “SCIO is Working” panel, not before.
- ☞ “Okay” on the popup box. (The “Cancer Scan” program now appears, and your AFE program is still running in the background.)
- ☞ Scan Cancer Types
- ☞ Result Cancer Scan
- ☞ Add Additional Piggy Back Therapies. Notice at the bottom of this new turquoise panel that the default setting of “Complete System Rx” is checked, and that this displays a message (in red) in the hold tray above it stating “Cancer Type: All types therapy”.

Option:  “Focus on Item Loaded” and change the “all types” setting to the item reacted to, and watch the message (in red) change accordingly. This creates a more specific training particular to the item reacted to from “Scan Cancer Types”.

 Load

 OK

 Close

 Treat (“Train”). Rectify over 85, with a “Love Index Balanced” message

 Result Emotion Scan.

Option: if you clicked “Focus on Item Loaded” before, you may wish to change focus again to the new “Emotion Scan” selection:

 Add Additional Piggy Back Therapies again

 Complete System Rx, to remove the first selection from the tray above,

 Focus on Item Loaded, to change it to the new selection reacted to in the “Emotion Scan”.

 Treat (“Train”) Rectify over 85, with a “Love Index Balanced” message.

- Look at the ‘Content of the biological Conflict’ for a clue to the precipitating event or issue.

TIP!

With both the Clasp AFE and C-Scan programs now running, you can “toggle” back and forth between the “C-Scan” and AFE “Scio is Working” panels by clicking the “consciousness” and “Cancer scan” icons on your bottom taskbar.

Clicking each will bring that particular panel forward to view while the other program continues to run in the background. This will enable you to check the progress of both programs without closing either of them. If your “AFE” program (from the SCIO is Working” panel) rectifies, you can select another AFE or other program to run while your “C-Scan” program completes.

10) SCIO WIPE PROGRAM

From Body Viewer:

🖱️ Wipe Therapy

🖱️ Cancer

- This reactivity balancing program is best used when a client has come to you with confirmed cancer.
- This program is designed to be an interactive exercise where you, or the client themselves go through the action of “wiping” the picture of the tumor down to a reduced size as they practice visualizing the tumor shrinking.
- Place your cursor on the picture, then left click your mouse or touchpad (and continue holding down the left click) to “freeze” the picture as you (or they) wipe it with the cursor.
- When it “feels right”, stop and release your “left click” from your mouse.
- 🖱️ the picture to activate it again.
- Repeat this process until you receive messages that the “Tumor is Diminishing”, “Tumor reducing”, and finally, “Tumor Gone”.
- Use the art of visualization to allow the stress to disappear.

TIP! This reactivity balancing program cannot be used for diagnosing or treating cancer. You can only balance stress with Quantum Biofeedback, and teach the client control. Because some clients might consider the picture unsightly, this program is not for everyone!

🖱️ Stop Wipe Therapy

11) NLP Relaxation Training

As the cancer scan reveals reactions associated with likely kinds of trauma, use your coaching skills, ‘NLP unconscious search’, ‘Unconscious Reactivity’ functions to help your client identify their cognitive/emotional ‘riff’. This issue and the healing that comes from recognizing our self-judgments around it are the 'pearl in the oyster'. This can be the key to 'spontaneous remission.' Use this panel to address resentment, anger and the top 5 immune compromisers, which are unworthiness, fear, doubt, shame and guilt.

- Once identified, suggest Letter Writing exercise as follows:

Create a 'sacred space' of uninterrupted time; use candles, a picture of themselves at an earlier age. Have them write themselves a letter of encouragement and comfort, reassuring them that they are not to blame for the circumstances of the Trauma. Encourage clients to 'pour out their heart' and say all the 'unsaid's'. Then burn the letter. Louise Hay said 30 years ago that 'Cancer is a Disease of smoldering resentment'. The resentment is directed to ourselves by our internal 'judge'. We will explore the work of Dr. Miguel Ruiz, "The Four Agreements" in the chapter on Emotional Coaching.

See appropriate Flower Essence Trivector Patterns and Homeopathic Trivector Patterns:

12) VISUALIZATION AND MIND-BODY THEORY

Use the Relaxation Pulse 2 or 3 times on the NLP screen to create a relaxed, suggestible state. The Mind can be used to create shifts in the physical body. This is the basis of Shamanic and Ritual Healing. The basic rule is to 'create an image and destroy the image'. Have the client create a mental image or idea of the Cancer. Have them verbally describe it in all sensory modalities: appearance, color, size, weight, smell, texture, sound, etc. Once the image is complete, with a loud clap of their hands, have them destroy the image, seeing the remaining dust carried off by the wind.

13) PROTEIN DIGESTING ENZYMES

Some studies have shown that Cancer involves a lack of Protein Digesting Enzymes as one of the main contributors to 'blood stagnation' and poor immunity. White Blood Cells need enzymes to digest pathogens and Cancer.

From the Nutrition panel:

- Internal Enzymes
- Increase all Enzyme Production (Stimulates Reactivity)

Educate on increasing HCL (such as through lemon water) and Plant Enzymes with meals and Pancreatin, Bromelain or Papaya between meals. On an empty stomach, enteric coated enzymes may more readily enter the blood stream, this may have implications for protein based plaques that have built up. making them available and vulnerable to the Immune System. Cancer cells are coated in fibrin. Fibrin is made of protein. Protease digests protein. Therefore a Biofeedback program choice might be stimulating the Protein Digesting protein. Some cancer cells are coated in fibrin. The fibrin coating may be part of what protects them from immune cells. This may be what is creating the sticky blood according to TCM as it allows them to 'stick' to tissues. Protein-digesting enzymes digest the fibrin coating. Therefore, the "Increase Protease Production" (Stimulates Reactivity) is a worthy Biofeedback program choice to consider.

Enzyme depletion is the result of a primarily cooked food diet. Encourage and educate on eating raw, steamed and juiced veggies and avoiding animal proteins while healing.

14) CHINESE MEDICINE APPROACH TO CANCER PROGRAMS

Macrobiotic (detox) diet:

- Cleanse and support Liver, Kidney and bowels.
- Reassess past emotional issues.

15) BALANCE THE PH:

Some of the causes of an acid state are stress, red meats, sugars, smoking and a lack of alkaline foods and minerals. Excess acidity repels oxygen and creates 'sticky' blood. Start the day with fresh lemon juice. Take a good 'green foods' supplement. Consider 'alkaline water' systems. In extreme cases, a dietary recipe of ¼ tsp of baking soda in water twice a day on empty stomach for 2 weeks is recommended.

16) HARMONIC RATES

For Orgone Generator Or Hololinguistic Program (Limit to 15 min)

EXPLANATION

'Harmonic Rates' are number sequences that capture the energetic 'shape' or essences of substances, conditions, even thoughts and intentions. They operate non-physically, and non-locally (can be broadcast by intent or by computer).

17) OTHER 'TIPS'

Sugar Avoidance:

This is a must for known Cancers. Cancer Cells are nourished by blood glucose. In the 1920's a successful experimental cure involved artificially induced low blood sugar states. Sugar increases acidity, encourages pathogens, depresses immunity and stimulates prostaglandin E2 production, which encourages tumors.

For sugar addiction: use the 'invert' option in Test / Programs /Feedback Homeopathic Activation to train for control over sugar cravings (alternatively: Test/ SCIO EPR Enhancements/Stimulate Reaction/Duplicate Remedy)

- Use Homotoxicology
 - (1) General – from Test / Programs) and
 - (2) Specific (thru Risk Profile) Cancer / “Virtual Dr Test” (Training) to set detox priorities.
- Search 'cancer' in Test / SCIO EPR Enhancements / “Patient Superconscious Reduction Panel”
- Train for Oxygenation and relaxation: Test/Programs/Spinal / ReMuscular-Education for Sportsmen / Oxygen Stim / Start.
- “Oxygenation Stimulation”: (Relaxation and Oxygen Signature Training): Test/Programs / Timed Cybernetic Feedback Therapy, Music, Superlearning / Enabled Timed Therapies / Oxy Stim. (✓ the round ‘Degeneration’ radio button to piggyback onto the training.) .
- Dedicate a session to the ‘supporting immunity’ module covered in our chapters. (See Index)

The following suggestions (information) may help to inspire further research and is for education purposes only:

- Research how Grape juice, grape seed extract, and essential oil of peppermint may help correct pleomorphic imbalance. (seen in DF Blood or Bio Terrain)
- Consider parasite cleansing protocols and/or ‘zapping’ (Reactivity Training).
- Research the Beck Blood Cleaner it is promoted as an excellent blood cleaner for daily use, and makes colloidal silver, too. Consider colloidal silver, as it has historically shown to address over 650 known pathogens.
- Consider Infra red heat pads (see sources for details showing research on the implications this form of radiation may have on ATP and subsequently DNA)
- 103 degrees for 15 minutes has been observed to damage the cell walls, enzymes and DNA telimorease of cancer cells, not healthy cells.

- Research how Alfalfa, Essiac tea and Chaparral, have historically been used to support the body's immune system.
- Research the use of IP6 and Inositol, Silica, Selenium up to 800 mcg.
- Research possible complications related to root canals; if there is no progress with Natural program for cancer – then consider removal.
- See www.drhuggins.com for Biological Dentist list.
- Research the use of 'oxygenators': B 15 (pangamic acid), germanium, stabilized oxydrops, MMS, bio-oxy cleanse, H2O2, bee pollen.
- Educate on the importance of bowel movement, fiber formulas, cleansing and laxative herbs like senna and aloe vera.
- Consider Plant sterols, Microhydrin, Ambrotose, Essential Oils (see Gary Young's protocols for ingesting oils.)

18) SUGAR INVERSION PROTOCOL (using Feedback Homeopathic Activation)

- Locate "white refined sugar" in the Matrix. Type in this signature (# 8217) to the Master Edit box in Feedback Homeopathic Activation.
- OR put some refined white sugar in a glass jar (without metal lid while using) for a sample.
- For the first method, click the 'Invert' check box top right (twice to see it checked).
- For the second method, click 'Take energy in from tray' box first and then click the 'Invert' check box twice.
- Select 'Scan for Potency', and inside the yellow panel, 'Start Main Scan'.
- When the potency suggestions are revealed on the 'X' potency in the yellow panel to transfer it to the 'Type In potency' box. "Close: on the yellow panel.
- Place an unopened bottle of filtered/spring water on the Tray. Select 'Clear Carrier' 3-4 times.
- Select 'Zap'
- It is recommended that the client be in the harness while you are conducting this process.

- Instructions: Whenever there is a sugar craving, first sip the water, and then decide again if the desire for the sugar is still there. Keep the water away from sunlight and EMF's. Add some Colloidal Silver to keep it pure, or use a small glass to pour out the dose. Hold the water in the mouth for 30 seconds before swallowing. Renew the water as the supply dwindles and then 'succuss' it by striking the bottom of the bottle against your palm 10 or more times.
- Final Tip: All of these suggestions are great support for the body when dealing with stress. However, if we do not address the core emotion, as per the Hamer Scan protocol, the stressor will inevitably return. The body is a printout of the Mind. We must respect the body's messages, but look beyond the message to its deeper meaning.

READING

SUPPORTING IMMUNITY

The 'Germ Theory' of Disease, as proposed by Pasteur, dominates modern Western Medical approaches. Other researchers' work indicates that the terrain of the body is a more fundamental disease factor than the germ, which Pasteur admitted on his deathbed. Overuse of antibiotics weakens natural immunity and has spawned new mutant strains of deadly pathogens. The 'answer' to emerging bio-warfare and mutant strains is to strengthen the Immune system.

The Immune System is designed to identify and neutralize what is 'not self' from 'self'. It can be weakened or over-activated (auto-immune diseases) (allergy? Leaky gut? Emotions?)

Multiple systems cooperate in immune function: white blood cells, bone marrow, lymph vessels and organs, spleen, thymus, specialized body cells, blood serum factors and bowel flora.

Immunity is 'built' over time in response to specific 'antigens'. The Immune System evokes 2 primary kinds of response: Cell Mediated and Humoral.

- 1) Cell mediated (delayed response) 'T' (thymus) cells. The thymus has a 'library' of all known human diseases and releases the best mast cell for each challenge. T cells secrete 'cytokines' such as interferon to destroy invaders. New mutant and man-made strains (HIV) may not have a 'library card'
- 2) Humoral Immunity (immediate response) involves antibody (specific protein) production to attack or 'flag' invaders. This is the job of 'B Lymphocytes' produced in the bone marrow. The tonsils, adenoids and appendix regulate B Cells. Marrow also produces Stem Cells and is most stressed by Radiation.

The Lymph System (spleen, thymus, tonsils, lymph nodes) provides continual inter-cellular cleansing. Lymph is cleansed in the nodes by Macrophages (WBC) and is returned to the blood. (Alarm correction balances the lymph)

An Immune system can be weakened (compromised) or over-active, as in Auto Immune disorders. The goal is returning the Immune System to a healthy functional balance.

The organs, glands and cells involved are especially dependent on their internal Enzyme activity, particularly the specialized White Blood Cells who 'digest' invaders with Enzymes. Chronic enzyme depletion through a mainly cooked diet is a major depressor of the Immune System in modern culture.

White sugar impairs the circulation of white blood cell's by about 50%. The WBC is essentially stunned by the refined sugar and unable to function. Marijuana also depresses immunity up to 50%

Chronic Stress suppresses Immunity through exhaustion of the Adrenals leading to Low Thyroid. The resulting low body temperature inhibits normal enzyme function. Bill Nelson's approach to Cancer program is to strengthen the Immune system, rather than suppression through drugs and radiation.

Chronic Infections in the digestive tract (food poisoning, fungus, ulcer-related bacteria, and parasites) can indicate Low Stomach Acid (HCL). These chronic infections (common) drain the Immune system.

Heavy Metals will also depress Immunity, as will certain 'toxic emotions'.

Summary – Immune Suppressors include

- 1 White sugar
- 2 Marijuana
- 3 Chronic Stress > a affects Adrenals > b creates Low Thyroid
- 4 Digestive tract issues leading to leaky gut
- 5 Heavy Metals
- 6 Toxic Emotions

QUANTUM BIOFEEDBACK REACTIVITY ASSESSMENT

Is there a reported high level of colds and flu (more than 2 a year)? Slow healing wounds? Multiple allergies (auto Immune response) can exhaust Immunity. Fatigue, Inflammation, chronic diarrhea, yeast or fungal infections associated. Stress and chronic negative emotions suppress immunity, as does alcohol and other drug use (legal and not).

ACTION

1) HARMONIC RATES

These are not frequencies (as in Rife). Rather these are rates determined by Radionic practitioners and devices that are intended to be broadcast by Quantum Communication and seem to have beneficial effects on the mind, body and spirit.

These are quite powerful and should not be used for more than 15 minutes.

- From the Test Matrix / Research + Reports / Orgone Generator.
- Choose Spiritual Harmony.
- Enter rates into the “Insert a thought” box. Be sure to double space between your entries.
- Set distance (maximum is 1000 meters). Enter the following Rates.
- Up to seven can be combined.
- Consider also entering Rates in the Hololinguistic panel on the Program screen.

Spleen	23800
Enzyme Production	584376	23522
Free Radical Scavenger	253113
Frustration	93200	90000
Immune System	832412	310133	597336
Infection	20450
ELF Radiation	62134
Sadness	45621
Stress	78261
Thymus	15222
Bone Marrow Stress	72221	423222

2) CLASP32/EDUCTOR64 APPLICATIONS: BODYVIEWER FOR IMMUNE SUPPORT

- Program Start:  Load Individual Movie Program /  “Therapist and Unconscious Choices” (Automatic choices from client’s reactivity profile)
- Select: Organ Systems /  Immune System / Click All
- You may also select(1) “Therapies” (Training)/ Weakness of CHI and (2) Psychological /(a) Emotions and (b) Defense Mechanisms
- Select Chakras /  Long Scan Chakra
- Minimize Body Viewer to the bottom Task Bar (Alt Tab to Clasp 32)

3) DISEASE DICTIONARY

Highlight and scroll through the menu to the Immune Weakness program choice (assuming you are not dealing with an Auto Immune condition in which case select Immunopathology).

Select: Electroacupuncture and Bioresonance.

- OK Reveal Text
- Quick Calibrate Patients Reactivity
- Quick Calibrate Patients Bio Resonance

4) SHORT SARCODES – (EAR + ETC) (MUSCLE REEDUCATION + REACTIVITY TRAINING FOR CHANNELS OF ELIMINATION)

This is an excellent selection for re-educating the muscles of the channels of elimination and training with signatures for all of the major organ sarcodes of the body. It is recommended to do this early in the session in order to prepare the body for balancing.

Hint: Should your client have an alarm response, it can be helpful to come back to the Short Sarcodes. (Note: This is not the same as using the “Homotoxicology” training program.)

☞ Perverse Energy, Check reactivity to these signatures

Rectify over 85

Note: Sometimes the very low reactants are more difficult to respond.

Rectification to 60-70 may be sufficient.

7) TEST MATRIX FUNCTIONS

- Using the GOTO box or Search box look for 7228, 7623, 9282, 9293, or 10058 'Stem Cell Stimulator' signatures, check reactive values, Zap (Train) and/or Duplicate as needed.
- Stem cells are produced in the Bone Marrow, which is particularly sensitive to Radiation stress. Up until around age 25, the body will utilize any cell from any tissue type as an 'undifferentiated' or Stem Cell to meet the needs of growth. This natural production slows and virtually stops after physical development is achieved.
- Stem Cells are non-specialized cells similar to those produced when we are growing that the body can send wherever needed. A normal cell will produce a stem cell in the presence of a molecule of Colloidal Silver. It is theoried that Colloidal Silver has historically been used to neutralize 650 known pathogens, and has been referred to as a 'back up immune system'.
- Word Search: 'Labs' or 'Immune Transfer' for Immune Transfer remedies and other specialized Immune enhancers. These activate the protein cell guides, which 'introduce' invaders to the Thymus for assessment and killer T-cell production.
- Word Search appropriate Flower Essences, Imponderables or Homeopathics signatures
- Word search the top 5 Emotional Imponderable Immune Suppressors such as: Unworthiness, Fear, Doubt, Shame and Guilt. Also, anger, resentment

The grid is organized into columns and rows, with some items highlighted in light blue (Best Mental Emotional Similar) and others in red (Energetic Similar). The interface includes various control buttons such as 'Close', 'Screen', 'Constitutionals', and 'More Info On Natural Cooking on the NET'. A small anatomical diagram of the human torso is visible in the bottom right corner of the software window.

TIP! 4 Main Reasons For an Alarm:

1. Electrolyte insufficiency > cell salts (Celtic salt, Himalayan Salt can also be considered.)
2. Lymph system backed up > Short Sarcodes.
3. Emotional resistance > allow them time to "let go", don't push too hard
4. Starting immediately with Test Matrix signatures before getting the client "prepared" with the foundational programs can cause alarms (To prevent alarms: go to "Therapy" (Training Programs) /Risk Profile/Short Sarcodes/Mineral/Nutritional).

2. Test Matrix/ Programs / Nutrition & Homeopathy / “Stabilize Hormones” (Balance Reactivity to Signatures of Hormones)

14) OTHER TIPS

Test Matrix/ Programs / Dark Field Analysis: Check for Pleomorphic Values (Over 90 and below 50 are considered reactant)

- Train with the “Blood Treatments” (Training) Program.
- Consider choosing “White Cell Imbalance”
- Consider choosing “Bone Marrow”
- Piggyback: Bacteria, Fungus, Virus Signatures

Test Matrix/ Programs / Spinal / Original Sarcodes Results: look for significant reactions in the column on the right side of green Original Sarcodes screen ‘Immune System.’

- Higher values – Stress or hyper-reactive
- Lower Values – Stress or hypo-reactive
- Clicking on the name to train
- Use Organ Chart to view all Sarcodes reactions
- On the top menu select “Therapy”, then “Top and Bottom Balance”

Test Matrix / Programs / Anti Aging / Anti Aging: monitor DHEA and HGH reactions.

- Aging from Virus and Free Radical levels can be associated with Immune compromise.

Test Matrix / Programs / Nutrition & Homeopathy / Look for significant reactions to the signatures of Vitamins C, D, E, and all B’s, K, Co Q’s, and EFA’s.

- Increase Enzyme Production (Signature Training Program) (bottom of Nutrition screen)
- Increase All Enzyme Production (Stimulate Enzyme Signature Training)
- Nutrition Profile: type in the stress condition–
• Test disease for best nutritional supplement This checks reactivity and trains with nutrient signatures

Test Matrix / Programs / NLP Emotional Growth Stress Reduction

This program trains with Emotional Imponderables and Neurotransmitter Signatures

- ☞ Relaxation Pulse 12 sec
 - ☞ Mental Factors + Emotions Chart (Shows Emotions Imponderables and Neurotransmitter Patterns)
 - ☞ Test and Treat Emotions with Phase Stabilization (Train)
(Repeat until the Love Index is twice the Frustration Index)
 - ☞ Value of Emotions
 - ☞☞ Top 3 items to add to hold tray
 - ☞ 10 Sec Zap Emotion until Rectify over 85 (shown on NLP Screen, bottom left, in small yellow box)
 - Delete items from the white hold tray.
 - ☞ Value of Neurotransmitters
 - ☞☞ Top 3 items to add to hold tray
 - ☞ 10 Sec Zap of Neurotransmitters (Train Neurotransmitter Signatures) Rectify over 85 (shown on NLP Screen, bottom left, in small yellow box)
- Hint: You may have to close the Mental Factors & Emotion Chart to see the rectification.
- ☞ Mental Factors & Emotion Chart
 - ☞ Make Emotion Chart
 - ☞ Show Emotion/Neuro Trans Chart

- ☞ "Therapy" Tab (top menu bar) (Training Programs)
- ☞ Choose appropriate selection, such as: "Therapy for bottom and top balance" (drop down list)
- ☞ Choices Tab
- ☞ Neurotransmitter
- ☞ "Therapy" Tab(top menu bar) (Training Program)
- ☞ Choose appropriate selection, such as: "Therapy for bottom and top balance" (drop down list)
- ☞ Choices Tab

15) RIFE FREQUENCIES (IMMUNE SYSTEM)

Manual Rife function: Enter Rife frequencies in both Rife Boxes and 2,400,000 in both Scalar boxes balance each 3 minutes.

8 1862 2008 2128 2180 3347 5611 2791 3448 2929 4014 5611
2867 2855 432 465

TIP!

- To more closely simulate the theory of Rife's original work, enter 2,400,000 into both upper and lower Scalar Generator boxes and then the specific "Rife frequency" trivector signature number in the Rife boxes. Rife theorized that this scalar number created a high frequency carrier wave that facilitated the intercellular penetration of his frequencies, taking them deeper into the organs and cells.

OPTIONAL

BICOM + MORA:

- Amplify in Db (Decibels = sound): 33 (This is the standard established minimum.)
- Set Program#: 120 (Basic Balancing)
- Intermittent (In Rife Theory to create a pulse.)
- Note: Wobble On (In Rife Theory creates a sweep.)*
- If using a 10 point sweep with Rife numbers in the Rife boxes (for pathogen signatures), then select 'Intermittent'.

Automatic Interaction (This setting allows for the automatic choice of the client through unconscious reactivity.)

16) IMMUNE ENHANCING NUTRIENTS AND LIFESTYLE FACTORS

READING

The #1 overall dietary suppressor of the Immune System is Refined Sugar. Gently tapping the Thymus will bring an immediate Immune enhancement effect while touching the tip of the tongue to the roof of the mouth. Historically, using a 'Pulsed Dose' of Vitamin C has been used to bring up WBC counts dramatically while avoiding habituation. (Two days of 'Megadose' (up to 10 grams or bowel tolerance) followed by five days at 2000 mg. Repeat cycle) Golden Seal is excellent, as is the Chinese Herb 'nu zhen zi'.

The following suggestions (information) may help to inspire further research and is provided for education purposes only:

Herbs: Olive Leaf Extract is a good Anti Viral. St John's Wart fights AIDS and EBV. Astragalus (not in presence of fever), Bayberry, Fenugreek, Hawthorn, Horehound, and Licorice Root, enhance immunity.

Glandulars: Thymus, Spleen, Bone Marrow, and Adrenal

Bath for Radiation Detox: 2 cups raw Sea Salt, 2 cups of Baking Soda in a 20-minute bath.

Colloidal Silver: A 'backup immune system' (Bob Beck). Neutralizes 650 pathogens. Make your own, it's better and cheaper.

Immunity responds well to visualization. Visualize your WBC's like an Army clearing the way. Use the colors Gold and Blue.

Fast regularly. Give your body a chance to detox naturally and often.

Get enough quality sleep. Sleep before midnight is twice as beneficial as after.

Ayurvedic Detox:

- (1) Warm Sesame Oil Massage is the best anti-oxidant program.
- (2) Swish a mouthful of Organic Pure Sunflower Oil for 20 minutes and spit it out in the toilet. This draws toxins from the bloodstream as well as dental areas. (aka Oil Pulling)

BILL'S 'RULES FOR THE IMMUNE SYSTEM'

- 1) Avoid Antibiotic use ('anti-life')
- 2) Avoid white sugar - reduces WBC count 50% within 1 hour
- 3) Identify and reduce Stress
- 4) Deal with Toxicity
- 5) Remove mercury amalgams
- 6) Avoid Geopathic and electromagnetic stress - i.e. 60 cycle fields, fluorescent lights, toxic buildings
- 7) Maintain optimum nutrition
- 8) Avoid x-rays, protect yourself from daytime flying (bio shield)
- 9) Resolve negative emotional patterns
- 10) Avoid dietary stimulants - caffeine, tobacco, alcohol, salty foods, food additives

Be happy! In India, 'Laughing Clubs' help enhance immunity and well being. See funny movies; avoid negative media, people, and situations. Give and accept Love.

Take heart: human resilience is amazing. We are adaptive and programmed to survive and thrive. Recent and coming Earth changes are changing our biology; we are being re-wired for absolute immunity and transformation into a new species.
